KLUB WILL MAKE TRIP TO PEN TO GET ATMOSPHERE

Leads for Kosmet Comedy Are to View Actual Prison Life.

REHEARSAL WEDNESDAY

First Act Almost Complete; Practice on Second Is Set for Monday.

In order to better acquaint the cast with prison life in its real state and give them pointers on acting, Kosmet Klub is making arrangements to take the principals on an inspection trip of the Nebraska State penitentiary this week end. First and third acts of "Sob Sister" are laid in a penitentiary and the show's directors, William McCleery and Carl Hahn, feel it necessary for the cast to make such a trip in order to get atmosphere for production of the 1930 musical comedy.

Rehearsal will be in room 205 of the Temple Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Much has been accomplished on the show up to this point as lines of the first act have been learned and rehearsal on actions has been commenced. Practice on the second act will commence next Monday. Arrangements are being made for chorus costumes.

Stage business is being worked out for the first act and the third act has been changed a little to give more lines to Bennie, comedy lead, being played by Warren Chiles. Kosmet Klub members plan to have dinner at the Alpha Tau Omega house Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. The practice of dining at different houses was initiated by the club with a dinner at the Delta Upsilon house last week. Such meetings are used to facilitate more efficient work on production of the spring musical comedy.

Assistants on the club's different staffs will be selected from the list of applicants and announced some time this week, according to word received from the officials.

Worcester, Psychology Professor, Returns from Trip With New Ideas For Orientation of New Students

By DEAN KUYKENDALL.

Dr. D. A. Worcester, professor of educational psychology of the University of Nebraska, recently returned from a two weeks trip to the east where, as a member of the committee on freshman orientation, he went to inspect the work being done in various universities dealing with the problems of freshman adjustment and orientation. Professor Worcester's work took him to Iowa, Chicago, Northwestern, Purdue, Ohio State, Yale, Columbia and Pennsylvania. In addition, at the Atlantic City meeting of the National Society of College Teachers of Education he met educators from the faculties of other institutions, and talked with them concerning the status of freshmen in the American university.

It is Professor Worcester's belief that the problem of freshman orientation and guidance is one of very general interest, not only among those in the schools and colleges of education in the country, but also among those engaged in the various professional and academic fields. He found everywhere attempts to adjust the freshmen to their environment, socially as well as academically.

Favorably impressed.

While Professor Worcester expressed himself as being favorably impressed with the effort being made at the University of Nebraska to orientate freshmen, he stated his belief that in the future the system would be worked out to show greater improvement over the one now in use.

State institutions will probably never practice the right selection

DR. SEARS RIEPMA TALKS AT VESPERS

Decries Poor Approaches to Topic; Says Shut Off One Approached.

STUDENTS SHOULD LEAD

"He opened for us the higher gate," quoted Dr. Sears Riepma as the theme of his talk on "The Disciplined Life" at the Y. W. C. A. vesper meeting Tuesday, March 11, in Ellen Smith hall. Vivian Hildreth led the meeting and introduced the speaker. Ramona Jorgensen gave a special musical number.

"Approach makes a good deal of difference. A dry, unimaginative approach to a subject kills the interest," he declared. "An imaginative approach on a dull subject kindles it with a magic touch and inspires you. Some of you are going to teach God bless you! You need it," he added.

"Approaches are made by all of us to people for certain enterprises, movements or social events." Many of us, according to the speaker, are experts in hemming people in, we are inveterate wall builders in our approaches.

Caused Germany's Fall. "The downfall of the German people started when Hindenberg built a wall around Germany, separating her from other nations," he declared.

Dr. Riepma's talk was well received and was followed by a social hour. Refreshments will be served.

CAMPUS LEADERS FAVOR STUDENT ACTIVITIES RULE

Four Out of Five Report Eligibility Clause Is Very Necessary.

DISSENTER GIVES VIEWS

Believes Outsiders Deprived Of Participation for Year Unfairly.

Four out of five important figures in campus activities interviewed recently in regard to their opinion of the university eligibility rule for participation in activities, have expressed favorable opinions toward the requirement. According to the rule, in order to be eligible for activities a student must have satisfactorily completed twenty-seven hours in this university during the two preceding semesters. He must also be satisfactorily carrying at least twelve hours in the present semester.

This rule bars freshmen and students who come here from other schools from participating in campus activities, as well as those who are deficient in their academic work in the university.

Eldred "Bub" Larson, president of the Innocents society, says, "I am very much in favor of the eligibility rule. A person should be able to keep up in his studies before entering activities. Such a requirement as this puts activities on a higher scale because only those who may participate who are all right scholastically."

"Rule Helps Activities" Willard "Dutch" Witte, prominent athlete and member of Innocents, believes that the rule helps activities. He believes school work is an obligation which must be met before activities are indulged in. (Continued on Page Two.)

