Fighting hard enough to overcome a good sized advantage, Barneston won the Class B championship from College View, 27-21.

Horsky, Barneston guard, was high point man of the game with four field baskets and three free throws. Svoboda, diminutive forward on the Barneston team, was all over the floor displaying some flashy work.

Evo of College View was the first to enter the scoring column with a follow shot, but Hahn retaliated with a neat underbasket shot for Barneston. Horsky came through with a clean basket from the foul line, putting Barneston out in front 4-2.

Barneston Extends Lead. Clever passing on the part of the Barneston crew ended in an underbasket counter by Hahn, in the opening of the second period.

Newman Grove had little trouble in beating Norfolk for the class A consolation title 15 to 9. The Newman Grove outfit jumped into an early lead and held it all the way. H. Johnson was the big noise for the winners, scoring six points with three field baskets.

Hahn fouled H. Johnson, who missed his free throw, but V. Johnson put Newman Grove into the lead in the first thirty seconds of play when he dropped a long shot through the net from the center of the floor.

L. F. Seaton Has Multiple Duties as Operating Superintendent; Has Full Charge of University's Business

The operating superintendent of the university, L. F. Seaton, has charge of all the business operations connected with this institution except financial matters and is directly responsible to the chancellor.

Mr. E. J. Boschult assists in the purchasing department and the physical plant here in Lincoln. Mr. Seaton said, "The stores in the west stadium as well as at the agricultural campus and Chemistry building are under his direction. The university maintains a stenographic division with offices in the west stadium where any faculty member of the university may have letters written or stenically cut."

Mr. C. R. Glenger is responsible for the inventory of every item owned by the university either in Lincoln, Omaha or at any of the substations and the room assignments at these places. The physical plant at Lincoln, which includes the stores and job system office, print shop, electricians, plumbers, automotive department and machinists is taken care of by the above organization.

R. E. Saxon of Omaha directs the operation of the physical plant and purchasing department at that place and he has charge of the same suboffices and operations there as does Mr. Boschult in Lincoln. However, the departments in Omaha are on a smaller scale than here and have only to do with the medical college.

All purchases and maintenance of physical plants at the school of agriculture at Curtis, the agricultural substations at North Platte, Valentine and at Scottsbluff and the fruit farm at Union are under the direct supervision of Mr. Seaton. Local managers have charge of the details at those places.

Supplies On Requisition. "All requests for supplies are made on requisition forms," Mr. Seaton continued, "and must had made good on seven chances for one point each. Sands started the scoring in the final period with a long shot. Scott dribbled the entire length of the floor to push in a one hander for College View.

Baumman scored on a set up. Horsky, the outstanding Barneston player, went out of the game with injuries. Svoboda received a pass, dodged two College View men, and banked a side shot. Evo scored for College View. Barneston took time out with less than a minute to play, and the score 21-27 in their favor. A technical foul for too many time outs netted nothing to the College View captain, who missed his free throw.

Norfolk Tallies. Kuhn fouled H. Johnson, who missed his free throw, but V. Johnson followed in the shot to gather in two more markers. V. Johnson tipped in another basket in a mix under the hoop.

As the second half started, Halkanson and Royal were back for Norfolk. H. Johnson sank a swisher from the side of the court. Thenhaus replaced Halkanson.

In the opening of the final period, Backerud caged a free throw. Kuhn dribbled the length of the floor and dropped a difficult shot through from the side, giving Norfolk six points. Kuhn followed in a shot for two more points. Ennis fouled, but H. Johnson failed to make good the throw. Eldridge made a free throw for Norfolk.

Delinquencies Must Be Removed by March 31

Reports of removal of delinquencies must be on file in the registrar's office not later than March 31, 1930, in order that students may be eligible for consideration for Honors day, according to Miss Florence I. McGahey, registrar.

Auburn outplayed Wayne to win the finals of the class B consolation bracket, and the tournament thirdplace. E. Andrews was the big scoring noise for the Auburn team, sinking three field baskets and two free throws for eight points.

Hendrickson opened the scoring for Wayne with a long shot from the side of the court. Broad of Auburn neutralized his effort with a basket from the corner. E. Andrews made good on a free throw for Auburn, and his team mate, Broad, added another point, making the score 4-2.

Risse, Auburn center, caged a neat follow shot. Berry snagged a long archer for Wayne, making the score six to four. Andrews fouled Berry shooting, but he converted only one of his chances. Hendrickson fouled Eells, who failed to make good his opportunity. As the half ended, Auburn held a 6-5 advantage.

Wayne in Lead. F. Dowling put Wayne into the lead in the beginning of the second half when he sank a shot from the foul circle. Eells tied the score when he made good on a free throw following K. Dowling's foul. E. Andrews brought the lead back into Auburn's possession on a charity toss. E. Andrews added two more to Auburn's total with a long archer. E. Andrews, all alone at his end of the court, took a long pass and sailed it away for two more points, giving Auburn a 12-7 lead, ending the scoring for the third quarter.

As the final period opened, Auburn started a slow stalling game. Sund connected with an unconscious counter from the corner, adding new life to the Wayne cause, but E. Andrews of Auburn came through with a neat one hand shot from the side of the court to give his team fourteen points. Sund of Wayne scored under the basket. On Berry's foul, Risse scored one point. L. Andrews added another point from the free throw line. Hendrickson went back into the Wayne lineup for K. Dowling, and the game ended without any further scoring.

FRESHMAN LECTURE IS A TRAINING COURSE

Subject Acquaints Student With Departments of His College.

"Freshman lectures at the University of Nebraska are primarily a training course rather than an orientation course," stated Roy E. Cochran, associate professor of history, in recent interview.

"It is a required course for students in the college of Arts and Sciences, and its purposes are to acquaint the incoming students with the fundamentals of liberal education as evinced in the varying courses and departments in this particular college; to awaken in them a sense of responsibility to their varying duties; to teach the students to listen and profit by the various types of lectures; and to learn to report them accurately and discriminately."

Most students when they leave high school have never had any experience in taking notes intelligently, according to Mr. Cochran, who explained that in most cases, they have never been held responsible for a lecture. "It is the purpose of freshmen lecture, then, to 'break in' these students in the art of listening intelligently and taking down on paper a part of what they hear," he continued.

"It is not the purpose of the course, however, to train a student to take down every word the speaker says. Attention is recommended rather than a form of note taking by which the student hears all and understands nothing."

The course of study for freshman lecture is planned each year by the faculty committee headed by Mr. Cochran. The class meets one hour a week. Last year it spent three weeks on the subject of "How to Study." The remainder of the semester was spent with professors from the various departments in the college, each lecturing on the "cream" of his subject and experience.

Although freshman lecture is chiefly a training course, it helps the freshmen to place themselves, by giving them a taste of the work which is offered in every field of learning, according to Professor Cochran.
