IVY DAY.

COLORFUL, traditional, Ivy day will be celebrated by University of Nebraska students today.

Ivy day theoretically climaxes the extra-curricular year at Nebraska. This year it is only one of a series of campus events. It is put in the program with Engineers week, Honors convocation, Pharmacy night and Farmers Fair, which detracts from its former brilliancy and glamor.

That shows the hold of tradition on the students. A change always brings criticism—and not without some degree of justice. If a tradition is to be considered as such, it should not be changed around to suit the whims of the present moment.

IVY DAY is for the students and should be held when student interest is at its height. With the exception of Mortar Boards and Innocents, for whom the early date is more convenient, few people find the change a welcome one.

But today is Ivy day. It is a tradition which must be preserved with all possible dignity and glory. From colleges throughout the nation come tales of waning and changing traditions. But Ivy day is worthy of continuance as it is. Just as Honors convocation is the time to recognize scholarship, the Cornhusker banquet the time to pay homage to athletics, so Ivy day is a time to remember students who have been outstanding in campus life outside the classroom.

ELIMINATING GRAFT. RECENT DISCLOSURE of the long time graft involved in the chairmanship of the senior invitations committee recalls the "good old days" when the main incentive for getting into student activities was the rake off which came with them.

Today the situation, while not perfect, is vastly improved. Pocketing money through student enterprises is considered downright dishonesty. Some individuals, of course, slip a few shekels under cover, but the amount is small due to the expense accounts which must be filed and checked at the student activities office.

THE NEBRASKAN earlier this semester recommended a plan of keeping all student organization funds at the student activities office. Present regulations making this compulsory are not enforced. A system should be devised to prevent evasion of this rule. The one advocated by The Nebraska failed to engender any interest either in the student council, which should take the lead in this proposition, or at the student activities office. Accounts of student organizations should be kept straight by a cross check between the faculty advisor and the treasurer of the society. Further provision is needed to provide a careful audit of all receipts taken in by student publications and at the traditional student parties. There is little chance for graft to creep in as these events are managed today, but there are still too many loopholes which need plugging up.

COLLEGE CONSCIOUSNESS. AN ADMIRABLE spirit has been shown by students in the various college activities this week end. Three are holding "open house" celebrations to which the public is invited while pre-med students are trekking to Omaha Friday for their special day.

Chief among the advantages of these affairs which accrue to the students themselves is the pride each comes to feel for the field of activity in which he is studying. The pharmacy student gets some realization of his responsibility to the public and the future medical doctor gets some insight into the progress of the medical profession.

THE KING'S ENGLISH. IF ANY man or woman corrects your pronunciation of a word in public place I think you have the right to punch him on the nose. No good American jury would convict you.

HONORS. IN THE NAME of high scholarship, Honors convocation was held at the Coliseum last night to recognize several hundred University of Nebraska students for distinctive scholastic achievement.

IRENE CARPENTER IS RECIPIENT OF PRIZE

Chi Omega Award Is Given For Outstanding Work In Sociology.

The Chi Omega sociology prize of $25 has been awarded to Irene Carpenter, Marion, Ia., who is majoring in social case work. Miss Carpenter will graduate in June.

According to Dr. J. O. Hertzler, chairman of the department of sociology, the award was made on the basis of scholarship, general personality, interest in social affairs, and social problems, and promise for the future.

MISS RUCH SHALICROSS who won the Chi Omega prize last year intends to go to England to study next year. She will enroll in the London school of economics.

Wrestling letters were awarded to seven grapplers. The editor discussed the high cost of living and the feasibility of wearing old clothes and overalls.

COLLEGIATE NEEDS. University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tenn.—According to a notice preserved among the records of the University of Tennessee since 1888, prospective students at that time, were required to bring with them to school a bed, a mattress, a table, a chair, a tub, a bucket and dipper, a coal scuttle, a wash pan, a mirror, and a student lamp.

FRESHMAN EDITION. UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Berkeley—Honoring the freshman class that has just received its emancipation, the Bruin, campus daily, published an edition on green paper. All the staff positions were held by the freshmen for that one day, and they filled the offices of all the major student organizations.

FACULTY SHOW. University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.—Faculty members of the University of New Mexico plan a minstrel show. The proceeds will go to the debt incurred by the 1929 issue of the year book.

Addresses Ag Students

GEORGE JACKSON. Secretary of the Nebraska State Fair board who told of the value of Farmers Fair in developing leadership, at an ag college rally held Tuesday evening.

scanda can be aired in time. It is our big chance to serve society. Any word its nice that the Innocents-to-be have all been warned in advance. Now they can lean against trees and wear knee-pads.

MILESTONES AT NEBRASKA

ENGINEERS OPEN WEEK WITH TEMPLE MEETING

Pep Rally, Speeches Start Program; Lindskog Is Head of Affair.

Students of the engineering college completely filled the Temple theater Wednesday morning in the annual pep rally in preparation for the following events of the week, including Engineers' night and the eighteenth annual banquet and field day activities.

Russell Lindskog, chairman for the event, gave a pep talk, and led the cheers and singing. John M. Clema gave a talk on the engineers' banquet and the Sledge, engineers' scandal sheet. Dean Ferguson gave a short talk stressing the importance of the week's activities, and urged every student to give fullest co-operation in putting the event over.

A new engineers' song was presented for the first time by a picked chorus which presented the tune to the crowd. The lyric is written to the tune of the Rangers' song.

Walter Johnson, sophomore diamond star, broke a deadlock in the last inning of the freshman game with a long homer and pulled out a victory for the second year men. The engineering juniors also took a win from the fourth year men in baseball. Harold Bates and William Eamer took the horseshoe honors, taking all of their games.

WHEN DO YOU STUDY? UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—At the University of Oregon a survey was made to determine when most students study. It was found that a greater number of people study Sunday afternoon than at any other time. Practically no studying is done on Friday or Saturday nights.

COLLEGE "TOWN COUNCIL." UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, Los Angeles.—A student mayor, with his sheriff and justice of the peace, will guide the destinies of Westwood village at the University of California, after being inaugurated at the village carnival to be held soon. The campus ballot will carry the names of only high juniors and seniors, and the winning man will have full official power; the only exception being the justice's inability to perform marriages.

ARCHERY EQUIPMENT. University of Oregon, Eugene.—The women's department of physical education has purchased a complete set of archery equipment.