SCHOOL DRAMATISTS PRESENT NOVEL PLAY

'Trial of Mary Dugan' Is Shown as Department Night Offering.

ROLES WELL PORTRAYED

Seniors in the university dramatic department presented an experimental showing of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" before members of the dramatic classes Tuesday evening in Temple theater. The court drama was offered as the regular departmental night for this year.

Many of the male roles in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" were taken by women students. Several of the impersonations were effectively done, while others were rather humorous.

The feminine leading role, that of Mary Dugan, was taken by Mrs. Alta Reader. She represented the notorious woman who was on trial for the murder of her lover, Betty Craft played the male lead, representing Jimmy Dugan, brother of the defendant, who tried the case. Her role was well carried and her appearance seemed in keeping with the type of character she represented.

Harlan Easton presided over the court during the entire play, representing the judge. He sustained or overruled objection after objection throughout the exciting trial. Overcoming all intervals a temptation to laugh, Judge Easton conducted himself in judicial manner. The left handed murderer, who, of course, was the last one to be suspected, was played by Edwin Quinn. His shoe string catch in the last inning, when he demonstrated his unconscious left handedness by intercepting a thrown knife, solved the murder mystery in flawless perfection. Thirza Fay was cast as the murdered man's faithful wife. She was attired in black during the trial and succeeded in offering a broken hearted appearance.

"Astronomy and Religion" was the title of the speech given by Prof. G. D. Swezey before the regular program meeting of Phi Tau Theta, Methodist men's religious fraternity, from 7 to 8 o'clock at the Wesleyan foundation parsonage Tuesday evening.

Professor Swezey opened his address with a brief historical sketch of the development of the science of astronomy, oldest science known to civilized man. Astronomy has developed the idea of law and order in the universe. There is nothing disorderly about the conduct of the planets.

The man of science does not get the same idea of the Supreme

NEGRO STUDENT WILL SPEAK AT WORLD FORUM

Louis Swingler, a negro student who is a senior in the school of journalism will speak on "The New Negro," at the World Forum luncheon today. Mr. Swingler's home is at Tulsa, Okla.

The luncheon will be held in the northwest room of the Temple cafeteria. The talk will start at about 12:20 and will be over by 12:50 o'clock.

The general theme of "Blind Spots" will be carried out in this series of talks in to familiarize students with the viewpoints of other people.

Persons unable to eat their lunches at the Temple are urged to come and hear the speaker.

Deity from his study of nature that he gets from the teachings of Christ in the Bible, because science considers matter only. However Professor Swezey does not say that God is not interested in man as a human being, even though there is nothing in nature that would lead us to believe that God is more interested in man than he is in other earthly beings. Our present conception of a Supreme Being is a theological conception.

At the close of the lecture Professor Swezey conducted an informal discussion in which he answered the questions asked of him by members of the fraternity concerning astronomy and religion.

R. O. T. C. FIRES GUNS IN HONOR OF EX-PRESIDENT

Death of Taft Is Mourned By Twenty-One Salutes On Parade Ground.

FIRST SHOT AT 2 P. M.

Initial Discharge Made at Time Body Left Church For Arlington.

In tribute to Ex-President William Howard Taft the R. O. T. C. unit of the University of Nebraska under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel F. F. Jewett, commandant of the unit, fired twenty-one guns at intervals of a minute each on the parade ground yesterday. The first salute boomed forth at the moment Taft's body left the Washington church where services were held at 2 p. m. before interment in Arlington cemetery.

According to Colonel Jewett, every military unit of the United States army in the world fired such a salute simultaneously. It is the practice of the army to honor only presidents and ex-presidents in this manner. Thousands of soldiers stood motionless and thousands of citizens bared their heads in the various parts of this country during the tribute. Even in Cuba and the Philippines and in every spot to which the national defense units have penetrated the salute was fired.

Morning Salute. On the day following the news of the death of Taft every place where soldiers of the United States and military facilities are to be found was the scene of an early morning tribute to the dead. Twenty-one guns were fired at reveille. Following that one gun was shot each half hour throughout the day as a reminder of the nation's loss. At retreat forty (Continued on Page Three.)

WISCONSIN FOSSIL BEDS ENDANGERED BY DUMP GROUNDS

Because the city is using it for a dumping ground, one of Wisconsin's most famous fossil collecting spots is being threatened with extinction, according to Gilbert D. Raasch, curator of the geological museum at the state university. The spot is located in the north side of Milwaukee, around the river.

The grounds contain the only good exposure of Devonian rocks in the state, but unless preserved for other uses than dumping, Mr. Raasch predicts that no traces will be found within a few years. During the past forty years large collections have been collected and stored in the Milwaukee public museum and United States national museum.

Mr. Raasch recently secured a complete collection for the Wisconsin museum. Shells of ancient animals and bones of the earliest fishes have been discovered in abundance on the grounds.
