SCRIBES EXPECT FUN FROLIC ON JOURNALISM DAY (Continued From Page 1.) The affair will be given excuses for scheduled classes for the day, according to Prof. Gayle C. Walker, director of the school of journalism. Transportation facilities will be available to every one wishing to make the trip to Seward where the major part of the day's program will be run off, according to Kenneth Gammill and Cliff Sandahl who are taking care of arrangements for the securing of cars for the trek. The day's program is scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock in the morning with a journalism specialty show in the auditorium of Social Sciences building. The feature of the meeting will be the awarding of the Sigma Delta Chi cup for the best stories written in The Daily Nebraskan during the first semester of this year. Announcements will also be made of special awards for feature writing and the like. Three Skits. Three skits are being prepared for the program which will be offered by Sigma Delta Chi, Theta Sigma Phi and "Gadflies," "honor-ary" journalistic organization. The nature of these skits has not been divulged as yet, but heads of the committees in charge have promised something "new and different" in the line of entertainment. After a lunch which is to be served at the Annex cafe, the party

Program Will Be Given on Wednesday, May 28, in Grant Memorial.

Preparations are being made for the traditional dance drama given each year by Orchestria, honorary dancing organization, according to Beatrice Richardson, instructor in dancing. The dance will be given Wednesday, May 28, and will be held in the dancing room of Grant's Memorial hall, instead of outside as has been the former practice. "The Soul of Machines" will be one of the main dance numbers. It will represent the reactions of the three sides of a man's nature, physical, mental, and spiritual; to the machine power evolved from present day science. Another number will consist of putting in dance form the various movements of Schumann's Sonata in G Minor.

Thirty-four Members. Orchestria has a present membership of thirty-four university women. Twenty-one of them have been initiated this year. They are Rowena Bengtson, Marjorie Bernstein, Jeanette Cassidy, Dorothy Charleson, Irma Conroy, Irma Dassenbroch, Elizabeth Freeman, May Gilles, Florence Heyne, Gwendolyn Hubbard, Lucille Kelly, Jessie May Kurk, Blossom McDade, Dorothy Meyer, Alene Newley, Josephine Orr, Jane Omidon, Irma Randall, Virginia Seabrooks, Maxine Stokes, Dorothy Zoelner. Members of last year are Ruth Diamond, Phyllis Dobson, Ruth Hatfield, Della Hoy, Mary Jane Le Mere, Antoinette Lococo, Grace Pechous, Jean Rathburn, Elizabeth Reimers, Mary Saecchi, Lucille Ambrose, Ethel Viehmeyer, Harriet Willey.

will leave for Seward, where the balance of the program is to take place. A meeting place which is to be announced later will be designated, and every holder of a ticket will be provided with a ride. A full program of sports and entertainment has been arranged for the afternoon, and a picnic dinner will be served about 6 o'clock in the evening. The general committee has arranged for a dance in the evening at the park pavilion. The holder of each ticket is entitled to full participation in every part of the program, according to Gomon, which includes lunch, picnic supper, dance, and other features which are now being arranged. All students who are registered for any course in journalism are eligible to attend the all-day affair. This first annual play-day for the journalists is being arranged by the staff of the school of journalism, Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi. Prof. Gayle C. Walker, director of the school of journalism, is acting in an advisory capacity for the event, while the women of the school are being represented by Dorothy Silvis, president of the Theta Sigma Phi.

The aim of the program, according to Professor Walker, is to get members of the school of journalism better acquainted, and to provide for general outing for the members of the school. OLD TIME PUBLICATION HEADS GOT RICH ON PROFITS OF STUDENTS AND MERCHANT CASH; NO RESTRICTIONS (Continued From Page 1.) ers seated the spectators. The seats on the north were covered, but those on the south where the students sat were open. Attendance at football games was about one-sixth of the present time. All companies in the military department drilled at one time from 4 to 5 o'clock each afternoon except Friday and Saturday. As there was no drill field, the drill and parades took place on the pavement on Twelfth street from the Armory to the Grand Hotel and in front of the Administration building on R street. The editorial offices of the Nebraskan occupied their present quarters in the basement of University hall and the paper was printed by the Western Newspaper Union. Those chosen for the editorial positions were not necessarily ones intending to take up journalism after graduation. Paper Hard to Fill. The editor wrote the editorials, the reporters gathered the regular news, and the managing editor made up the paper at night, he himself writing whatever in addition was needed to fill out the paper. "Boiler plate" was occasionally used. The great war, Belgian relief, and related topics furnished much editorial material. Mr. Koupal told of one occasion when the attitude he expressed on a certain subject was very much disapproved by the publications board and after disregarding their orders as to his comments on the topic he came very near being dismissed. Politics, as usual, played a big part in university life at that time. Charges of corruption in elections were not less frequent than now. "Mike" Petite, now a lawyer in Lincoln, was the political boss of Mr. Koupal's time.

Ring of Hammers, Crow Bars Clanging Heard on Ag Campus BY BOYD VON SEGGERN. Cleanup following Farmers Fair on the college of agriculture campus gave the appearance of a circus leaving town. The stage was being torn down. The college's 600 students were putting property effects back. They won't be used till another year anyway.

Hammers and crowbars banged away Sunday morning. Parade floats were dismantled and trucks were run back to the garages. Bunting was stripped off framework and stored away to await May, 1931. The 200-pound plaster egg used in the poultry float was carried back to incubate in an attic.

Pavilion Torn Up. Tents were already down late Saturday night. They, too, were carried off in the morning. Concessions stands were ripped apart before a late sun had begun shining. The committee that had decorated the campus with signs was gathering in its colorful messages. Perhaps they will be of use again next year.

Paper Picked Up. Dozens of scavengers were busy picking up papers. They were really busy. Pop bottles, paper plates, cardboard boxes—a confusing mess—littered the college of agriculture campus beautiful. The refuse
