

SPORTS PROGRAM OFFERS CHANCES TO ALL ENTRIES

Every University Man May Enjoy Intramurals Now Scheduled.

NEW EVENTS RUN OFF

Series Attracts Thousands; Vogeler Is Director Of Contests.

By Art Mitchell. A program of twenty sports, one or more of which is scheduled for every week in the school, features intramural athletics for men at the University of Nebraska.

The sports range from the famed barnyard golf, horseshoe pitching, to wrestling and boxing and other red-blooded pursuits. The program gets under way the second week of the school year, and continues throughout both semesters.

Thousands of young men are attracted by the program, which is directed by Rudolph Vogeler. Mr. Vogeler is a graduate of the Ithaca School of Physical Training, and a former student at Cornell university. He received his A. B. degree here and is working for a master's degree in psychology at the present time, which he hopes to obtain in the spring. He is also swimming coach. His team placed second in the conference last year, and advance information indicates that an even more successful season is now under way.

Many Compete. So far this year five sports have been concluded, and four others are under way. Hare and bound racing attracted 258 men in the five races. Two hundred and fifty-five men participated in the water polo tournament on the various fraternity teams. Three hundred sixty-three played soccer. Handball attracted 30 or 40. The other sport completed is the intercollegiate playground baseball tournament, in which 82 men played.

The four sports now under way are: wrestling, which was participated in by 70 men; boxing, by 40 or 50; inter-fraternity basketball, by approximately 500 men, and swimming.

Second Tourney Begins. The second intercollegiate tournament has been started. It is basketball, and the first games were played Thursday night. Intercollegiate sports were started to offer non-fraternity students a chance to compete in sports, but so far, most of them have failed to avail themselves of the opportunity, Mr. Vogeler said today.

Other interfraternity sports which will come later in the year are: class B basketball, basketball free throw, carnival relay, horseshoes, rifle shooting, tennis, golf, indoor track, outdoor track, playground baseball, volleyball and outdoor water carnival.

The swimming meet, under way at the present time, is a new event this year, and has been unusually successful for such an event, Mr. Vogeler said.

"Shin Game" Added. Soccer and volleyball likewise were added to the list this year. Soccer took hold readily on the campus, and no doubt will be continued next year. Volleyball has not started yet, but will soon. An outdoor water carnival is to be staged in the spring for the first time.

In explaining the program, Mr. Vogeler pointed out that the different types of competition, both individual and group, offer a chance for every person to compete. "It is the aim of the university to provide exercise and recreation for every man in the school, and he will avail himself of the opportunities offered," he said.

BASKETBALL FOR COEDS SCHEDULED TO START SOON

Basketball season for university women will start Jan. 7. Teams are to be filed at the intramural office by Tuesday, Dec. 17, according to Alice Buffert, sport head. Two teams will form a group. Each group is in addition asked to choose a major student in physical education for a coach or to apply at the intramural office for one.

Practices for basketball will be held from Jan. 7 to Feb. 3. Group and ladder tournaments will be held during February until March 7. Definite practices for each group will be scheduled by the intramural office. All women who are to coach basketball will meet Jan. 6 in the gymnasium.

CORNHUSKER CAPTAIN.

Captain George Farley, pilot of the 1929 Cornhuskers, is another Nebraska backfield ace who leaves the university this spring. Beginning his freshman year Farley quickly rose to fame as a backfield ace. For two years under the regime of Coach Ernest K. Bear, Farley played a defensive fullback position but this year under Dana Bible, Farley was moved to an offensive halfback position which he played in great fashion. His line plunging and drives for needed yardage were great assets to Nebraska throughout the season.

Nebraska Band, in New Red Capes, Lends Snap to Games and Rallies; Members Air Opinions on Weather

By Elmont Waite.

No longer may smart New York columnists call the Nebraska bandmen "messenger boys." The military department this year provided capes, lined with a brilliant red, to complete the uniform of the E. O. T. C. musicians. The immediate and striking improvement in the appearance of the unit was noticed and commented upon by many of the Nebraska football fans, according to William T. "Billy" Quick, bandmaster. The director also expressed great satisfaction with the work of the band this season.

"We have one of the best bass sections we have had in years," he said. "The band is very well balanced, and is doing fine work on concert programs as well as on marches and drill work. We have a total picked enrollment of 93 pieces."

The band opened its concert season with a program given in the coliseum Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8. The second program, which is to be broadcast over KFAB, will be presented Jan. 19.

Makes Two Trips. Two trips were made this year. A fifty-piece band made the journey to Columbia, Mo., with the team, and the whole band accompanied the Scarlet Grizzlies to Manhattan, Kas. At Manhattan, cold weather took the shivering bandmen by surprise, and interfered a bit with the program.

"One thing about these trips," chattered a frozen horn player, "they certainly qualify one to go on one of Byrd's expeditions. We may all become great explorers, who knows?" (One who looks over Stephens college is not necessarily a great explorer.)

Weather Man Conspires. For traveling with the team is not always fun. Sometimes it rains and snows. Sometimes it is just snow. Sometimes it is hot. Very very hot. (A band uniform weighs much more than the average heavy overcoat, and is always either too warm or too cold.) Half the time, the field is covered with deep, sticky mud, which makes marching between halves a real

ROCK WINS SECOND A. A. U. BOXING-TITLE

Nebraska Man Wins Title Match by Kayo Route in Omaha Meet.

AMATO PLACES SECOND

One University of Nebraska boxer today again wore the A. A. U. state championship crown in his division. He is Funds Rock, who won the western division A. A. U. title three years ago. Rock won the championship of the 125 pound class in the state when he won by a kayo in the first round of his final match Wednesday night. He won his first fight when he knocked out Inda, another Lincoln lad but not from the university, in the second round of their bout Tuesday night.

Amato Fights Hard. Amato, a 126 pounder from the university took second place in his class. He lost on an unpopular decision in his first bout Tuesday to Cherry, Laurel, Neb., but so injured Cherry that the latter could not continue. Amato automatically took Cherry's place, and Sofo of Omaha beat him in the title bout of the class. The fight was easily the best of the evening. Amato took the first two rounds, but the referee awarded Sofo the fight on his showing in the last stanza. Van Valkenberg, 118 pounder, won his first match, getting a decision over Al Smith of Omaha, but dropped his second to Swepstone, also of Omaha after an extra round had been fought. Hutchinson, the other university representative, lost in his first bout against Inda of Lincoln Tuesday night. The decision was a close one.
