LARGE CAST CHOSEN TO AID IN 'HAMLET'

Dramatists to Assist Jenks In Lead of Production By Shakespeare.

TO OPEN FRIDAY NIGHT

An unusually large supporting cast has been chosen to assist Mr. Hart Jenks who will play the leading role in the University Players' production of "Hamlet" which will be given at the Temple theater for the first time Friday at 7:30 p. m.

The more important parts played by members of the faculty of the dramatics department and former alumni are: Horatio, friend to Hamlet taken by Herbert Yenne; Gertrude, the queen and mother to Hamlet portrayed by Miss H. Alice Howell; the ghost, by Edward Taylor; Laertes, son to Polonius by Jack Rank, and Polonius, the lord chamberlain, by W. Dolley Lerner.

Supporting Cast.

Other members of the cast are: Kenneth Threlkeld as Francisco, soldier; Leland Bennett as Bernardo, officer; Art Singley as Marcellus, officer; Harlan G. Easton as Claudius, King of Denmark; Thirza Gwen Fay as Ophelia, daughter to Polonius; Richard Page as Rosencrantz, a courtier; Jere Mickel as Guildenstern, a courtier; Robert Reade and Paul Miller as grave diggers; Edward Taylor as Osric, a courtier; Paul Thompson, Pauline Gellatly, Ralph Trister, and Al Tiffany as stroling players; Leland Bennett as a priest; and Mercedes Ames, Prudence Brown, Edith Ames, and Edwin Quinn as attendants.

The production of "Hamlet" is being looked forward to by people all over the state. On May 17 the Players have been scheduled to give a performance at Omaha Technical high school under the auspices of the College club.

Given at Opportune Time.

"Hamlet is being given at a most opportune time, opening the day following Ivy Day, and closing the week-end of the state high school track tournament. This will give graduates, former students, and out state high school students opportunity to view the most popular of Shakespearean productions. Two extra performances and an extra matinee are being given for this purpose.

Those directing the production state that "Hamlet" is going to be put on in modern play technique with plenty of action and vigor. Adequate waits are being allowed between acts and everything possible is being done to make the Shakespearean performance excel in interest and entertainment.

STUDENTS HONORED FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

short lived terms of saving time, or making money, he said. The scholar, in his idealistic way, looks upon the eternal good of civilization where efficiency is the highest, he thinks.

Scholar to Solve Problems.

Dr. Hudson does not believe the problems of this day will be solved until the scholar solves them. There are many of these problems, he said, such as the fight between religion and science, and the fight between religion and state. The only lasting solution of these problems will be the thoughtful solution by the scholar, declared the doctor.

"The great thing which scholars can do is to refind America. The great discoverer is yet to come and must come in the form of a thinker to decide what America is aiming at and what her future shall be. One thing which will aid the scholar in this is the underlying idealism of the American people," said the speaker.

Dr. Hudson declared that all honor goes to the scholars and that they are among the great of mankind.

Band Plays.

The Fine Arts band, directed by William T. Quick played three numbers during the evening. "The Coronation March" by E. Kretschmer; "The Morning" from Peer Gynt Suite by E. Grieg, and "Tannhauser March" by Richard Wagner. The invocation was given by Rev. Linn W. McMillin of the University Episcopal church.

Honor List.

The honor list, printed in the program prepared for the convocation, includes:

Senior students recognized for superior scholarship as well as the names of the members of the three remaining classes recognized for high scholarship.

Names of student organizations which reached a certain level of scholarship.

Two '29 Graduates Now Social Workers

Miss Janet Schmitz and Miss Mildred McGraw, 1929, are both employed as social case workers in the United Charities of Chicago.

LOAFING IS POPULAR.

Loafing is the chief occupation at the University of Vienna, according to a report made recently.

Compulsory attendance is almost unheard of. Two hundred students are registered in a class where the seating capacity is 110 but only sixty come to class. Those who do come are usually eating.

CEDRIC RICHARDS, LORRAINE LALLMAN GET MATH AWARDS

Prize winners in the Pi Mu Epsilon mathematics exams were: Lorraine Lallman, Arapahoe, in integral and differential calculus and Cedric W. Richards, Lincoln, in analytic geometry. The prize in each examination was $10. More than twenty students took each of the quizzes. The tests were conducted by Magnus Hestenes, president of the organization, and the questions were made out by various members of the teaching staff. The material covered in the exams included only the work taken up so far this year.
