COMMENCEMENT PLANS OUTLINED BY DEAN UPSON

Faculty Members Asked To Attend Ceremonies In Cap and Gown.

SENIORS GIVEN TICKETS

Graduates To Be Closely Checked For Presence At Exercises.

For the first time in the history of the University of Nebraska, faculty members will be required to attend the commencement exercises attired in caps and gowns, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dean Fred Upson of the graduate college who has charge of the arrangements. The exercises are scheduled for June 7. Dr. Upson stated that all faculty members of the rank of assistant professor and above are required to attend and that all others were requested to be there. Commencement exercises will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the university Coliseum. Dean Upson stated that another innovation this year would be the recession as well as the procession. Candidates for graduation will not only come to the exercises in a body but they will also depart from the Coliseum in the same manner. The doors of the Coliseum will open at 9 o'clock. Four tickets have been reserved for every senior. The seniors are requested to call for these tickets Thursday or Friday, June 5 and 6. The tickets may be obtained at room 9 in the Administration building. Medical college graduates will get their tickets from Dean Poynter or Miss Burgess.

Fees Due.

According to a letter which was recently sent out to all candidates for graduation diploma fees should be paid with cash to the finance secretary by Monday, June 2. No degree will be conferred unless fees have been paid. Seniors are requested to call at room 9 in Administration building for their fee slips.

Fees are as follows: Diploma from graduate college, $10; from all other colleges, $5; if degree is taken in absentia, $10 additional; university teachers' certificate, $2; physical education, journalism, vocational agriculture and home economics, $5.

OMAHA GRADE PUPILS SEE HUSKER CAMPUS

85 School Children Conduct Annual Tour to City and University.

Pupils of the Omaha public grade schools visited the University of Nebraska campus Thursday on their annual tour to Lincoln. Both the city and the agricultural campuses were visited. The morning was spent in inspecting the Coliseum, Stadium, Morrill hall and other points of interest on the city campus.

In the afternoon they visited the college of agriculture campus, the state capitol and other points of interest in Lincoln. Twenty-five were present from the Druid Hill school, forty from Saratoga and twenty from Madison.

In the afternoon fifty high school freshmen from Crete visited the campus. Twenty-five eighth grade students from Clifton Hill school of Omaha inspected the University of Nebraska earlier in the week.

Scientists Steal Pet Rats, 'Roaches' and Cobwebs from Nebraskan Rooms

BY SALLY PATICA.

How many counts will a blood count? That's what a lot of these young and hopeful anatomists are asking about the rats they are working on. Well—power to 'em, but we wish the science department would leave us alone and seek their specimens elsewhere. Our Rag office rats may be nothing but rats, but they're cellar rats like all the rest of us and it isn't fair to ask us to do without them.

Of course, the anatomists claim that its good 'or rats to be counted but we wonder about that. In the first place, we wonder what the rats themselves think about it. It might be good reducing exercise for them, but ours don't need the exercise. They get plenty of it trying to stay where we aren't.

They are wonderfully well brought up on the good old rule that two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time. Of course, they might like a change, but we know they would get homesick before long. The anatomists can't afford good journalism. Their paste and that's what we feed 'em on mostly.

Secretly, we would ask some of them about it only they are such darn secretive little brats. They have the right idea, we must admit. They never give out anything, and boy how they do take things in if we don't put them out of reach.

There's another thing we don't like about the science department. The boys who have taken a fancy to our particular brand of cockroaches and are trying to cook some of our best and most lively away from us. Now we ask the public, is that fair? They give us a specially constructed basement.

We welcome in the inevitable crop, bring them up according to the standards of our journalistic endeavors, and then these scientific guys try to get them and pickle them just to satisfy their ill-timed and by-no-means-polite curiosity.

Dents Moch Cobwebs.

Last, but not least, we would appreciate it if the dental students would quit mooching our three-ply extra fine cobwebs for dental floss to use on their patients. It takes time and trouble to raise cobwebs like that. We admit that they are more or less of a nuisance at times when we want to go from one place to another down here in one place without stopping, but still they help out our desire for privacy by putting a curtain between us and our scissors also.

We aren't registering a kick or anything like that, but we do feel that something should be done to take such a light fingered gang, squelch such a light fingered gang. We realize, however, that the anatomists must expect to suffer. We can only thank our lucky stars that the medical school is in Omaha.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE REPORTS ON BANQUET

Devereaux Gives Account Of Expense Incurred And Attendance.

