Fellman Election Proposal Ratified MINORITY FACTION STAGES COMEBACK

STUDENTS GIVE FINAL APPROVAL TO NEW SCHEME

THREE FACTIONS LISTED

Hereafter Voters Will Get Choice of Officially Recognized Party.

BY POLITICUS.

The Fellman plan—the first referendum of any consequence to be determined by University of Nebraska students at the polls—is now an established fact on this campus. Beginning with the next elections, in the middle of May, when the Student council members for next year are to be selected, the proposal will take effect.

The essence of the plan is to give representation in the Student council of all three factions, which were simultaneously given official sanction to exist at this election. Each group is to have as many council members in proportion to its voting strength at the polls, 125 votes being the minimum.

One of the largest majorities ever to be recorded in the history of university elections, the results being 1,360 to 295, the victory for the plan did not come as a surprise to most Nebraska students. Prior to the election much sentiment was aroused among the undergraduates and from all appearances the opinions were favorable toward the plan.

David Fellman, graduate student in political science and member of this year's Student council, was the sponsor of the amendment. He began working on it early last fall but prolonged the council's discussion on it so that the amendment could be made into perfect form and thereby satisfy all parties concerned.

When the faculty committee on student organizations passed on the bill, however, special provision was made for the faculty to rescind its action should the plan fail to do what it sets out to do—give representation to the minority Greek faction and to the bars. It is supposed that the plan will be given at least a year's trial.

Temple Is Scene of Many a Man's Downfall as He Yields to Sweet Voice of Some Vote-Getting Coed

BY ROBERT BERNSTEINE.

The Temple, Tuesday, was the scene of all the political gambling and inter-faction aspirations of a university election. Attractive women were stationed about the Temple, and approached each student passer-by, with the beguiling proposition, "Have you voted?"

Yet the activity concerning the election was not confined entirely to the neighborhood of the Temple. Throughout Tuesday afternoon, bright colored automobiles were driven to the curb at the Temple, and young men escorted young ladies from the automobiles to the voting booth, telling them at the same time just whom to vote for. The Yellow Jackets rallied and serenaded on Monday night, in an attempt to strengthen the numbers of their voting force. The Blue Shirts lunched at the Zeta Beta Tau house Tuesday noon, at the zenith of election day, and not far removed from the midst of the melee at the Temple.

Early Rising Politicians. Voters were in greatest force during the morning hours, and in some quarters it was even observed that a death of interest was shown by many of the most powerful groups. Nevertheless, a lively excitement prevailed at the Temple throughout the day. Leaders of the several political groups were seen about the Temple most of the time during the election, but their bland looks, or perhaps their poker faces, failed to reveal with what anxiety they faced the results.

Although the campus maintained its normal appearance and classes proceeded with the usual number of sleepy-eyed juniors and gaping frosh, not to neglect the sophomores attacked by spring fever, there had been considerable agitation leading up to the election.

It's a Game!

A keen observer at the election headquarters might have observed that many a student was well informed beforehand as to whom he would vote for. For example, whether the box after the first or the second name would be the proper location for the X. In many cases this situation so far prevailed that the student was unaware as to whom he voted for, but merely that his X occupied a certain position.

However the election proceeded with most of the regularity of a climax to a university campaign, at which the politics of an American congress are adapted to use in college circles and usually end to the satisfaction of either one party or another the inevitable finish to any election.

CYRIL WINKLER WINS AG CLUB PRESIDENCY

Dillon Is Elected to Vice Presidency; Fahrney Is Secretary.

PHIPPS NEW TREASURER

In a closely contested election, Cyril Winkler, '31, was elected as president of Ag club, men's organization on the college of agriculture campus yesterday. Winkler's vote was 67 while 54 ballots were cast for Glen Hedlund, his opponent.

Otto Dillon, '31, was elected vice president of the organization by a large majority, the vote being 76 to 48. Martin Kelly was Dillon's opponent.

In the race for secretary of the club, Emory Fahrney, '31, polled over twice the number of votes as cast for his opponent, Gordan Neurenberger. The vote was 105 to 48. Hansel Phipps, '31, had no opposition for the office of treasurer. Votes cast for him totaled 105.

Richard Cole, '31, was elected as student representative of the agricultural college publication board. This election was not limited to members of Ag club, but was for students of the entire college. Cole's opponent was Arthur Mauch. The vote was 96 to 60.

KLUB PLANS TRYOUTS FOR PLAY ORCHESTRA

Trials for Spring Show Band Scheduled for This Evening.

Orchestra try-outs for the Kosmet Klub spring show will be held in room 203 of the Temple building, Wednesday, from 7 to 8 o'clock. According to Joyce Ayres, in charge of tryouts, an orchestra of fifteen pieces composed of the following is wanted: four violins, two pianos, two trumpets, three saxophones (must double clarinet), one banjo, one bass (preferably string or string with double on sousaphone), one trombone and one drum. The two piano players will be used to change off in rehearsing for the show.

All those who try out must submit their schedules to Ayres and must also give their standing in school (whether sophomore, junior or senior). It will be necessary for them to give the number of hours they made in school the last semester and the semester preceding that. Regular university scholastic requirements for participation in activities will be in effect.

