MAY QUEEN AND MORTAR BOARDS WILL BE CHOSEN

Election Tomorrow Decides Who Fills Honorary Positions.

ONLY WOMEN MAY VOTE

Juniors and Seniors Select Queen; Seniors Vote On Mortar Boards.

Candidates for Mortar Board for next year, and the May Queen and her maid of honor will be elected Wednesday, Feb. 26, at polls in the main corridor of Social Science, and at the Home Economics parlors on the college of agriculture campus. The polls in Social Science will be open between 9 and 5 o'clock, while those at the Home Economics parlors will only be open between 12 and 1 o'clock. Senior women are eligible to vote for the candidates for Mortar Board, and both junior and senior women may vote for the May Queen.

In voting for the candidates for Mortar Board, the senior women will be instructed to vote for not less than six nor more than twenty women in the present junior class whom they think deserve the honor of membership in this senior honorary. No ballots which contain less or more names than the specified number will be counted.

Thirty Selected.

The thirty girls polling the highest number of votes in this election will be those from whom the present chapter of Mortar Board will select its successors. The list will first be checked for scholarship, and anyone who is ineligible because of scholarship will be taken from the original list of thirty.

The first requirements for membership in Mortar Board is scholarship, according to the ruling made by the national organization. The local standard set for the Nebraska chapter is an average of eighty for all previous semesters, and a record clear of all conditions, incompletes or failures.

The second consideration upon which the selection of future Mortar Boards is based is a girl's participation in campus activities, not simply the number with which she has identified herself, but the quality of service she has rendered to those in which she has engaged.

Number Not Fixed.

Unlike Innocents, the membership in Mortar Board is not set to a definite number, for a chapter may have as few as six girls, and as many as twenty. It is only within these limits that the number of girls in a chapter of Mortar Board is specified.

May Queen and Mortar Board both are regarded as representative positions. For this reason all those who are eligible to vote are urged to appear at the polls on Wednesday, so that the selection of these people may represent as large a section of campus opinion as possible.

Polls will be in charge of members of Mortar Board, with Gretchen Standeven in general charge. Identification cards will be required of all those who wish to vote, and the names on each card will be checked with junior and senior lists provided by the registrar's office. Ballots will be counted by members of the advisory board of Mortar Board, but no announcement of the results will be made until Ivy day, May 2, when the May Queen will be crowned at a formal ceremony, and the girl who polled the second highest number of votes will appear as her maid of honor. Future Mortar Boards will be masked at the afternoon service on Ivy day.

DR. THOMPSON LIKES PRESENT DAY YOUTHS

Former Head of Ohio Uni Says Young People Are Sensible.

"There's nothing wrong with the present day youth," Dr. William Oxley Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State university, told a Lincoln Star reporter Saturday.

Dr. Thompson is to deliver a series of daily lectures at the First Presbyterian church this week and an address before the university convocation Thursday morning.

"Pleasant comradeship" is the way he describes the freedom of modern youth. "I think young people now are pretty sensible. People worry about how various problems, including liquor, will affect them, but I am pretty sure that they will take a sane attitude," Dr. Thompson declared.

Although Dr. Thompson is seventy-five years old, he is still active in church and civic affairs. Not only in his judgment of modern youth, but of international relations, prohibition and other subjects, he bespeaks the tolerance and love of mankind of a man who has lived well and, looking back, is able to appreciate the essentials of life.

JOURNALISTS ADOPT ALL SHORT WORDS

Washington State Teacher Says Headlines Are Scantily Clad.

Newspaper headlines will wear short dresses in spite of the fashion, according to Elmer F. Beth, Washington State college instructor in journalism, who maintains that brevity is the soul of the newspaper.

"If there is anything new in words, the headline writer adopts it—but it must be brief," declares the state college man. "No matter what style dictators say, the journalist will clothe his work in scanty dresses. The newspaperman is forever trying to simplify short, active, descriptive, suggestive words."

Sometimes he invents new ones, sometimes he makes combinations, and sometimes he chops an old word into pieces. He borrows short words from political, scientific or sports cant. He lifts monosyllables from foreign languages. But all the while he is attempting desperately to keep in circulation pictur-esque literary words that are short and which lend color and flavor."

Some of the best known products of newspaper jargon, according to Mr. Beth, are "probe," "loot," "hit-run," "defy," "boozie," "flop," "thug," "flag" and "cuss," expressions which surely carry out the characteristic purposes of brevity and forcefulness.

Morrill Hall Contains Art Work Entitled "The Pink Pinafore."

The "Pink Pinafore," a painting by Robert Henri, artist of national repute who died recently, is now on exhibition in fine arts corridor in Morrill hall. The picture is a study of a small snub-nosed girl in a pink apron, and is considered to be typical of his work.

Robert Henri is said to be one of the leading figures in the school of American paintings. The picture was recommended to be purchased by the school of fine arts by Royal Cortissoz and Lila Mechtlin, the two art experts appointed by the University of Nebraska to purchase pictures for the art collection. The picture is the property of the MacBeth gallery in New York.

The pictures for the collection are bought each year from the sum bequeathed by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hall who also left their entire group of pictures and art objects to the University.

CLASS CHAIRMEN DECIDE TO ELECT MINOR OFFICERS

Three of Four Presidents Chosen Announce They Will Call Meets.

COMSTOCK IS UNDECIDED

Officials Chosen at Mass Meeting of Class; Few Usually Attend.

$1,000 SCHOLARSHIPS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Awards for Foreign Study In Junior Year Are Being Offered.

MEN, WOMEN ELIGIBLE

Announcement has been made that ten one thousand dollar scholarships are open to both men and women and are available for study during the junior year in any country in Europe.

Determination of these class presidents to have minor officers chosen is in contradiction to a recommendation passed by the student council, rejected by the faculty committee on student organizations and then repassed by the student council.

The faculty committee in vetoing the proposal by the student council, gave no particular objection to doing away with the offices but saw no reason for abolishing them. In the words of Dean Thompson, "We simply left the matter up to the students."

John Brown, newly elected senior class president, told Nebraskan reporter that he expected to call a meeting of his class some time next week. He was unable to set a definite date.

Bob Kelly of the junior class, feels that inasmuch as these minor offices are apparently sanctioned by the faculty, they might as well be elected. Their duties, he said, are at least as heavy as those of the president. Bill Comstock and Arthur Pinkerton, prefixes of the sophomore and freshman classes, respectively, were of the same opinion, according to statements made yesterday.

In the past, these minor class officers have been elected at mass meetings of the class. The president has had the prerogative to designate the time and place of the meeting.

Mere handfuls of students have attended these meetings in the last few years.

SPRING IS HERE! A Dandelion Has Been Found on the Campus

Miss Elizabeth Reese, of the department of Romance languages, claims the distinction of having discovered the first dandelion of the season. The yellow blossom, nearly perfect, but not yet full-grown, was found in the triangular bit of turf just south of Pharmacy hall.

It was all alone, but appeared to be having a fine time of it and seemed in the best of health, Miss Reese reported. She picked the yellow flower, and is preserving it. At any rate, the campus can be sure that spring is here, at least temporarily!
