SELLECK WARNS STUDENTS ABOUT YEARBOOK SALE

Publication Board Backs Staff's Plans for Contract Sale.

FIRST SALES ARE SLOW

People Disregard Plans; Those Buying Favor Small Payments.

Students who are delaying their purchase of the Cornhusker annual with the idea of getting one in the spring, as has been the practice in the past, are going to find themselves without a campus yearbook, according to a statement made Monday by John K. Selleck, secretary of the publication board.

Due to financial difficulties which have arisen in the past the publication board has deemed the practice of contracting all Cornhuskers sales this fall the only expedient course, according to Selleck's statement.

Some Disregard Step.

"There are still too many students who are disregarding the new step taken by the staff," Business Manager Edmonds of the Cornhusker staff asserted yesterday. "We realize that in view of sales arguments used in the past to this effect many believe that such is the case this year. The fact is that there will be no extra yearbooks available next spring."

Despite the attention which the Cornhusker staff has given to the matter of the new contract plan the first day's sales indicate that many have refrained from buying because of this false impression, Edmonds indicated.

Sales Below Hopes.

The first day's sales were a bit below the expectations of the Cornhusker business staff, Edmonds announced. The dollar down plan of buying the book has been a great favorite, many preferring the easy payment system to the discount of fifty cents which is gained by paying cash. After this week the book will sell at $5 and no discount will be given for a cash buy.

The sales quota for the week's campaign is 1,500 and this must be reached before Saturday night when the campaign closes.

GULICK WILL ASK IF WAR IS INEVITABLE

Noted Church Secretary Presents Question This Morning.

TO SPEAK IN TEMPLE

"Is War Inevitable?" Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, secretary of the commission on international justice and goodwill for the federal council of churches, will ask students of the university this question at a convocation in the Temple at 11 a. m. today.

Dr. Gulick is a member of other commissions on international relations, especially those between America and the Orient. He spent twenty-six years as a missionary to Japan and is the author of several books dealing with American-Japanese relations.

Speaks At Mission School.

He was one of the speakers at the school of missions and the institute on work relations, held Oct. 6, 7, and 8 at Trinity Methodist church in Lincoln. In addition to being secretary of the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill for the federal council of churches, Dr. Gulick is secretary of the national committee on American-Japanese relations and the national committee on the churches and world peace.

Among the books that he has written are "The Evolution of the Japanese," "The American Japanese Problem," "America and the Orient," "Anti-Japanese War Scare Stories," "American Democracy and Asiatic Citizenship," "The Christian Crusade for a Warless World," "The Winning of the Far East," and other works in Japanese as well as English.

Born In Pacific.

Dr. Gulick was born in 1860, of missionary parents, in Ebon of the Marshall Islands, in the middle of the Pacific ocean.

From 1887-1913, he was a missionary in Japan, spending his furloughs in additional study in the United States and in Europe. Since 1913, he has been connected with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. He is the secretary of its commission on international justice and goodwill, and is also secretary of the national committee on American-Japanese relations, and the national committee on the churches and world peace.

Travels In Orient.

In 1915, Dr. Gulick was sent to Japan by the federal council of churches, with Dr. Shailer Mathews, at that time president of the council, and again in 1922-23 he made an extended visit in China, Korea, and Japan, conveying to the churches of those lands a message from the churches of the United States.

He was also present at the memorable conference held at Constance in 1924, when the world alliance for international friendship through the churches was formed, and was a member of the commission appointed by the federal council to take to Paris and present to President Wilson, in February, 1919, the resolutions of these bodies endorsing the proposals for a League of Nations.

RUMORS SPREAD AS ELECTION OF OFFICERS NEARS

Fraternity Factions Plan Campaigns for Fall Vote Casting.

BARB GROUP RETRACTIVE

Alliance Possibilities Seen By Politicians as Day Draws Near.

When election day begins to appear closer and closer with the dawn of each new day, rumors become more and more prevalent.

That is the case every time an election is held on the University of Nebraska campus. And sometimes these rumors become more than mere rumors.

Right now whisperings are going on about possible hookups between one of the Greek factions with the bars. This is an old idea, but it has its significance, as leading politicians will admit.

Meetings are being held tonight by the two fraternity factions and something certain on this matter may be forthcoming after that. The main matter to be taken up, however, will be the drawing up of the slates for class presidencies, preparatory to the election, a week from today.

Both parties have held their nomination caucuses, but the get-together tonight will decide the fate of the vote-seekers. The Yellow Jackets will assemble at the Phi Kappa Psi house at 10 p. m. while their opponents, the Blue Shirts, have agreed to meet an hour earlier at the Sigma Phi Sigma house.