Application blanks will be available in the Kosmet Klub rooms, in the Annex building, from Tuesday noon on. There are still a few vacancies left on the various staffs for the spring show, according to Ayres. Especially is this true in regard to the musical staff. Any one who is musically inclined and who can give the necessary time, will be welcomed on the musical side of the production, he stated.

The Lincoln Rotary club and Wesleyan university are co-operating with the forum committee in conducting the luncheon Friday and have arranged to have it at the chamber of commerce rather than at the Nebraskan hotel in order to accommodate the large attendance which is expected.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS HEAR INDIAN TALKER

Group Attends Dinner at Home of Rev. Fawell Saturday Night.

The Student Volunteers held an Indian dinner at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Fawell Saturday night. Indian customs, food and clothes carried out the theme of the dinner. In addition to the regular members of the group several Indian missionaries and Mr. I. Jog, a native of India, were present.

Mr. Jog spoke on "India from the Standpoint of a Nationalist," stressing the fact that there could be no compromise concerning the self rule situation. Indians under the present British rule are not even allowed to immigrate into other British possessions. In Mr. Jog's opinion neither the English labor party nor Lord Irwin, new viceroy to India, can do much to help India toward independence.

Mr. Jog advocated civil disobedience on a non-cooperation basis as the remedy most apt to be successful. Indian songs were sung by Paul Thompson. Miss Jessie Bragg talked on "The Situation in India Today as a Missionary Sees it."

The next meeting of the Student Volunteers is to be Feb. 20 at the Baptist student house, 1440 G street. Mrs. Kim, the national president of the organization, will be present on that night.

Party Takes Three of Five Contested Offices; Brown, Kelly, Comstock, Pinkerton Take Class Posts; Mattson Will Be Ivy Day Orator.

PROM GIRL RACE IS CLOSE; NO WIDE MARGINS

Mildred Orr, Nyle Speiler, Helen Whitmore and Faye Williams Receive Highest Number of Votes Of Seven Candidates Entering Lists.

BY POLITICUS.

Turning out en masse to the polls, the yellow jackets, minority fraternity faction, were able to take three out of a possible group of five offices filled at the second semester student elections held Tuesday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

John Brown, senior president; William Comstock, sophomore president; and Arthur Pinkerton, freshman president are the successful yellowjackets to attain campus positions. The Ivy day orator, Russell Mattson, and the junior president, Robert Kelly, were the places obtained by the blue shirts, majority fraternity party.

The most surprising feature of the whole election was the success of the yellowjackets, who have been behind in all balloting for the past several years. Because their slate was incomplete, the bars did not expect to gain any headway at this time, so there was no surprise there.

That all is not well in the blue shirt camp, following its taste of defeat, partially at least, is evidenced by the following statement made by Stanley Day, president of the faction, after the results had been made known:

"I cannot say that I am dissatisfied with the results but I am certainly disappointed. I believe with a little more co-operation shown by all members of the faction we could have swept the election as we have done before."

Carl Hahn, president of the yellowjackets, says he is satisfied with the outcome. "It's just as much as we could expect," he declares, "and I am thankful for the fine support given the candidates by our faction members."

Unopposed on the ballot, Georgia Wilcox was elected without any trouble. Miss Wilcox will represent the college of agriculture the remainder of the semester, filling a vacancy caused by the departure of the former councilwoman, Mildred Orr, Delta Delta Delta.

Nyle Speiler, Gamma Phi Beta; Helen Whitmore, Alpha Chi Omega; and Faye Williams, Alpha Omicron Pi, emerged victorious from the list of seven who had filed for Prom Girl. The winner will be selected from the four successful candidates.

MISS OLSON EXPLAINS GIRL RESERVES WORK

Secretary's Tasks, Rewards Are Set Forth by Vespers Talker.

"A Girl Reserve secretary must be a resource in herself—she should sense the real values of life, not merely those superficial ones," declared Violet Olsen, Girl Reserve secretary, in her talk at Vespers Tuesday evening. The meeting was led by Dorothy Thurlow.

"Many Girl Reserve secretaries become successful in bigger things. The age limit should be between twenty-one and thirty-five years; however, it is not a matter of years, but of experience, attitude, and understanding. Salaries range from $1,500 to $3,800 which depends on the community the secretary is working in.

"Some are forced to begin at a lower price because the standards of the community are lower. She should have a course in commercial or fine arts, or applied design and she must know the modern educational viewpoint to successfully handle her position. Experience in church work or such organizations as campfires and girl scouts is a valuable aid.

"The viewpoint of the secretary should be of value to the girls she is helping, but she must also command their respect. The purpose of the secretary does not lie in trying to make her girls so individual as not to fit in the social order, but rather to develop their awareness," the speaker concluded.

"Most of us see only the obvious. We should see past the actual facts, whether they be gross or subtle, to attain the real values of life."

Lawrence R. Plank, minister of the Unitarian church of Omaha, will talk to the young people of the All Souls Unitarian church of Lincoln Wednesday noon, Feb. 19, in the northwest room of the Temple cafeteria. "Art that Nature Makes" will be the theme of his talk. All students are invited to attend.