SCHOLARSHIP DISCUSSED

Richard Devereaux, chairman of the Interfraternity banquet committee, gave his final report on the dinner before the Interfraternity council at its meeting last night in Morrill hall auditorium. According to Devereaux there were 536 guests present. All settlements have been made with the exception of a $40 delinquency which will be made up out of the treasury of the council.

President Grau presented an idea to the group which involved presenting the plaques at the annual banquet on a scholarship basis rather than a delinquency plan. The idea was discussed and laid upon the table until the next meeting which will be held on Wednesday, May 27, in room 9 of Morrill hall. This will be the last meeting of the year.

Investigate Ball Dates.

William Comstock and Robert Kinkead were appointed to investigate dates for the Interfraternity ball for the coming year and were instructed to present the dates to the council at the next meeting.

Lester Lohmeyer, chairman of the constitution committee, reported on the printing of the pamphlet. The pamphlet will be presented to the university senate before the close of the school year and will be printed as soon as that body approves. The booklet will contain the constitution of the body and also the rushing rules of the university.

Prof. E. F. Schramm and Prof. C. J. Frankforter led a discussion on the proposed Union building plan for the university. The council was urged to give its wholehearted support to the plan.

LE ROSSIGNOL TALKS TO HIGH GRADUATES

Dean J. E. LeRossignol, of the college of business administration, addressed the graduating class of the Stella high school last night. Tonight he will speak at the commencement exercises held for the seniors of Creighton high school.

Credit Books Must Be Returned to Registrar

All credit books must be returned to the office of the registrar before the close of the present school term, in order that they may be brought up to date over the summer vacation. Books not turned in will not be accurate for use next fall.

WRITERS FEAST, DINE AT ANNUAL RAGGER BANQUET

Nebraskan Staff Witnesses Array of Notables At Hotel Dinner.

SCANDAL SHEET ISSUED

Yearly Publication Reveals Personal Facts About Journalists.

BY ANOTHER RAG MAN.

The telegraph editor, Al Capone, Herb (himself) Hoover, Colleen Moore, Mussolini, Lindbergh and Ruth Hanna McCormick joined hands last night to produce food for thought for sixty perspiring journalists, fortunate enough to rate the annual Ragger banquet.

It was a gala gathering at the Hotel Lincoln, at least until the Ragger, annual school of journalism scandal sheet, was passed around. After that, a few embryo typewriter punchers felt bad because they were not mentioned. Those who were accorded recognition felt slightly worse, according to authentic reports.

Charges and insinuations flew fast and straight in the Ragger. The most insidious charge was against Gayle C. Walker, director of the school of journalism, who was declared to be a cheater and usurper by Irving Perimeter, bright Star reporter who should have the job. Gene Robb, who was kept from the banquet by illness, was reported as having been placed on the stand after a midnight mugging orgy.

Sandahl Criticized.

Cliff F. Sandahl, Robb's predecessor as editor, came in for plenty of criticism for editing stories from a linotype and for stealing a girl in Omaha. Bill McCleery, Maurie Akin, Peg Day, Bill McGaffin, Adele Eisler and Mary Nichol were among the favored few mentioned in the sheet.

The menu, if journalists are allowed to have one, included fruit cocktails, baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, peas, a salad and ice cream. Two-for-a-quarter cigars, which no journalist ever was able to afford in private life, were used by the men to lay a smoke screen for the evening's performance. Roses, table decorations at the start of the evening, later turned into favors for the ladies.

BIZAD HONOR GROUP CHOOSES MEMBERS

Three Taken Into Senior Organization, Beta Gamma Sigma.

Three new members were initiated into Beta Gamma Sigma, senior honorary business administration fraternity, at the Lincoln hotel last evening. The men taken into the society were Hubert Demel, Lyman Donald Erion, Omaha; and Walter H. Keller, Lincoln.

Members of the organization are chosen from the upper 10 percent of the male students in the graduating class. Beta Gamma Sigma holds the same position in the business administration college as Phi Beta Kappa does in the arts college, according to the officers' statement. The present membership will be reduced to five upon graduation of the senior members.

The initiation was followed by a banquet in the Arbor room of the hotel. Faculty members present were Professors Kirshman, Virtue, Fullbrook, Bullock and Morrison. In the main address of the evening Professor Fullbrook welcomed the new initiates into the fraternity.

New officers elected for the coming term were: Glen Atkins, president; Earl C. Hald, vice president; and Hubert Demel, secretary-treasurer.

AMHERST MEN MAKE OWN CONDUCT RULES

Fraternities Given Right to Formulate Laws for Social Life.

