Mollerstrom is both a distinguished pistol and rifle shot. Lieutenant Gunn was a member of the infantry squad at Perry in 1929. Sergeant Spears has been a member of the infantry squad several times and is leaving Tuesday to the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., to be a member of the team.

The match officials were Lieut. Col. F. F. Jewett, Capt. H. Y. Lyon and Sergeant McGimsey. As the result of this match Captain Lyons has announced the team which he will take to St. Louis Saturday to shoot against Washington college and Missouri university. University of Nebraska is considering entering the 1930 National Intercollegiate Oratorical contest on the constitution, according to C. P. Janceck, who has charge of the contest here. An inquiry concerning the contest was recently received by the contest headquarters from the university, he said.

He also announced that the entries close March 25, and all communications concerning this contest should be sent to Liberty, Mo.

The wide range of interest in the 1930 contest is shown by the fact that inquiries have already been received from Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, and Cornell in the east, and from the Universities of Florida, Alabama, and Texas in the south, from Northwestern and the University of Minnesota in the north, and from Stanford and the University of Oregon in the west.

Colleges and universities need not choose their representatives until April 15. The regional and state contests will take place April 24 to May 3; the seven zone contests will take place May 16 to May 30 and the national final contest at Los Angeles will be June 19, where the grand prizes will total $5,000.

Grades for the first semester were sent out from the registrar's office last Saturday at noon. Previous announcements had estimated the date for sending the grades out as sometime between March 15 and 20. An additional member on the staff of the registrar also helped to get the grades out earlier.

TAFT VISITED UNIVERSITY OF NEBR. IN 1908

Former President and Chief Justice Tours Lincoln During Campaign.

INVADERS BRYAN'S TOWN

Late Statesman Delivered First Lincoln Speech in Temple Theater.

William Howard Taft, former president and chief justice of the supreme court, who died Saturday evening, visited the campus of the University of Nebraska September 30, 1908. He made his tour in connection with his campaign as a presidential candidate of the republican party. It was literally an invasion of the hometown of his democratic opponent, William Jennings Bryan.

His first speech of the day was presented late in the afternoon to members of the student body and faculty of the University of Nebraska.

In the Daily Nebraskan for Thursday, Oct. 1, 1908, is a large drawing of Mr. Taft. A full column was devoted to an account of his visit to the university on the day before.

Many classes were dismissed so that faculty and students would be able to hear his first address in Lincoln.

Following are some quotations taken from the Nebraskan concerning Mr. Taft's visit:
"Mr. Taft arrived in Lincoln at 5:15 o'clock in the afternoon and was escorted from the depot up to the university by a long line of automobiles and carriages. A band served to create enthusiasm and a squad of university cadets, numbering about fifty, and armed with megaphones gave university yells and cheers for Taft."

"A large crowd of students gathered about the west entrance to the Temple as the capacity of the theater was limited. Admission was by tickets previously issued at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, but they disappeared before many were able to obtain them. As soon as the speaker arrived the doors were thrown open to the public."

"The university republican club had decorated the Temple with streamers and the box office was almost hidden by a display of palms. The cadets who took part in the celebration were fitted out with megaphones and pennants bearing the names of Sheldon and Taft."

"The demonstration in Mr. Taft's honor was largely nonpartisan and was the university's welcome to a prominent American. Students regarded it as a high honor to have Mr. Taft's first speech in Lincoln delivered to the student body."

FIRMS PREFER MEN WITH GOOD GRADES

High Scholastic Rating Aid to Get Job in Corporations.

What type of students do large organizations, such as those who represent "visitors" on campus, prefer?

According to Dean J. E. Le Rossignol, of the college of business administration, corporations prefer students who have attained the highest scholastic marks. They do, however, take into consideration many other circumstances.

Officials of large companies know that extra-curricular activities have an important place in student life and develop in the student life instincts and the qualities of leadership, both of which will aid the student in successful business life.

Strange as it may seem, it matters little whether a student is an athlete or belongs to a fraternity, as far as the future success of that student in business is concerned, according to the employment men. Both of these activities are essential to campus life and are beneficial they say if not engaged in to the extent that scholarship is impaired, but they are not essential to a successful business career.

Corporations when investigating a prospective employee who is to be a college graduate first ascertain the scholastic ranking of the student in connection with this they attempt to discover the elements which may have affected this ranking, such as campus activities, and whether the student has been forced to work his way through school.

Also they are interested in any business experience a student may have had. Other things being equal these companies prefer the more mature students of twenty-three to a graduate of twenty years of age, thinking the older men are more likely to remain longer in their employ.

CADETS ARE TO BE REVIEWED BY RESERVE LEADERS

Upon approval of the chancellor the military department announces a retreat parade, with guidon ceremony, to be formed March 21, on the parade ground. The cadet regiment will then be reviewed by the reserve officers of this state who will be assembled at a convention in Lincoln at that time, and in whose honor the parade is being held.

