SENIOR HONORARIES PICK NEW MEMBERS

most incredible. He has also carried a great deal of the load connected with Kosmet Klub this year.

One of the biggest surprises of the day—even to the ever present dopsters who always seem to know who's going to be tapped—was the election of Don MacLay, Kappa Sigma. To say that MacLay is not deserving of the honor would be unjust—it just happened that he was not being considered by everyone as were some others.

Don has displayed his leadership on the basketball floor, not only locally but in the entire conference as well.

Edwin Edmonds, assistant business manager of the Cornhusker, member of Corn Cobs and Kosmet Klub and connected with a goodly share of other activities, was entitled to the place he received for his senior year. He is a member of Delta Upsilon.

Williams Surprises. But here's the biggest sensation of the whole school year. Who would have thought that Al Williams would be an Innocent?

In spite of the fact that no barb has been elected to this society for goodness knows when, Al was among those tapped Thursday afternoon. His qualifications are not to be doubted—it is not that, for everyone realizes that he possesses leadership to the nth degree. But the very fact that he was a non-fraternity student should bar him from membership in the Innocents.

Al will do like all other barbs have done—join a fraternity right after he is tapped.

There is no danger of him doing that, however, for the mighty barb leader has permitted himself to be quoted thus:

"It was certainly a surprise to me. I was not elected on any set-up nor will I have any obligations to meet, now that I am chosen. I have made no promises to any fraternity and I will prove it, too."

The fact that Williams, the man who, according to himself, "has fought with every Innocent who elected me" at some time or other, should be included among the representative thirteen—and not the lucky thirteen as in former days—is another great boon to the senior society.

Of the remaining six, as complimentary words can be said as of those preceding, Don Carlson, Alpha Sigma Phi, has done a great many things in university and has done them conscientiously. Kosmet Klub, Sigma Delta Chi and Corn Cobs are just a few of the activities with which he was affiliated.

Cy Winkler Ag Worker. Cyril Winkler has done big things on the ag campus. He is a Delta Tau Delta, George Kennedy, Alpha Tau Omega, is this year's business manager of the Cornhusker, a position which unqualifiedly justifies a man to be an Innocent.

The Daily Nebraskan has claimed most of the time of Bob Kelly, Pi Kappa Alpha. He is at present co-managing editor of the paper with Bill McCleery and the team has proved successful. He is also one of the holdovers in next year's student council.

Kenneth Gammill, Delta Upsilon, is one of the managing editors of the Cornhusker. He is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi and connected with other activities. Carl Hahn, Sigma Nu, has Kosmet Klub and Interscholastic council as his major activities. He is vice president of the latter group. He has also shown much interest in other fields and has always been an asset to everything which he has attempted.

It goes without saying that the university has seen the dawn of a new day in so far as student activities are concerned and it is with especial pleasure that the campus can now boast of a genuinely warranted senior men's society.

No Apologies. The writer does not choose to retract or apologize for anything that was said last semester. It is not the purpose of this article to point out any misdeeds or misstatements that were made then, if any there were. It is the purpose of this article, however, to show how the hopes of the writer along with a number of students and faculty members have finally been fulfilled.

Everyone agrees, I believe, that an administrative body, such as the Innocents is fundamentally constituted, is an integral part of the university and its environs.

90,000 Tickets Are Printed For Use In Saturday Farm Fete

Ninety thousand tickets have been printed for Farmers Fair, it was announced by Russell Batis, who heads the tickets committee for the twelfth annual farm fete on May 3. There are 25,000 general admission tickets, 20,000 dance tickets and 40,000 tickets for concessions. Other tickets have been printed for the polo game. The tickets were printed free of cost by the College Book store. A crowd of 10,000 people was drawn to the 1929 fair. Preparations are being made for even more visitors this year, managers assert. Additional parking space for cars has been laid out.

There must be some connecting link between administration, alumni faculty and students. There must be some group to which responsibility can be delegated for the various and sundry duties that have to be performed.

These have always been my sentiments and they were always foremost in my mind during my days in the editor's chair. What was most distressing to me and to any number of others was the fact—and I contend it was a well founded fact—that the Innocents society as it has been made up in the last several years has not been a representative group.

Qualifications of the candidates I believe were then undoubtedly shunned in preference to fraternity affiliations and political alignments. This year, however, a different story must be told. Dr. George E. Condra, faculty adviser of the Innocents, aptly expressed it when he said that six of the members of the 1929-30 society deemed the welfare of the university and the society of much greater importance than their own fraternity connections, thereby forsaking entirely the "fraternity self perpetuation idea."

Leaders Needed. A member of last year's group, who, fortunately, was among the few who really could qualify, also gave the right impression of this year's selections when he said to me personally:

"This is the squarest election I have ever seen in my life. There is not a one who has been chosen who has not been a leader in some way or other on the campus."

New for the Mortar Boards and their activities. As usual, the candidates were well supplied with accomplishments during their first three years of university life, so there was no need for questioning their rise to senior superiority. But it would be only fair to those who were elected to show the public what they have done here.

MATTSON ADVOCATES NEW UNION BUILDING

that each class upon graduation present the school with a painting. The suggestion has not been definitely acted upon, but with apologies to him, I pass it on to you and add that a union building would be a splendid place to hang the pictures.

"In dealing with such an abstract problem as this, the developing of spirit and enthusiasm, I am reminded of Nehard's lines from Song of Indian Wars—'Great spirit made all peoples, white and red, and pitched one big blue tapes overhead, that men might live as brothers, side by side, be hold, is not our country very wide, with room enough for all?'"

"At Nebraska we are too prone to devote our attention to the individual part, rather than the university as a whole. We concern ourselves chiefly in the fraternity group, the faction group, and the college, such as law, engineering and business administration, with but slight interest in the university itself.

"We are all Nebraskans, so let us take definite steps toward cementing the bonds of what it means to have that in common. Let us unify our student government and undergraduate life, developing an appreciation for the next fellow, as another Cornhusker, to the end that we may have a deeper and more profound admiration and devotion to the 'Feasting mother.'"