Amherst fraternities have been given the privilege of making their own rules of social conduct. Presence of unchaperoned girls in the houses will be left up to each individual group. Each organization will assume full responsibility in such instances.

The statement that there would be no faculty ruling upon the subject came as a result of the request by the Student committee for a definite faculty stand upon the question.

It was explained that the college would not delegate this responsibility to the fraternities for all time, but merely so long as the privilege of self government was not abused.

According to The Amherst Student, the statement is intended to clear up completely any question of direct responsibility for conduct in fraternity houses. It does not imply a letting down of the standards now existing in the houses, but is rather a guarantee that they shall continue to be adequately enforced.

Class in Journalism Searches Diligently for Fifteen Stories

By the Rag Man.

Imagine a room filled with worried students each saying to the other, "and how many stories do you have?" Your first guess is right. It is the journalism 82 class in the midst of the final attempts to keep from being turned in as incomplete.

Our teacher tells us that the perfect student is he who can by some means, not yet quite discovered, turn in fifteen stories by the end of the semester. So a story-hunting we will go.

Down to county court, a woman is suing a dead man for breach of promise. Imagine that if you can. A peach of a story but still we only receive a "P" for which the information of the students of this university (those who don't take journalism) is not so hot.

Here we are at a lecture. A wonderful lecture. A marvelous lecture. We sleep through it and get the results from the Rag. Another "P." That gives us a flat average of just "P."

Now we will take a little trip to Pioneer park. They tell us that someone said that someone else told them that something is going on. It seems that there is a dedication. And how it rains. It rains in forty different languages and five different ways. Rather a damp dedication. We get a "G." A hot time in the old town tonight.

And now as the final blow, a story written from the well known humorous sheet, "The Congressional Record." We find just how the government is mismanaged and also discover a new brand of sarcasm—"sons of wild jackasses."

A. W. S. BOARD MARKS TIME ON NEW 12:30 RULE

House Presidents Express Approval, But No Law Is Set Down.

WOMEN HOLD UP ACTION

No Time Established for Meeting To Decide On Question.

BY LITTLE POLITICUS.

As a result of extensive inquiry on the part of students, particularly university men, as to the fate of the much discussed 12:30 night rule which has been recently put up to the A. W. S. board and which has seemed to fade out of the news columns, The Nebraskan put a reporter on said story to try and sleuth out the mystery.

After much effort, and by dint of much ingenuity, said reporter discovered the telephone number of one Esther Gaylord, president of that austere body known as the Associated Women Students of the University of Nebraska.

Much questioning of Miss Gaylord on the part of the reporter once she had been reached by phone revealed the following facts regarding this much discussed bit of legislation.

No Official Action.

First: That the A. W. S. board has taken no official action on the proposed legislation. Second, a hearing of the house presidents has been held, and it seemed to be popular sentiment that the rule should be in favor of 12:30 nights instead of 12:15 nights on week ends, but Miss Gaylord specifically stated that the A. W. S. board has taken no official action.

The rule, if passed, will go into effect next year, when the new constitution of the board will be inaugurated with a new set of rules governing the women students of the university.

The board has taken the matter of women students smoking in the house into consideration, but as yet has not done anything of a definite nature. Some rule will be placed on the books regarding this matter, too, at the beginning of the next school term, but just what that will be is still a matter of conjecture.

No date has been set as yet for a meeting to consider the proposed rulings.

COLLINS SPEAKS ON CRO-MAGNON PEOPLE

Museum Curator Discusses Old Race in Weekly Radio Talk.

F. G. Collins, curator of the Nebraska museum, in his regular weekly radio talk yesterday discussed some of the anthropological specimens in the museum and in connection with that subject spoke of Alexander Pope, author of the essay on "Men." The specimens in the museum of which Mr. Collins spoke were of that prehistoric race of human beings known as Cro-Magnons.

The exhibit at the museum of the Cro-Magnon race was exemplified by a painting by Miss Elizabeth Uolan, well known mural painter, in her work in "Elephant Hall." The picture shows a family group with a domesticated dog. A man is drawing the likeness of a hairy mammoth on the wall with charcoal, while a daughter of the house is holding a lamp for him to see by.

The museum also has a cast of the skull of a man of this race. Actual remains are exceedingly rare, according to Mr. Collins.

Describes Race.

Describing the race, Mr. Collins says: "The Cro-Magnons are a fine race of who remains are found at the western end of Europe. They are called Cro-Magnon because it was at the village of that name in southern France that their remains were found, in the year 1868. These people appeared in Europe after the retreat of the ice of the glacial times. They are remarkable for their fine stature.

