

MAY QUEEN AND MAID OF HONOR ELECTED TODAY

Upperclass Coeds to Select Two Senior Girls for Honor Places.

PRESENTED IVY DAY

Social Science Polls Open From 9-5; Ag College From 12-1.

May Queen and her maid of honor will be chosen today by the women of the senior and junior classes at polls in the main corridor of Social Science hall, and in the Home Economics parlors at the college of agriculture. The place of voting on the downtown campus will be open from 9 until 5 o'clock; at the Ag college only during the noon hour. Identification cards must be presented.

Every woman in the senior class is eligible for the honor of being selected as May Queen, though by popular tradition the May Queen is the one member of the senior class who has contributed most in service and time to all the activities sponsored by the university. No candidates appear on the ballot. Every person who votes simply chooses the senior woman who seems to her to be most representative of Nebraska, the most outstanding senior woman in every respect. Only one name will appear on each ballot, if the ballot is to be counted.

May Queen is that honor which more than any other is recognized especially by people not identified with the university, as well as by those actively interested. The woman who receives the most votes will be May Queen and she with the second highest number of votes will be maid of honor. Other attendants to the May Queen are selected by members of Mortar Board.

The selection of the May Queen is a privilege which has until this year been limited to the senior women, but in order that a larger and more representative group may select this representative person, and still eliminate as far as possible the influence of politics in the election, the franchise has been extended to members of the junior class. This is the first time in history this has ever been done. May Queen, her maid of honor, and all the attendants will be presented on the morning of the annual Ivy Day service, March 2. No official announcement of the identity of any of these persons will be made before that time. Votes are to be counted by at least two members of the advisory board of Mortar Board.

A. E. HOLCH SPEAKS ON NEBRASKA FOREST

Holch Discusses Grazing in Trans-Pecos Region in Texas.

A. E. Holch, of the botany department discussed forest growth and forest distribution in eastern Nebraska when he spoke at the Monday evening meeting of Sigma Xi national honorary scientific fraternity. H. J. Cottle described the natural vegetation of the trans-pecos, a region in Texas of which limited information is now available.

In commenting upon Nebraska forests, Mr. Holch pointed out that certain governmental factors are responsible for them. He outlined in detail their distribution. Mr. Holch has spent more than three years in field work, and research. The vegetation, geographical environment, ranching and grazing conditions in the trans-pecos region of Texas were the chief considerations of Mr. Cottle. Furthermore he cited suggestions whereby practices of ranching and grazing might be improved in this area.

Waite, Bacteriology Professor, Finds Relaxation in Changing Form of Study; Has No Hobby

By MARGARET TINLEY.

"My hobby? But I have no hobby," said Dr. Herbert H. Waite, professor of bacteriology and pathology yesterday. "There is so much to be done in my work and so many interesting fields in it that I can find rest and relaxation just in changing the form of my study."

"It gives me several fascinating outside problems but they are really research projects in bacteriology which are not part of my courses in the university and they wouldn't usually be called 'recreation' or 'hobbies'."

After his lectures Dr. Waite takes up the particular problem on which he is working at the time. It may be identifying a germ which some doctors of the city have referred to him for study in making a diagnosis or it may be experimenting to discover what conditions could best prevent or discourage the growth of some deadly bacteria.

Dr. Waite's field is of an unique extracurricular interest. Without a powerful microscope no one can even see the little but dangerous organisms he studies. Yet it is a valuable subject and is appreciated

Tau Kappa Epsilon Bather Is Bothered By Fire Fighters

One of the Tau Kappa Epsilon "brothers" was preparing to take a bath Sunday noon and had half filled the tub with water when someone in the house smelled smoke. Investigation showed flames licking up along the wall and window casing in a study room.

Someone immediately grabbed a metal wastebasket and began to cart off the would-be bathers water to the blaze. The fire was thus shortly extinguished without the necessity of calling aid from the city's fire fighting forces. Damages to the students' clothing, members of the fraternity report, will be about $75 while repairs to the house and furnishings will cost about an equal sum.

CLEVER ACTS READY FOR COLL-AGRI-FUN

Chairman Announces Hour and Half Program of Vaudeville Skits.

