

NINE HUSKERS END GRID CAREER

Nebraska Closes Successful Football Season

TEAM LOSES ONE OF EIGHT GAMES

Cornhuskers of 1929 Bow Only to Powerful Panthers From Pittsburgh by Closer Score Than Any Other Victims of Champions.

HUSKERS WINS UNDISPUTED CONFERENCE TITLE

Three Foes Are Able to Hold Biblemen to Tie Scores; Injury Jinx Dwells in Scarlet Camp Before Many of Season's Crucial Tilts.

By JACK ELLIOTT.

Closing the 1929 football season with a record of winning the Big Six conference for the second consecutive season, turning in but one defeat out of eight starts, proclaims the season a great success and does just credit to Dana X. Bible, the Nebraska football mentor who has just closed his first year as a Cornhusker coach. Only the powerful Pitt Panthers from Pitt were able to down Coach Bible's first Nebraska team.

Starting out the season with one of the strongest football eleven in the country, the Southern Methodist Mustangs, Nebraska easily demonstrated that they would be a powerful eleven under the tutelage of Dana Bible. The Mustangs, winners of the Southwest conference and unbeaten during the season, were held to a scoreless tie by the Bible team. On the Mustang eleven were some great stars of the south which included "Choc" Saunders, candidate for the All-American selection, Skeeters, Mason and Long. The Nebraska eleven, new to the style of Coach Bible, had all the indications of being one of the most powerful in the middle west.

With the season opener against the Tieds turned into history, Coach Bible turned his attention to the second inter-sectional clash of the season, the Syracuse Orange. The Orange eleven were reputed to be one of the greatest eleven in the east and when the Bible team left for Syracuse there were doubts in the minds of Cornhusker football followers as to how the Scarlet would fare against the crew coached by Lew Andrews. The Huskers went into the game and were quickly scored on by the eastern eleven but a rally followed which netted the Nebraska two touchdowns and a victory over the east. It was Coach Bible's first victory as coach of Nebraska.

The next and third game on the Husker slate found Nebraska meeting another inter-sectional opponent, the time the Pitt Panthers who were bidding for a national title. For the past two years the Husker had met the Panther eleven but this season found Coach Jock Sutherland coming to Lincoln with the greatest Pitt team ever turned out by the eastern school. Two All-American griders took the field against Nebraska that day and although the Huskers scored a touchdown they were forced to take their first defeat, 12 to 7. And thus the only defeat of the season was scored against Nebraska Pitt went through a nine game season without a defeat and was proclaimed one of the greatest eleven in the entire country. The Nebraska eleven holding Pitt to a 12 to 7 score, was accredited to holding the eastern eleven to the closest score of the season, other Pitt opponents falling by large scores.

Conference Teams Tough. With the three hardest games of the season penned into the pages of Cornhusker history, Nebraska now advanced into competition with its conference, the Big Six. Missouri, old time rivals of Nebraska, was the first on the slate and were out to cop a title and down the Huskers. Journeying to Columbia for what appeared to be the title contest, the Huskers found the Tigers on edge for an early touchdown, the Huskers battled the Tigers throughout the entire game until the final minutes of play when a forward pass to Steve Hokus netted the Huskers a touchdown and a successful kick tied the score at which the game ended. The Huskers thus had finished four games with one win, one defeat and two tie games.

Kansas came to Lincoln for the Homecoming game and the second conference foe of the Huskers had turned in an impressive record so far during the season and were headed by the great Jim Bausch, pile driver of the Kansas offense. The Kansas-Nebraska game was one of the hardest fought of the season and the Cornhuskers came out with a 12 to 6 win over the Hargis crew, thus holding their leadership in the Big Six conference.

Biblemen Get Rest. After this five-game schedule

CORNHUSKER GRID MENTOR.

Coach Dana X. Bible, Nebraska's football mentor who has just completed his first year as head football coach of the Cornhuskers. The year 1929 with Nebraska winning the championship of the Big Six conference was a most successful one and far more than football followers of the Scarlet had anticipated. In one year at Nebraska Coach Bible has won the entire support of the student body, faculty and alumni. His work as a coach before he came to Nebraska and during his first year here stamped him as one of the best in the country. But it is not only at coaching that Dana Bible has won the warm friendship of all who know him; it is his personality, his character and his sportsmanship that have won for him the esteem of entire Cornhuskerland.

The Huskers were ready for a rest which was slated for the next week end. Injuries were costly in the Kansas games and two weeks of the rest resuming participation on the gridiron found the Huskers ready to meet the Oklahoma Sooners on Nov. 15 at Lincoln. The Sooner-Husker game resulted in the third tie for Nebraska, the game ending in a 13 to 13 score. Nebraska was minus the services of Clair Sloan and Ray Richards in the Oklahoma game or the final score might have been different. These two were the backbone of the Husker line and backfield but a tie game did not alter Nebraska's standing at the head of the Big Six and Bible now turned his attention to the Kansas Aggies who were out for their first conference title.