"One skeleton, that of an old man, is over 6 feet 4 inches in height. A skeleton of a woman is 5 feet 5 inches; that is a little above the average today, while her brain cavity exceeds that of the average modern man. These Cro-Magnon people left behind them in their caves beautiful works of art, sculpture, engraving, and painting."

Mr. Collins closed his talk on man with a couplet by Pope, a famous English writer: "Know then thyself, presume not God to scan; The proper study of mankind is man."

Kansas U. Gives Class For Firemen of State

GERMAN DOCTOR COMES TO STUDY PRAIRIE PLANTS

Dr. and Mrs. Heinrich Walter, of Heidelberg, Germany, have arrived in Lincoln where they will spend several months. Dr. Walter is a professor in the University of Heidelberg. He intends to study the water relations of the prairie vegetation.

Dr. Walter has been granted a Rockefeller research fellowship. According to Dr. J. E. Weaver, professor of ecology of the University of Nebraska department of botany, Dr. Walter has chosen to study grasslands between the Missouri river and the Rocky mountains because of the extensive work which has already been done in this region, upon the relation of the root systems to the water supply.

MOST PERSONS WET, DIGEST POLL FINDS

Of 100, 40 Want Repeal; 29 Ask Modification; 31 Are Dry.

FINAL RESULTS SCORED

Out of every one hundred people you meet, forty are wet, twenty-nine are moist and thirty-one are out and out dry.

At least, that is what the Literary Digest, through the medium of its poll on the eighteenth amendment, would have you believe. Such was the result of a tabulation, which included the votes of 4,806,464 men and women over the country.

A grand total of 4,806,464 of the twenty million ballots sent out came back properly marked, as follows:

For enforcement, 1,464,098, or 30.46 percent.
For modification, 1,369,514, or 29.11 percent.
For repeal, 1,945,052, or 40.43 percent.

Blanket Ballots.

Twenty million blanket ballots were sent out in the course of the poll. The return, according to Digest figures, far exceeds that from the Hoover-Smith straw vote, in which 2,767,265 ballots came back out of a total of 19,000,000 sent out.

Five states, Arkansas, Kansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee, registered a majority vote for strict enforcement, as previously reported; and five gave a majority for repeal—Connecticut, Louisiana, Nevada, New Jersey and Rhode Island. The two extremes, by the final figures, continue almost neck and neck—going in opposite directions: Kansas, 57.67 percent dry; Nevada, 57.61 percent wet.

Thirteen states gave over 40 percent of their votes for enforcement—Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

Eighteen for Repeal.

Eighteen states are more than 40 percent for repeal: Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

Washington state is the only one to give even a slightly larger vote for light wines and beer than for either enforcement or repeal; but the states that cast approximately 30 percent of their ballots for such modification include nearly one-half of the whole country—namely: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Six men were initiated into the organization. They were: Archie S. McMillen, '30, Lincoln; Christian L. Larson, '30, Aurora; Walter G. Huber, '30, Irvington; Nathan Levy, '31, Hastings; Carl Marold, '31, Saguache, Colo.; and Earl C. Fishbaugh, '31, Shenandoah, Ia.

Interest In Romance Languages Is Stimulated By Spanish Club, Circle

BY CLARENCE HIMES

The romance language department has been found much to stimulate interest in romance languages through the French circle and the Spanish club. These clubs are organized and conducted by the students themselves.

The French circle has the smaller membership of the two, but has been giving very interesting programs at its meetings. The club meets every other Wednesday afternoon. It has been in existence for many years. This year, however, it is under the control of the members entirely. The club has officers elected by the members. They are Lewis Vaughn, president; Elizabeth Bart, vice president; Edna Koontz, secretary; Jack Houck, treasurer.

Provide Opportunity.

The object of the club is to provide an opportunity for those interested in French to speak and hear French. Short plays, lectures, French songs, and conversation in French are among the things each meeting offers. Many short plays, sketches, and dialogues have been given this year. A lecture on Mme. Curie was given by Mrs. Kinick. Talks on French life and student life in Paris have been given by Mrs. Cooper and Miss Miner. Illustrated talks on French art and music were given by Mr. Poole and Mr. Banks. "At the Museum" was the subject of a lecture by Mr. Wadsworth, the sponsor of the club. Students of Cotner presented a play entitled "La Surprise D'Isidore." An evening of French music was sponsored by this club. The program was given by the students of Mrs. Mary Hall Thomas.