The first call for the parade will be sounded at 4:50 p. m., March 21, and cadets are to form in battalions in line of close columns on the north side of the parade ground facing south. Assembly call will be sounded at 5 o'clock, and immediately afterwards the battalion adjutants call will be given. The last regimental call will be sounded at 5:05 p. m., and all cadets are to be present unless properly excused.

SOCIALIST SPEAKER DECRIES MILITARISM

Norman Thomas Addresses 180 at World Forum Luncheon.

"Disarmament does not insure peace, it is not an automatic bringer of peace," declared Norman Thomas, who spoke at the World Forum luncheon Friday at the Annex cafe. The second floor of the restaurant was taxed to its greatest capacity and some people were turned away. About 180 were present.

"We can not have races in armaments without hatred," Mr. Thomas stated. He asserted that people do not arm for war but for a war. He said that the advocates for large navies and armies were always pointing toward Japan, England or some other nation as a potential enemy, which threatens America, and which the government should arm against.

For Complete Disarming.
"Peace will not come as an isolated fact," Thomas declared. He advanced the opinion that nations should discard all battle ships "except a few to chase pirates." "Parity starts at zero," he declared and he asserted that if all nations abolished their navies no one would have anything to fear.

He ridiculed the London disarmament conference in its attempts "to whittle down the navies a little at a time." "It is a pity," he stated, "that nations with so much poverty spend millions of dollars on armaments." In his opinion discussion about battle ships is as pertinent as discussions of the relative merits of bows and lances were after gunpowder had been discovered, due to the invention of airplanes and gases.

Mr. Thomas asserted that with the exception of Russia the United States was the leading nation in fostering militarism through its colleges and high schools. "We sugar coat the pill of militarism," he declared. He decried the "pretification" of war by the means of honorary colonels and polo ponies.

The solution for peace, which Norman Thomas advocated, was to reorganize society so that peace would be the natural state rather than war. He asserted that conditions were such in 1914 that war was more apt to result than peace. He stated that he did not believe that war was inevitable.

The cause of war is not psychological or biological, he said, but (Continued on Page 2.)

LEAGUE CHAIRMAN ADDRESSES COED VOTERS SATURDAY

"We must have a tri-state conference, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, this next year," declared Mrs. George Gellhorn of St. Louis, Mo., in a talk before the members of the college executive board of the university league of women voters on Saturday afternoon at the luncheon given by the state league, at which the college students were guests. Vague plans for the conference were mapped out and Kansas City, Mo., was suggested as a possible meeting place.

"There are nine college leagues in Missouri and we have a conference each year," explained Mrs. Gellhorn. "The conference is organized and directed by a chairman and secretary. The conference lasts one and a half days and has been held for three consecutive years."

Mrs. Gellhorn told of the work of the college groups. The week of Anna H. Shaw's birthday is observed in every college league. Her works are studied and discussed. Frequent socials are held and there is always an annual banquet, according to Mrs. Gellhorn.

"The program of the leagues in Missouri proved to be very similar to that of the Nebraska league," she said. The girls who wish to go into politics, enter the efficiency in government group.

SUMMER SCHOOL WILL BE DEVIDED INTO TWO PARTS

Circulars With Schedules Available at Office of Registrar.

CLASSES BEGIN JUNE 11

Two Sessions Provided; One Of Six Weeks and One Nine Weeks.

Circulars containing preliminary announcements and tentative class schedules for the 1930 University of Nebraska summer school are now available to resident students at the registrar's office. Registration dates for the term have been set at June 9 and 10 while classes will not open until June 11.

Two groups of sessions—regular and special—will be held this year. The regular term is divided into two divisions, one for six weeks and the other for nine weeks, running concurrently, the former beginning June 9 and ending July 19, and the latter commencing June 9 and terminating Aug. 7.

Two Sessions Given.
"The two sessions," reads the announcement, "are designed to meet the needs of different groups of students. Those who are in need of six college hours to meet certificate requirements may earn the same in the shorter session. The offerings for the short session are confined mostly to such subjects as carry two hours of credit and a student is permitted to carry three of these courses."

"In order to maintain university standards," continues the preliminary statement, "it is deemed advisable that all academic and professional courses carrying three or more hours of university credit be offered during the nine weeks' session. Those who attend the latter session may earn nine college hours."

Give Special Session.
Special session courses range from two to four weeks in length. A four weeks' term for teachers of vocational agriculture will begin June 5 and will close July 3. Coaching for high school coaches and directors of athletics will be taught from June 9 to June 21 inclusive. The entire university athletic staff will assist in directing this course with special emphasis on football, basketball and training room methods.

Women teachers who are called upon to teach physical education in connection with their other subjects will be able to take advantage of a two weeks' course in physical education, beginning June 9 and closing June 21. A two weeks' course in vitalized agriculture, rural school administration and the organization of the function of parent teacher associations complete the list of special subjects offered. This course begins June 16 and ends June 27.

Those who wish to combine recreation with university work may register for field courses for which credit will be given in the following departments: Agronomy, two weeks' trip through western and northern Nebraska; geology, six weeks' trip through the Black Hills; botany, six weeks in Colorado; geography, three weeks in Colorado and Utah.