The Husker team journeyed down to Manhattan to administer a 10 to 6 defeat to the McMillin crew and returned to Lincoln still the leaders of conference football. The Aggie-Nebraska game was another close fought battle with the Aggies close on the heels of the Cornhuskers throughout the game.

Iowa State was Nebraska's opponent for the season's finale and a 31 to 12 game resulted with the Huskers completely outplaying the team from the Hawkeye state. This gave Nebraska three wins and two tie in the conference to cop the title for the second consecutive year. All other teams in the conference had lost one or more games, giving Nebraska a clear title as champion.

Injuries Prove Jinx. It was a hard season for the team and a hard season for Coach Dana Bible. Five of the hardest games on the schedule came at the beginning of the season which was

Lewis, McBride Inaugurate New Style of Football Program for Thousands of Cornhusker Fans

Jimmy Lewis of the athletic department is developing something new in the way of football programs in his capacity as editor of Tales of the Cornhuskers. Programs include several features in the past two years that have added greatly to the popularity of the magazine.

Evidence of this is the fact that sales this year increased 6,000 over that of last year despite a decreased attendance at games. In addition the athletic department sold quite a number of programs on a general subscription rate to people out in the state.

More Money For Cobs.

Approximately 55,000 Tales of the Cornhuskers were sold in the stadium this year. Distribution was in the hands of the Corn Cobs who received ten per cent of the receipts. The largest sale at any one game was at the Pittsburgh-Nebraska tilt when over 13,000 programs were purchased. The crowd of 20,000 at the Southern Methodist game bought the second largest number, about 7,000.

Five hundred copies of the programs for the Nebraska-Kansas Aggie tilt on Thanksgiving day were sold to Warren Paper company, an eastern firm who sold paper supplies to the athletic department. The Warren company is using them as samples to show other colleges and universities throughout the country. In addition a copy of the magazine published for the K-Aggie tilt was sent to every high school in the state and to every graduated letterman.

Contains Varied Material.

Tales of the Cornhuskers is of the magazine type instead of being a mere program with "name, number and picture of every player in the game." In addition to numbers, pictures of players and tentative lineups the 1929 edition of Tales of the Cornhuskers contained numerous cartoons, sport stories, feature articles and messages from university officials and prominent alumni. James C. Lewis, formerly a Nebraska cross country and track athlete, edited the magazine this year assisted by Gregg McBride, of the Lincoln Star sports department. Lewis had charge of the magazine makeup, sale and business management. Student contributors included Elmer Skov and Jack Elliott, both of The Daily Nebraskan staff.

Football "Layouts" Included.

Art work in the Tales of the Cornhuskers this year included three color cover designs, layouts of Nebraska and opposing football warriors and humorous cartoons depicting interesting sidelights on the game. A weekly feature was the column by Gregg McBride entitled, "Drippings from the Dope Bucket."

Another digression from the old style of programs was the practice of eliminating all advertisements from the inside pages. Only three advertisements were run in each issue, those being on both sides of the back cover and the inside of the front cover. The old style of program formerly used at Nebraska and still used at many other schools contained many little advertisements scattered throughout the magazine. Elimination of them brought much commendation from fans, according to Lewis.

Obviously a neat profit is realized from the sale of these Tales of the Cornhuskers. After the ten per cent of the receipts has gone to the Corn Cobs the profit is figured and divided equally between the athletic department and the N club.

Single copies are sold in the stadium as well as through the mail. A season's subscription costs one dollar.

SEVERAL GIVEN NATIONAL HONOR FOR ABILITY

Pawnee City Lad and Verdun Flash Get All America Mention From Many Sports Writers Due to Aggressive Style and Pigskin Sense.

By JACK ELLIOTT.

When Nebraska's Scarlet and Cream Cornhuskers played the final game of the 1929 season with the Iowa State Cyclones on Memorial stadium field Thanksgiving day, nine Husker grid-ders played their last game of football wearing the colors of Nebraska.

Nine Cornhusker football players who had seen Nebraska triumph in two successive years over all conference foes and win the first two championships of the Big Six conference for Nebraska have finished their football career at the Husker school.

Heading the list of graduating seniors is Raymond Richards of Pawnee City, Richards was by far the most outstanding tackle and linesman in the conference this season and for two years he has been named as an all-conference tackle. He was honored by Rockne-Warner-Jones in the selection of the All-America for 1929 and he was named on several All-America teams.

Plays New Years. Richards will play his last football game at San Francisco on New Year's day when he represents the Husker school in the western lineup of all stars from the western colleges and universities. Richards accepted the invitation to play with the western eleven and will leave Dec. 16.

Playing three years with the Nebraska Cornhuskers, Richards fulfilled the expectations of his coaches and followers of Nebraska football who predicted during his freshman year that he would come up to the standard of great tackles that have played on the Cornhusker eleven. Although he was hounded by the injury jinx for two years, he never failed to be taken out for any great length of time and when he came back into the (Continued on Page 4.)
