HUSKERS DRILL DEFENSE PLAYS FOR OKLAHOMA

Black's Legion Prepares Stonewall for Ace of Sooner Quint.

MAY REVAMP LINEUP

Coach injects Steve Hokuf into guard position for game Monday.

The Missouri-Nebraska game at Columbia Saturday night had an effect on the Big Six conference standing and turned into a championship fight for first place honors in the conference.

Tom Churchill, three-letter basketball and Oklahoma's all-around athlete will lead the red clad Sooners against the Huskers Monday and it is around this youth that Coach McDermott hopes to smother the Huskers chances to keep in the running in the Big Six conference basketball race.

May Change Lineup

Coach Black may revamp his starting lineup for the Sooner game with the probability of Steve Hokuf starting at one of the guard posts. Hokuf, a sophomore and football letterman, has developed into one of the best guards on the varsity squad.

The Sooners so far this season have been victorious in two games over Texas at Austin and over Southern Methodist at Dallas in a pair of games. In their first start in the conference the McDermott crew dropped a fast opener to the Kansas Jayhawkers and a non-conference tilt with the Oklahoma Aggies.

For the past three years the Oklahoma tribe have ruled the basketball court in the valley conference but with one defeat already chalked up on their record, it takes on the appearance of a new roller this season.

Mathematical Society Prints Camp's Article

Prof. C. C. Camp of the department of mathematics has recently published in the bulletin of the American Mathematical society, a review of "Nouvelles Tables de Log n" by F. J. Duarts of Paris, Index Generalis, 1927.

For the past three years Oklahoma has been bringing a basketball team to Lincoln to meet the Cornhuskers and each time returning to Norman with a victory. For three years the Sooners have been dominating things in conference basketball and Monday night this same crew of redskins come to Lincoln for the first conference game between them this year but not the undefeated team as in the past.

W. A. A. INTRAMURALS

Hooray! Pin biting champions stir up keen competition among the coeds. Chi Omega comes across as champion ball slinger so far with a score of 1383. Not so bad for the weaker sex—huh? After a week of continual playing they finally managed to discover the league winners. Can you imagine—Alpha O scored high in league one—more power to 'em. The Gamma Phis with their hefty slingers managed to place high in league two—they would. The Kappa Deltas by fair means or foul won in league three. League four? Oh, yes, Chi Omega must have shown some real skill. Oh, well, Alpha Delta Theta kicked through in league six and Sigma Eta Chi rolled up the most points in league seven—no foolin'! Delta Zeta (yeah, really) came out ahead in league eight. All these teams will play off an elimination tourney this week. The big champion pin slinger and runner-up will be decided this week. Look at the schedule and find out when your team plays—this seems to be of vital importance. Intermission!

Intermission! Listen closely and you shall hear. Groups may enter two teams in the tournament. If two or three of the team members should happen to know anything about basketball the team would be qualified to enter class A. Class B takes care of all those poor unsuspecting coeds who don't know what a basketball looks like. If you can't bully enough girls into playing to make up two teams enter the one and only in class A. Points are awarded for the number of teams entered and for the winners, so by bribes or threats drag out two teams. A round robin tournament will be played off, followed by an elimination tourney which is to be run off in double header style—whatever that is. Majors will act as officials and here's hoping they know more about it than most of us. It might be a good idea to continue practices though none is scheduled—at least it develops your wind power and speed. It's good training for—well—most anything. Games are scheduled between the hours of 5 and 6, 6 and 8, and even between 8 and 9. Imagine the coeds out at such hours! Well, well!