CHORUS WILL BE USED

Last night's rehearsal of the program for the 1930 Coll-agri-fun evidenced a marked improvement in the acts to be presented in the vaudeville scheduled for the activities building of the college of agriculture Friday night.

The managing committee has selected the acts that will make up the program from those presented by a large number of groups at the tryouts during the last two weeks.

The program as it is now planned will be approximately one hour and thirty minutes in length with no breaks in the continuity, as certain acts will entertain the audience during the changing of the scenes on the stage.

The college of agriculture chorus has prepared a musical act which will be one of the principal features of the program. It depicts a student dreamer, whose dreams are enacted by the rest of the chorus. Theatrical lights and scenery suitable for the act will be employed to obtain the best effects for the act.

A wild "Wild West" act which begins by hanging a man and proceeds to an even more thrilling climax is the product of a group of Ag men who came to the college from Wyoming.

Tap dancing par excellence adequately describes the ability of a group of Home Ecs to display their clever steps, according to Fred Grau, who is managing the show.

Other acts of a hilarious nature will fill out the program with dialogue, characterization, ventriloquist acts and other forms of humor.

Clarence Clover, versatile humorist, is all set to direct the show in the role of master of ceremonies and is reported to have plenty of wise cracks ready concerning popular ag campus figures.

KLUB REVIEWS ELIGIBLE CANDIDATES FOR SHOW

Aspirants for Positions Are Put Through Paces in Opening Trials.

All eligible aspirants for parts in Kosmet Klub's spring show were reviewed by a committee of the Klub in the Temple Tuesday evening. Tentative choruses have been selected and principle parts, together with choruses, will be announced this week, according to those in charge.

Scholastic requirements eliminated many from the tryouts slate but a large number reported on Tuesday evening for the "Sob Sister" review. Male and female chorus applicants were put through fundamental chorus dances and the principals read the lines from the show.

Many were unable to attend the final review, according to word received by the Kosmet Klub. These persons are requested to notify Carl Hahn, show manager, or Bill McCleery, author of "Sob Sister" today. Arrangements will be made to review them individually if they express their desire to try out again before Friday.

Departure Leaves Vacancy. His departure will leave the position of freshman football and head baseball coach open at Nebraska. No indication of who might be Rhodes' possible successor was given today by Director Gish.

Rhodes' work here has built up an enviable record for the fresh-

Scholarship Requirements. Mortar Board is a national organization intended to honor senior women in colleges and universities where other conditions have warranted the establishment of a chapter. ## COUNCIL HEAD NAMES RALLIES COMMITTEE

McKnight, McCleery, Larson, Craft, Young Appointed To Investigate.

TO WORK WITH FACULTY

Following the request of the special faculty committee on rallies that a Student council committee be appointed to work in co-operation, Ralph Raikes, president of the council this morning announces the personnel of the student group.

The council was not asked to select its committee until its next meeting a week hence, but in order to expedite action on the settlement of the matter, Raikes has deemed it best to appoint the student committee on rallies at this time.

McKnight At Head. John P. McKnight is chairman of the new committee, and working with him are Betty Craft, Gordon Larson, Bill McCleery and Robert Young. These students, according to Raikes, will begin at once to collaborate with the faculty, giving the students' viewpoints as to how future rallies shall be conducted.

"I tried to make the committee as representative as possible," declares the council head. "In this group the various factions and organizations of the campus, including Innocents, Tassels, Corn Cobs and the football team, are represented."

Faction Recognition. The appointment of a committee to investigate the manner by which political factions are to be recognized by the Student council is also being announced at this time by Raikes. Instead of selecting a new committee, the president of the council has asked the standing committee on student organizations to serve.

Of this group David Fellman is chairman and his assistants are Joyce Ayres, Mable Heyne, Helen McClesney, and Robert Young. It will be the duty of this body to determine in what manner the parties should be sanctioned by the Student council.

Captain Lehman Forms Crack Drill Squad From Members of Pershing Rifles; Plans Exhibition Trips

For weeks the students on the Nebraska campus have been breathlessly awaiting the cry of civil war while they watched the drill of fourteen soldiers doing maneuvers armed with civil war rifles.

