CHANCELLOR WILL LEAD PARADE FOR TEXAS VISITORS

Guests Arrive at 1:40 p. m. Friday. Tour of City Starts at 2:30.

INNOCENTS NEED CARS

Night Rally Plans Proceed As Committeemen Get Details in Order.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the University of Nebraska will lead the tour of Lincoln on which visitors from Texas A. & M. college will be taken Friday, it was announced today.

The chancellor will drive his own car, and will have as his guest T. O. Walton, president of the Texas institution. Behind him will follow more than one hundred cars, bearing guests from the south.

The welcome tour will start from the coliseum at 2:30 Friday afternoon, and will be concluded about 3:15, after the visitors have been shown the city and agricultural college campuses, the residential section of Lincoln and the state capitol.

Train Arrives at 1:40. The tour will follow a parade of the Texas visitors through the business district of Lincoln. Their special train will arrive at 1:40 o'clock, and will be met by the University of Nebraska R. O. T. C. band. All students who wish to do so have been invited to greet the visitors at the depot. Don Carlson of the Innocents society said today.

A plea for more cars for use in the reception was sounded today by Carlson. "It is most important that students co-operate with the Innocents society in extending this courtesy to our visitors," he said. "To date, only twenty-five students have offered their cars for use in the welcome tour Friday. It is essential that we have at least seventy-five more. We feel that the tour Friday afternoon comes at an hour that would inconvenience no one. Faculty members, too, are cordially invited to drive their cars in the reception, for we feel that both they and the students can profit by knowing each other."

Notify Innocents. All students who desire to enter their cars in the tour can do so by notifying Bob Kelly or Bill McCleery at The Daily Nebraskan office, Kenneth Gammill or Ed Edmonds at the Cornhusker office, or by calling Don Carlson at F2119.

Every car in the parade will carry a windshield sticker saying, "I'm an Aggie host." These will be distributed this morning. The tour will be escorted by a guard of motorcycle police. Corn Cobs will assist in handling the crowd at the coliseum Friday afternoon.

Night Rally Follows. The reception will be followed by a night rally. Plans are now being made, and will include a gathering in front of the hotel at which the Texas group will stay, and a parade of the downtown streets.

The visitors from Texas A. & M. Coach D. X. Bible's old school, will be the first to come to the Nebraska campus this year.

Y. M. C. A. cabinet held its third meeting of the year in the Temple Sunday afternoon. Plans for "Dad" Elliott's meetings were discussed and also plans for Freshmen work.

No information concerning the number or nature of the complaints received by the council will be made public until after the meeting of the judiciary committee. The members of the committee are L. R. TEACHERS SUMMER IN EUROPE STUDYING ART

Take Courses in Vienna; See Passion Play At Oberammergau.

VISIT FAMOUS EXHIBITS

Miss Beza Steele and Miss Grace Morton of the home economics department of Nebraska university, spent four months, from May 16 to Sept. 14, of this year studying art in Europe. Among countries they visited were Austria, France, Germany, Italy, and England.

At the International School of Art at Vienna Miss Steele and Miss Morton studied modern art as interpreted in sculpture, ceramics, and architecture. Ateliers (work shops) of many artists who work in metals and ceramics, weaving and embroidery in and around Vienna, were visited and tours were made into the shops of interior decorators.

Study Under Cizek. Among noted art professors under whom the faculty women studied at Vienna were Frau Emmy Zwiabrock and Professor Cizek, the latter the internationally famed instructor of children's art courses.

The model tenement houses constructed by the government in Vienna were visited.

A most interesting exhibition of modern art, architecture, and house furnishings was seen in the Spring Salon, Grande Palais, in Paris. The Delacroix painting exhibition held in the Louvre, was another enjoyable feature of the trip.

Miss Steele, head of the design division of the home economics department at the university, took a number of excellent photographs during the trip which will be inspirational in the etching work she is doing.

Observe Costumes. Miss Morton, head of the textiles and clothing department, studied costume design as interpreted in medieval and renaissance painting in Italy and in design collections of historic and current fashion ideas in Nuremberg, Munich, London and Vienna. She found the peasant costumes especially picturesque. At Concarneau, seaport which is a mecca for painters, the vari-colored sails of the fishing vessels and the quaint costumes of the fishermen were memorable sights. Instead of being white, the sails of the ships here were every hue imaginable.

Other particularly interesting points were Mont St. Michel cathedral, built on an island, and Carcassonne in southern France, the medieval town in perfect preservation about which Viollet le Duc has written.

The two Nebraska university faculty women were privileged to see the passion play at Oberammergau, which they enjoyed as a beautiful and finished artistic production.

Both Miss Steele and Miss Morton purchased many pictures, textiles and prints which are to be displayed in the department of home economics sometime this fall.

His meetings are held especially for freshmen men but any man is welcome to attend. His topic will be "Playing the Game in College."

The freshman committee in charge of the meetings met Sunday afternoon in the Temple and approximated that one hundred men had signed up to hear all three of Elliott's lectures. Leroy Cole is the chairman of this committee. Last night the committee made a canvass of all the rooming houses near the campus calling on all the freshmen and reminding them of the meetings.

