Time Worn Tradition. Those who claim that Nebraska hasn't any time honored traditions must have missed the Ivy day festival for the last fifty years.

There have been dark whispers to the effect that it will be worthily used this year, but these were started by optimists who have been expecting the arrest of the miscreant gadfly producer of fire and sword.

So naturally it groans with boredom and for every groan the thoughtful workmen add a shingle and a few extra patches of adhesive plaster.

The idea this year is to leave it out in the rain or snow long enough to get the contours softened a little.

Come on, you sob sisters, and shed a practiced tear or two over a poor old omelette that isn't allowed to lie quiet after its days are out-numbered.

NINETY PERCENT UTAH STUDENTS CALLED BONE DRY

Editor of Chronicle Claims Most of Western School Body Are Abstainers.

CITES WEEK END RULE

Coeds May Remain Out Until 12:30 On Friday and Saturday Nights.

By LITTLE POLITICUS.

According to indications on a questionnaire received by The Daily Nebraskan from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, the students at that institution are about as arid as the state itself.

In the opinion of the editor of the Utah Chronicle, official student newspaper at that school, 90 percent of the student body is bone-dry, 7 percent take an occasional swallow, and only 3 percent indulge regularly in alcoholic revelry.

In a poll conducted there in which 471 students expressed opinions, 254 of the number declared themselves in favor of strict enforcement of prohibition legislation to permit the sale of light wines and beer, and 164 favored repeal of the Volstead act and enactment of a new law.

The student chronicler admits that drinking is a "problem" upon that campus, and the drinking which exists is campus-wide in-closed, but during their week ends as well as the Greeks. Appearances in Utah indicate that drinking conditions have changed for the better, however, since the advent of prohibition.

Have 12:30 Rule.

On week nights the Utah girl students must be home at 10:30 o'clock, but during their week-ends they may remain out until 12:30 o'clock. Parties at this western institution begin at 9 and the hilarity lasts until 12 o'clock.

The social problem at the University of Utah is marked by extreme simplicity in comparison to returns from other schools. From all appearances there is no caste distinction between the fraternity (Continued on Page 3.)

SCHOLARSHIP DEADLINE SET AT SATURDAY NOON

Free Tuition Applications For Next Year Must Be Submitted.

BLANKS ARE ALTERED

In a letter released Thursday by T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, the tuition scholarship committee announced that Saturday, May 10, at 12 o'clock, has been set as the deadline for the filing of applications for tuition awards.

The committee, composed of Dr. H. C. Koch, professor of secondary education, Dean O. J. Ferguson, of the college of engineering, and Dean T. J. Thompson, hopes by having the deadline at so early a date to be able to make the awards before tuition is paid in the fall. The filing of the applications at this time will enable the college and school committees to make their investigations this spring.

Requirements Listed.

The requirements for these tuition scholarships as suggested by the committee are as follows: (1) These scholarships cover only course tuition fees and do not include non-resident fees. (2) They are granted for one semester, but may be renewed upon the application of the student, and at the discretion of the committee of the school or college awarding them. Normally they will not be continued beyond one year. (3) The applicant should have made at least twenty-four hours in the University of Nebraska in the previous year with an average of 80 percent.

If his record contains C's or F's they must be satisfactorily explained. (4) The applicant should carry at least twelve hours during the semester for which the award is made. (5) The applicant, if a young woman, should be responsible for approximately one-third of her own support. If a young man, he should be responsible for approximately one-half of his own support. Many feel, however, that current earnings approximating $40 per month should render ineffective the argument of economic need.

"It is understood," the committee states, "however, that all of these requirements cannot be followed to the letter. An application may be received which, due to extenuating circumstances, may make it necessary to waive all or some of the specifications."

Blanks Are Changed.

The application blanks have been changed a great deal this semester. The blank has been altered so that it may be used for any scholarship award given by or through the University of Nebraska. (Continued on Page 3.)

MAASDAM GRID CENTER REVEALS SECRET WEDDING

Felber Maasdam, regular center on the Nebraska football team last fall, revealed to his parents, Sunday, at their home in Omaha, his marriage, March 11 at Auburn, to Geneva McFall, Smithville, Mo., a sophomore at the state university.

The Husker lineman revealed that Mrs. "Coopy" Rhodes, John McNight and Bob Dobson, all of Lincoln, were present at the wedding.

The husky pivot man said he would continue his schooling and would be a candidate for the Husker team again next fall. His bride will leave school, going to her home in Smithville until the summer vacation, when she will join her husband in Omaha.

Maasdam is the fourth Nebraska student, all employed by the Dobson Construction Co., Lincoln, to wed secretly. His predecessors were "Coopy" Rhodes, Cliff Ashburne and Lonnie Stiner.

'Sob Sister' Chorus Under Direction Of Wally and Doris Marrow Takes On Appearance of Ziegfeld Organization

Flo Ziegfeld has selected some pretty fair choruses in his day considering the material he had to choose from, but anyone who has seen the coed chorus of "Sob Sister" knows that he "ain't seen nothin' yet" if he hasn't witnessed a group of picked Nebraska girls in action. That's why his choruses are only pretty fair—the absence of Nebraska beauties has been felt.

Doris and Wally Marrow of the New York school of dancing have been training ten University of Nebraska girls for the past two months for "Sob Sister" which was presented in the Temple last night and will be given again tonight and tomorrow night. These girls have been taught all the intricate steps and ins and outs that every good chorus girl knows and from their appearance they must have arrived at the peak of perfection.

Directors Uneasy.

The two directors who cast the chorus (no names mentioned but they both belong to the club) one writing the lines and the other directing them) haven't slept a wink since they cast the chorus. They're afraid the chorus will get too hot one of these nights and burn down the Temple. And then where would Herb Yenne and Zolley Lerner have to go for their innumerable sessions? And two months is a long time and if anyone thinks it is "any fun to go without sleep for (Continued on Page 3.)
