

THE DAILY NEBRASKAN

Station A, Lincoln, Nebraska. OFFICIAL STUDENT PUBLICATION. UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA. Under direction of the Student Publication Board. TWENTY-NINTH YEAR. Published Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Sunday mornings during the academic year.

TAPS.

HOW to get the thirteen most representative and outstanding juniors on the University of Nebraska campus as members of the Innocents society, senior men's honorary group, is a problem facing that august body at this time.

Never is it to be expected that the selection will meet with unanimous agreement of the student body. Occasionally some undeserving chap may be honored.

More than improving the type of men actually selected is the need of improving the method by which they are chosen.

Various proposals to throw the election of Innocents open to student body have been made in times past. All have been vetoed either by the Innocents society or by some other group or executive.

But to free the Innocents themselves from gross charges of politics, some system to make the election a little less autocratic should be put into effect.

In such an election, which presumably would be thrown open to men only, coalitions and politics would prevail.

THE BARB MOVEMENT. SINCE the May Queen election, since the last All-University party, since the personal political arguments conducted through the Student Pulse column of The Nebraskan, the student body has had ample time to meditate over the barb movement.

The fundamental soundness of the plan of giving university party administration to barbs was agreed upon by the Student Council at its meeting Wednesday.

But there is still a great problem in the barb ranks. Apparent is the lack of organization and friction among these students.

THE BARB MOVEMENT. This is what has happened to Alan Williams. Some barbs feel that his persistent efforts in the political field have put nonfraternity people in bad repute.

There are others, however, who in writing in the Student Pulse columns, have made their criticisms personally bitter.

Waiting at the window. P. J. is to be congratulated for giving expression in your Student Pulse column of a prevalent feeling on the campus regarding the poor postal service at Station A in the Temple.

Government employees, because of the permanency of their positions and their security in office, can be and are more independent than employees of private businesses.

There is ample room for constructive criticism which will bring about a higher type crowd at the parties and restrict attendants to university people.

are conducted, which, in view of obstacles which have had to be overcome, is little short of remarkable.

The barb committee in charge of these parties deserves commendation for the unselfish service it is rendering for the students.

IN THE SWIM.

OFFICIALS at the University of Oregon have decreed that every coed, before she can get her diploma, must pass a somewhat rigid swimming examination.

Ordinarily the ability to swim is hardly a requisite in the development of a cultured personality, and that is presumably what most women are seeking in a university education.

Conceptions of a true education are changing. No longer can a person who has "a smattering of two dead languages" be called cultured or well educated.

By power is meant the ability to put into practical application his accumulated knowledge, the enhancement of his capacity to do things.

A desirable form of physical education for women, swimming is a compulsory subject at Oregon.

The University of Nebraska could not put into force such a program for the obvious reason that it does not have a swimming pool.

Lacking that equipment the university does require every girl to take two years of physical education which may be in any of a number of sports.

The University of Nebraska needs, and needs badly, a swimming pool for women.

THE POTTER'S FADED DREAM. We of the law college find much on which our overinflated ego can feed, even though we have been overthrown by the potter who fashioned us.

In spite of the attack upon us by those who fashioned our childhood thinking we of the law college continue to maintain our superiority complex.

The superiority of the law college still stands out so far as we are concerned as does the rock of Gibraltar on the strait which bears its name.

Why our youngest professor has a string of degrees longer than the tail of the night shirt of the biggest sissy in the academy.

We are proud of our college, proud of our songs, proud of our faculty, and proud of the tradition of our school.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Recently a rather well known professor asked a question regarding relative fundamentals underlying various civilizations of this world.

Following this period of tongue-lashing, during which several students had been considering his question rather than following the hectic vagaries of his sarcastic discourse.

The instructor desired instantaneous, rapid-fire statements on a subject which required more or less extended thought and consideration.

HOWAN SAYS MORE ACCURATE EDITORS. REPORTERS NEEDED. AMES, Iowa, March 13.—The press of the future needs more sympathetic, more accurate and more intelligent editors and reporters.

HOWAN SAYS MORE ACCURATE EDITORS. REPORTERS NEEDED. The press, he stated, is the mirror of human progress and as such is one of the most important of all human institutions.

Imitation Newspaper Office Is Set Up to Cover Basket Tourney

With the coming of the state basketball tournament annually covered by students in the school of journalism, room 106 in University hall, has lost all semblance to a sane, sedate classroom.

Young men and youthful coeds rush in and out inspecting score sheets and admission cards hurriedly, and mumbling incoherently about "running scores," "high point men," and "final rounds."

Practically all members of the school of journalism will have a part in this brief period of intense training either as reporters or copy readers.