Coburn Tomson, president of the university Y. M. C. A., sent letters to the presidents of all the fraternities last week urging them to remind their freshmen of the meetings also.

"Dad" Elliott is a well known figure on the campus, having been here twice previously. He has been connected with Y. M. C. A. work practically all of his life. During the World war he was in the thick of the fight, carrying on Y work among soldiers.

At 11 a. m. today Mr. Elliott will speak in the Student Activities building at the agricultural college campus and he will speak to the freshman football squad this afternoon at 4:15 during their practice session. He will speak to them as an old football star, having been named all western end from Northwestern in 1901.

Ramsay Says He Feels Safer in Plane Than Car; Flies Intensively

"I feel safer in the air than I do riding in an automobile," stated Ray Ramsay, alumni secretary, who learned how to pilot a plane during the past summer. Mr. Ramsay says that he likes to fly and that he finds travel by air especially convenient for his work.

Curiosity in the way a plane is piloted and the mechanism which makes it go were what first interested Mr. Ramsay in becoming an aviator. "I decided that I wanted to learn to fly and that I wanted also to really learn something about aviation so that I could discuss it intelligently whenever the subject came up as it so frequently does," he said.

"Nebraska's level plains make it an aviator's paradise. I very rarely have trouble in finding a place to land and three times out of five, I don't know where I am going to land before I start out. The only concern I have ever had over landing was when I once landed in a field full of cattle with my red plane and spied an evil looking bull in the flock. We built an impro-

TASSELS PLAN SALES CAMPAIGN FOR DRAMATICS

University Players Will Present Six Plays During Season.

STUDENT RATE IS $2.00

Pep Club Divides Into Four Groups; Will Cover City and Campus

University Player's season ticket campaign will be conducted this year by the Tassels, women's pep organization from Oct. 1 to 4. Student tickets will be $2.00 and public tickets $4.00 each. Faculty members are entitled to student tickets, and the students and faculty of Lincoln schools have also been given the courtesy of these rates.

Six plays instead of eight will be presented this year and the tickets will be correspondingly less. The desire of the player's to spend more time on each production, thereby improving the general character of them explains the smaller number of plays to be offered during the year.

Miss Ledwith in Charge. Miss Lucille Ledwith, tassel in charge, and Clayton Pierce, business manager for the University Players, have the campaign organized and planned to reach every student and faculty member, and as many Lincoln people as possible.

Arrangements provide that the Tassels be divided into four groups each under the direction of one member of the supervisory committee. Emma McLaughlin heads the group which is responsible for Social science, Temple building, Andrew hall and Morrill hall; Sally Pickard is in charge of the groups which will canvass the Ag campus; Mable Hayne and her group will cover the faculty and administration; and Lucille Ledwith heads the group which will sell the tickets to business houses, schools and dormitories.

All Tassels to Take Part. All the tassels will co-operate in the sales effort at the campaign booth at the Texas A. and M. game when the tickets will be on sale before and after the game. Sorority representatives are responsible for the thorough canvassing of their respective houses and alumni, and each pair of representatives will be responsible for soliciting a fraternity house to which they have been assigned.

SUBSCRIPTION DRIVE FOR PAPER CONTINUES

Nebraskan Solicitors Have Trouble in Calling on Instructors.

"Circulation figures for The Daily Nebraskan have not yet reached the total of last year but they are mounting rapidly," Charles Lawlor, business manager declared Monday. Lawlor said that a thorough campaign of the university instructors was made last week, but that difficulty was experienced in finding the teachers in their designated offices.

Because a large number of them could not be reached the campaign is being continued this week. Lawlor stated that faculty members who were not reached could subscribe by mailing their checks for $2 to the office of The Daily Nebraskan and stating the building and room number to which they wish to have the paper sent.

He added that no more free copies would be distributed after this week in the book stores. "Beginning next week," he stated, "the book stores will be given a list of the people who have paid their subscriptions, and only these persons will be given copies of the paper."

CACHE OF INDIAN RELICS LOCATED ON RIVER'S BANK

Mr. E. E. Blackman, curator of the Nebraska State Historical society museum, who has made many discoveries of Indian lore in Nebraska, recently viewed an ancient Indian cache uncovered near Hastings. Mr. Blackman journeyed by motor from Lincoln to the spot where the cache is located, about twelve or fifteen miles south of Hastings on the banks of the Blue river for the purpose of examining the find.

In grading the highway a plow cut directly through the cache, which is four feet wide by six feet deep. Discovery was made easy by a difference in color and appearance of the soil that had washed into the cache, according to Mr. Blackman.

Clam shells which were used in digging the cache were observed at the very bottom. "These clam shells," said Mr. Blackman, "were in such a state of decay that they led me to believe that the cache was made fully 500 years ago."

Mr. Brookings of the Hastings museum and Mr. A. T. Hill, who discovered the spot where Pike pulled the Spanish flag in 1806, are the men who first reported the location of the cache. "As it exists now it is but a missing link in the archeology of the country, but future discoveries may enhance its value," Mr. Blackman declared.