Friday night they watched the same group flip their rifles around and throw them at each other in various positions. The feat of the militiamen were quelled when it was announced that the drill was a performance, not of soldiers preparing for war, but of a group of members of Pershing Rifles, honorary drill organization.

Lenman Sponsors. The Pershing Rifles crack squad was organized about a month ago under the sponsorship of Captain R. O. Lehman, of the Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit. Of approximately twenty-five aspirants, fourteen men, members of Pershing Rifles, survived the hardships of practice and elimination and officially became members of the squad.

The first public performance of the squad, under the command of Howard Nixon, was held Friday night at the Cornhusker carnival. "It was very much pleased with the work of the squad. They did exceptionally well for the short time in which they had to prepare

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL CHOOSES THREE NEW HEADS

Grau Made President Hahn Vice President, Lawlor Secretary-Treas.

ELECTION IS UNANIMOUS

Blue Shirts Have Slate, But Yellow Jackets Get One Out of Three.

BY POLITICUS.

Three new officers of the University of Nebraska Interfraternity council were elected at the organization's meeting Tuesday evening. Fred Grau, 31, Bennington, is the new president, Carl Hahn, 31, Twin Falls, Idaho, the vice president, and Charles Lawlor, 31, Omaha, secretary-treasurer.

The election was both unopposed and unanimous, since the new officers had virtually been chosen before the meeting was called. Stealing the march on the Yellow Jackets, the minority fraternity faction, the Blue Shirts had their slate all doped out at their last caucus and each of their representatives primed as to how to vote.

Ticket Split. The Yellow Jackets were not to be slighted entirely. The Blue Shirts, tending to get their opponents' support, decided to split the offices with the Yellow Jackets, giving the latter one out of three possible places. As a result, the election was, as stated above, both uncontested and unanimous.

The president and secretary are Blue Shirts while the vice president is a Yellow Jacket. Grau is a member of Delta Phi Gamma and is connected with numerous agricultural college activities aside from being a member of the student council on the city campus.

Hahn is affiliated with Sigma Nu, a member of Kosmet Klub and several committees, and is president of the Yellow Jacket faction. Lawlor is a Delta Tau Delta, former vice president of Interfraternity council and at present assistant business manager of The Daily Nebraskan.

Minor Offices. The retention of minor class offices, which has been the center of discussion by students and faculty of late, was brought up at the council meeting by Prof. E. F. Schramm, faculty adviser. He suggested that the offices be not abolished but that something be found for them to do.

"All class officers have a responsibility to fulfill if they will only do it," declared Professor Schramm. "They truly have a place on the campus as has been shown by the gifts that have been donated by the various classes in the past."

The adviser specifically pointed out the sun dial and the stone bench on the terrace in front of the library as monuments left by classes of bygone days. As a suggestion along this line, Professor Schramm offered the possibility of future classes raising funds through their officers for donations to the art gallery.

Fine Arts Building. "There will soon be a building on this campus for the school of fine arts alone," continued the professor, "and I am sure that the school would be glad to set aside a portion of the building for donations from the classes."

The speaker was eager to get the support of the interfraternity council in the matter. The only class president who was present at this meeting, William Constock, sophomore leader, gave his stamp of approval to the proposal, after which the council decided unanimously to give Professor Schramm its support.

Thursday Get Together.

In order to get the attitude of several other student organizations and groups on the campus as to the class office proposition, Professor Schramm announced a get together for Thursday, March 7. (Continued on Page 3.)

Fourteen Belong

The men making up the group are Howard Nixon, commander, James McGrathin, Claud Gillespie, Art A. Lerner, Meyer S. Goldman, Henry E. Josa, Donald B. Hulbert, R. P. Sawyer, Gerald Stafford, W. T. Burgess, J. Max von Bergen, Wilbur Wilhelm, Edward Elliott and Paul Grossman.

The uniforms consist of blue civil war blouses, white duck trousers, and civil war caps. White harness and white belts adorn the blouses.

Several other performances of the squad are being planned by Capt. Lehman. "Workouts are continuing and one c- two trips to neighboring chapters of Pershing Rifles are being planned for the squad," he added.