At the latter meeting Art Mitchell will be selected upon to give a report of the findings of his committee, appointed at the last session of the Blue Shirts.

Mitchell's committee has been endeavoring to map out a definite program to be carried out by the faction during the drive for votes. Working with him have been Bob Kinkaid, Marvin Von Seggern and Art Wolf.

Just what the bars are doing in the preliminary race is not known, but it is probable that organization meetings are being held or will be held during this week and that a nonfraternity slate will be made.

The announcement of the committee's choice will be made Wednesday by the chancellor.

The committee members are Dean J. D. Hicks, chairman, Dr. Samuel Avery, Dr. E. H. Barbour, Prof. M. H. Merrill and Dr. C. H. Oldfather.

OLD FAVORITES PLAY IN 'JOURNEY'S END'

Walter Vogt, Herbert Yenne Take Leading Roles; 2 Guest Artists.

LENER AS 'CHARACTER'

Many of the old favorites and two guests new to university play goers have been selected to play in "Journey's End," which will be presented from Oct. 20 to 25.

Walter Vogt is to take the part of Stanhope, the young army captain who has been "playing the game" for several years, keeping a stiff grip on himself and his subordinates during the stress and strain of war. He is the hero of young Raleigh, who has just come from prep school and is a second lieutenant under him. Stanhope is engaged to Raleigh's sister, and is placed in the difficult position of having to discipline his former schoolmate and his fiancée's brother. Herbert Yenne is to be Raleigh.

Diers Has Role.

Theodore Diers, who has had professional experience both as an actor and as a director and is now in charge of the university radio program is one of the guest stars who is to play the part of Lieutenant Osborne, the kindly philosophical school teacher who understands and sympathizes with all of the men.

The part of Second Lieutenant Trotter, the man who creates many of the laughs in the show, is to be played by William Thompson, a guest of the players, who was formerly a member of the Brandeis players in Omaha and is now working for his master's degree at the university.

Portrays a Scared Soldier.

W. Zolley Lerner is cast as Second Lieutenant Hibbert, the chap who has come to the point where he can no longer conceal his fear of war and everything connected with it. Captain Stanhope's treatment of Hibbert and the disclosure which he makes about his own feelings regarding the war make this scene one of the most outstanding in the play.

Private Mason, the comical cook who does his best to prepare appetizing meals out of rather unpromising material, is portrayed by Robert Reade, stage manager for the University Players. Leland Bennett takes the part of Captain Hardy, Art Singely is the company sergeant major, Harlan G. Easton the colonel, and Jere Mickel the German soldier who is captured by the English in one of the raids and make to talk.

COACH WHITE GETS NOTICE OF DEBATE

Oct. 27 Is Date Set By Federation for Go With English.

NO JUDGE IS NECESSARY

The date for the international debate with England has been definitely set for Monday evening, Oct. 27, according to Prof. H. A. White of the English department and coach of debate.

After a considerable delay, final word was received from the national student federation of New York which sponsors these contests, assigning Nebraska to that date.

The hall in which the debate will take place is yet to be determined as the Temple is engaged for that evening. Possibly one of the Lincoln churches will be used. Last year it was held in St. Paul's church.

England Wants Spilt.

Professor White also received word on Saturday that the English team desires to split on the subject of democracy. This means that one man from each country will appear on either side. It will be necessary for Nebraska's two debaters, Alan Williams and Lloyd Pospisich, to work up a new case to suit the wishes of the English team in dividing on the motion.

Each speaker will be allowed sixteen minutes, divided into a presentation address of ten minutes and a refutation, later, of six minutes. After the main debate the subject will be thrown open to open forum discussion by the audience. Open forum discussions have been a popular feature in debates at Nebraska in previous years. About one hour will be allowed the audience.

Debate Will Start Early.

It is planned to begin the debate early in the evening so that the students from neighboring high schools, who have taken a great interest in Nebraska debates in the past, will have plenty of time to return home that evening.

Plans are being made to entertain the two English gentlemen, B. J. Grehan of the University of Liverpool and D. Hope Elliottson of St. John's college, Oxford university, in one of Lincoln's first class hotels with either an informal luncheon at noon or an informal dinner, depending upon their hour of arrival.

Requires No Judges.

This debate, as have been all of Nebraska's debates for the last ten years, will not be a regular judged debate, but should there be a desire on the part of the audience to know who did the better debating, they will be allowed to express their opinion as judges.

Forms are being prepared to be circulated through the audience on which each person may write his opinion as to the side of the question he takes in his own mind before and again after the debate and any comments he wishes to make for a possible change of opinion.
