GREEK CONFERENCE VISITOR WILL SPEAK

Wilber Walden Is Field Representative of Organization.

MEET SET FOR NOV. 11

Wilber Walden, representing the National Interfraternity conference, will speak here on Nov. 6 at a meeting of all Greek men on the campus. Mr. Walden is one of fifteen field speakers sent out by the conference each year to explain the functions of the group.

In an interview Mr. Walden explained that the conference is distinguished from the National Interfraternity council in that it is purely advisory. "We do no legislating," he stated. "We have meetings in New York every year the day after Thanksgiving and all sorts of fraternity problems are discussed. Committees work all through the year on these problems; rushing, pledging, building new houses, and even diet and menu questions. They report the results of their investigations at the annual meeting and much benefit is derived from them."

"The whole is a matter of suggestion," Mr. Walden continued. "No rules or anything of that sort are ever suggested. They are not in our province."

The subject of Mr. Walden's speech will be "The American College Fraternity and the Interfraternity Conference." Announcement will be made later of the place where the meeting will be held.

Mr. Walden is a member of Alpha Chi Rho fraternity.

WARE UPHOLDS NEBRASKAN'S STAND ON ATHLETICS AND SCHOLARSHIP IN WORLD-HERALD COLUMN DISCUSSION

"Times of marked materialism usually have been accomplished by disinterest in real education, in deep study.

"Whether these days are part of such a time, I leave to others to declare. The fact is evident that the vast majority of matriculants at any college are not inclined toward scholarship. They are there to reap the glories of the athletic field with a minimum of attention to proceedings in the classroom. Or they are dominated by the yen to make Sappa Stigma, or Hadda Hott Data, thereby gaining membership in a sort of goofy, illusory campus peerage. Or they endeavor to skim through four years of pipe courses to one of those degrees which they feel elevates them above the buck or gal who finished his formal education the night he delivered the valedictory for the senior class of Creaking Spring high school.

"So the efforts of the larval journalists in whose keeping is the Daily Nebraskan for the present semester, to my way of thinking, are well timed.

"There has been little of the intolerant, crusading spirit in what I have read in The Nebraskan's editorial columns. Athletics have not been damned; there has been no suggestion that sports even should be minimized.

"Somewhat to the contrary, the editor has suggested that the method of obtaining proficient athletic scholars, which has been shown to be very successful, be applied to the task of recruiting freshmen with a great yearning for Phi Beta Kappa as Benny Whoof, all-county fullback in 1929, feels for All-American distinction.

"I do not believe that the editor of The Nebraskan thinks membership in Phi Beta Kappa is any certain mark of real culture any more than 'election' to the gridiron elect by several self-constituted experts means that a football player so chosen is a greater practitioner of that strenuous subject than scores of contemporaries whose names were omitted when candidates were considered.

"The campaign of The Nebraskan, as I see it, is for a scholastic renaissance, and Phi Beta Kappa might be said to be a symbol. I hold that actually a good many narrow, intolerant parties dangle from their watch chains P. B. K. keys gained only through a nice gift of memorizing.

"The Nebraskan would interest alumni and other friends of the school in a movement to evangelize bright high school students whose greatest athletic gift may be to whittle a lead pencil. You prep school kids with a desire to learn of the opportunity Nebraska offers."

"The Nebraskan would interest employers of student, or "Chinese" labor in students who have registered because of a hot urge to get themselves educated. The Nebraskan would have faculty men as interested in obtaining jobs for such students as the football staff is interested in "lining up" its frosh apprentices.

"The Nebraskan, if possible, would generate a campaign to popularize scholarship, rather than the procedure that has made athletics, rather than learning, stand in the average mind for a campus.

"The apprentice scribes will find sympathy among the faculty, as I have said before. But I fear that they will discover a lamentable indifference among the majors; rushing, pledging, building new houses, and even diet and menu questions. They report the results of their investigations at the annual meeting and much benefit is derived from them."

"The whole is a matter of suggestion," Mr. Walden continued. "No rules or anything of that sort are ever suggested. They are not in our province."

The subject of Mr. Walden's speech will be "The American College Fraternity and the Interfraternity Conference." Announcement will be made later of the place where the meeting will be held.

STUDENTS PLAN PARTY WITHOUT PROPER CONSENT

(Continued from Page 1.) Organizations as the council may see fit. Subscription dances shall be considered to include all university dances for which admission is charged.

The Council May Change Rule. The Student council rule, it was pointed out by Bob Kelly, president of the council, is effective only on organizations but was intended to include all subscription dances. If necessary a change will be made at the Student council meeting to be held Wednesday which will make it applicable to subscription dances sponsored by individuals, he said.

According to the plans announced by Stone and Lancaster part of the profits are to go to fraternities in buy libraries. Representatives in about a dozen fraternities are selling tickets within their own group.

"If there is any need for a Cornhusker fall party," Kelly stated, "I think it should be sponsored by some recognized organization. If it is limited to fraternity men it should be sponsored by the Interfraternity council with the permission of the Student council."

Grau Disapproves. Fred Grau, president of the Interfraternity council, also expressed himself as opposed to the party because he feels that too many of such affairs will constitute a distraction to the students.

"Since the ticket campaign is staged within the fraternities," he said, "We will take up the matter at the meeting of the Interfraternity council Tuesday night."

Oct. 18 is also the date of the second All-University party under the direction of the Barb council.

SELLECK WARNS STUDENTS ABOUT YEARBOOK SALE

The publication board statement follows:

To the Students: The policy of the 1931 Cornhusker staff to print only a sufficient number of annuals to fill orders received in advance is being adopted at the request of the student publication board. This course has been deemed the only possible solution to the difficult situation which has arisen in the past two or three years due to the increasing number of students who have put off purchase of their book until distribution of the Cornhusker in May.

The pursuance of this policy means that those students who do not express their desire to have a Cornhusker and their intention to purchase one by ordering a copy this fall, will be unable to obtain a copy when the Cornhusker is distributed.

It is hoped that all students who desire a copy of this year's annual will take cognizance of

Tent and Awning Company Gets Pay for Gridiron Cover

A check for $4,200, payment for Nebraska's new gridiron cover, was mailed today to the Lincoln Tent and Awning company, makers of the cover, by the athletic department.

The new cover, for use on the football field on days before games when rain threatens, is made in eight sections, each ninety feet square. The total weight of the cover is approximately four tons.

It is made of green water proofed army duck and is equipped with rope handles to facilitate handling. It is similar to covers used at other schools.

This notice and make definite arrangements with the Cornhusker staff for their Cornhusker. JOHN K. SELLECK, Secretary Publication Board.