FRESHMEN MAY ORDER CAPS AT ANNUAL OFFICE

So great has been the demand for the traditional green freshman caps that the supply has been exhausted and more requests for the caps are being received. The Innocents society announces that freshmen who have not yet received their caps shall apply to the Daily Nebraskan or Cornhusker office and more will be ordered.

A plan of enforcing the green cap tradition, heretofore vested in the various fraternities, will be announced by the Innocents society soon.

Until last year the annual Olympics, of freshmen-sophomore class fight, decided the length of time the freshmen were required to wear the caps. If the freshmen were victorious they could take off the caps. If not they wore them until the first snow fall.

Last year the freshmen took off the caps when the freshmen team was victorious in the football game against the Missouri freshmen.

A. W. S. BOARD PLANS ALL UNIVERSITY TEA

Extra-Curricular Groups Will Entertain Coeds in Ellen Smith.

AUTUMN IS COLOR MOTIF

To promote interest in activities and provide information about school organizations, the Associated Women Students' board will sponsor an All-University tea Thursday from 3:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. at Ellen Smith hall. Both upperclassmen and undergraduates are invited.

The tea will be given under the auspices of the A. W. S. board, Big Sister board, Women's Athletic association, Y. W. C. A., and League of Women Voters. It marks the first attempt on this campus to present the major activities, their function and organization, to the women of the university as a means of familiarizing them with extracurricular organizations of most interest to each one.

Miss Diamond is Chairman. According to Ruth Diamond, general chairman, each of the major activities will have a room, set apart for the afternoon, presided over by the president and officers of the group. Here the particular activity will be explained, and guests at the tea may meet the heads of the group.

Another feature will be the absence of a receiving line, but there will be girls in every room to meet the guests. Hostesses at the tea will dress formally.

Autumn leaves, bittersweet and cattails will provide the decorative background for the tea, and fires will be lighted in the fireplaces. Charlotte Joyce is in charge of decorations.

Refreshments will consist of tea, French pastries, nuts and mints. The Tassels, girls' pep organization, will serve in uniform. Helen McAnulty has charge of refreshments for the tea.

Other committees are headed by Ruth Hatfield, entertainment, and Jean Rathburn, rooms and booths. Letters were issued this week inviting all girls interested in activities to attend.

EDMONDS MAKES NEW PLANS FOR YEARBOOK SALE

Business Manager Outlines Idea for Two Drives During Winter.

WOULD ELIMINATE LOSS

Students Must Buy Books In Advance; May Make Down Payment.

That the Cornhusker year book will be sold on an entirely new plan this year was made known yesterday by Edwin Edmonds, business manager of the 1931 volume. Two separate sales campaigns will be conducted, Edmonds declared while discussing arrangements now being made.

"Experience has shown over a period of years," Edmonds said, "that an unnecessary financial risk is taken when placing an order for books with the printers if the books are not paid for or spoken for by students. Those books not sold cut down the revenue and create the possibility of a deficit."

Sale Starts Soon. The first of the two proposed sales, according to the plan, will be instituted within the next month. The books will be priced at five dollars a copy as in former years, it was stated, but a 10 percent discount may be obtained by paying cash at the time of subscribing to the volume. This will enable students to obtain their copies for four and one-half dollars as they did last year, Edmonds explained.

Under the new plan that the business manager has outlined students may buy copies of the Cornhusker by means of installments. One dollar will be asked as a down payment when the purchaser subscribes for his copy. Another dollar must be paid by Nov. 15 and a third dollar must be deposited with the business staff by Dec. 15. Upon receipt of the book two more dollars will complete the sale.

Second Campaign Later. A second sales campaign will be conducted by the business staff shortly after the beginning of the second semester, the plan includes. Subscriptions will be priced at five dollars then and the order will be sent to the printers immediately upon close of the sale, according to Edmonds.

In commenting upon the new plan, Edmonds pointed out that some method of obtaining an accurate check on sales must be carried out. "Students must buy their books in advance," he emphasized, "and there will be no extra books for sale next spring. We are certain of that."

Followed in Other Schools. At other schools copies of the yearbook must be paid for in advance, the business manager revealed. At many schools, he added, the book is bought by the student when he pays his fees.

"With co-operation from all students," Edmonds concluded, "we will be greatly assisted and the entire university will profit from a better yearbook."

TICKET SALES MOUNT FOR OPENING GAME

Orders Reach $18,000 Mark Saturday; Many Wait For Reservations.

With the Texas A. & M. game just a few days off, the office of the business management reports that ticket sale is going at a fast pace. By last Saturday, over $18,000 worth of tickets had been sold, and a stream of orders is continuously pouring in. However, there are still many good seats in both the cheering sections and general sections available. Students are urged to buy their tickets early.

In order to secure the special price of $9 for a season ticket, a student must bring his identification card with him, otherwise he will be charged the regular price of $12. All those in the cheering section must be present at all games and must be in their places, especially during the half, on the penalty of forfeiting their seats. A substitute may be used if necessary.

Lucile Nordholm, former home economics student at the university who attended Merrill Palmer Institute at Detroit, Mich., last fall, has accepted a fellowship at Michigan Agricultural college where she assists in the nursery school.
