ably outfitted in sacks and slacks we may reasonably expect new uniforms for the band. Its appearance is scarcely worthy of its responsibility, with the present messenger boy togs.

As long as coeds are agitating for smoking rooms in sororities, how about starting study rooms in fraternities?

MORNING MAIL

Ho, Hum!

TO THE EDITOR: Are Corneobs and Tassels pep organizations? I always thought they were, but of late it seems not.

At any rate, they show little if any more spirit than the student body as a whole. When the Nebraska football team left for Ames and its second conference game Thursday night, the Corneobs and Tassels, according to The Daily Nebraskan, were supposed to be there.

Were they? In part, and a mighty small part. There were somewhere in the neighborhood of twenty Corneobs there, which was a pitifully small representation. The Tassels were there—three of them. The band, again according to The Daily Nebraskan, was supposed to be there, but not even a single piccolo was seen among the "crowd" of some fifty students who saw the team depart.

It is no wonder that Nebraska football teams sometimes lose, when one considers that the student body lends practically no support. The send-off Thursday night is only one example of the lack of spirit of the two alleged pep organizations, and the student body as a whole.

Is there any way to jar Nebraska students out of their smug complacency? I begin to fear that there is not. To what lengths their lack of spirit may go I won't attempt to guess, but believe me, Nebraska grid teams are in for a lot of tough years if the student body doesn't wake up.

Crack the Whip.

TO THE EDITOR: The board of regents and the administration have taken an important step. All student activities have been guaranteed a certain amount of money upon which to operate. But they are to first present a budget. To all appearances the amount of that budget which they shall receive rests in the hands of an administrative committee.

This is the question—are student activities going to sell their independence for a pocket full of shekels? The undergraduate body of this university sincerely hopes not.

It is openly conceded to begin with that the committee in charge of administering these funds will act in good faith. One is caused to wonder, however, whether this good faith might not be biased towards certain activity groups at times when those particular groups are under fire. Certainly the administration has a very strong whip.

Maybe the matter is now beyond the choice of the respective activities organizations. The writer is not in a position to know, but judging from the present source of information—the Nebraskan—it would seem that all activities, including the worthy Student council, are to operate under the new plan.

If any jurisdiction lies in the hands of activity bodies at the present time it is hoped that they will not be too hasty in accepting the new plan which places them under a certain obligation to administrative authorities. They might do well to stop and consider possible results.

If, as The Nebraskan story seems to indicate, activities are to operate under the regents' plan, let us hope that whatever the situation may be, the administrative committee will be actuated solely by a sense of financial consideration when it act on the budgets of respective organizations. The committee has a formidable bludgeon to wield on organizations which it dislikes. By denying an organization—the Student council might be used as an instance—necessary funds, it can easily render such an organization useless. Such cases, we hope, will not arise.

When a question of the utility of an organization becomes moot, let the decision rest with the student body. If they feel that its existence can no longer be tolerated they will take their own measures to abolish it. LIEP

More Parking.

TO THE EDITOR: In regard to parking spaces, would it not be a good idea to give faculty members parking space in the immediate vicinity of their class rooms and then throw the present Faculty parking area, open to students?

Owing to the fact that all members of the faculty of our college are not present and needing parking space at any one time, except on special occasions, it is believed that two-thirds of the necessary spaces could be reserved and would be in use at all times.

On special occasions additional parking spaces could be found wherever possible for the time being by the individual concerned. G. W. F.

N. B. C. NETWORK WILL BROADCAST RUSSELL'S TALK

(Continued from Page 1.) dent affairs at the university, has made the following announcement relative to excusing classes: "Instructors who have a considerable number of students who will attend the lecture by Mr. Russell or who themselves wish to go to this convocation may feel free to discontinue their classes. Students who are otherwise unoccupied should be urged to attend. The audience should be seated by 11 o'clock."

A committee of fifty men and women, well known in this country, is sponsoring the six-months tour of the United States Mr. Russell is taking. This committee believes that a new basis of human relations is necessary in this country, particularly because political centralization and industrialism have done so much to uproot normal life and to undermine the traditional bases of democracy.

They believe that the philosophy of community life with which AE inspired Irish farmers to organize into co-operative societies and to be content with their position marks an important contribution to the solution of this problem. Mr. Russell has received nationwide attention since his arrival in the United States. He regards his work in Ireland as ended. His efforts there have been heralded throughout the world. His writings include: "The Irish Homestead," "Co-operation and Nationality," "Imagination and Reveries," "The National Being," "The Candle of Vision," and "Voices of Stone."

W. A. A. TROPHIES TO BE AWARDED TUESDAY

Second Annual Mass Meeting Called for 7:30 in Women's Gym.

W. A. A. will hold its second annual mass meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the gymnasium to award plaques to the organized groups who won first places in intramural sports last year. Nearly two hundred girls are expected to attend.

This is the second meeting of its kind held by W. A. A. Last spring awards were made, officers were installed, "N's" awarded, and the sport heads gave reports on their individual sports. Two such meetings a year will be given for the purpose of publicly awarding all honors.

Ruth Diamond, president of W. A. A., will preside at the meeting. Miss Mabel Lee, head of the physical education department, will explain the purpose and activities of W. A. A. in a brief talk. A short program consisting of a vocal duet, and a tap dance by Irmeline Waldo will end the meeting.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS OPEN SEASON MONDAY

Extensive Preparations Made. The stage properties were not very elaborate but this will not be the case at the Temple Monday night as extensive work is under way for the proper preparation of the play.

The play should be tremendously interesting. Whirring shells, dugouts, nerve-racked minds and shell-torn bodies are common occurrences in "Journey's End." However, these scenes are interspersed with delightful humor and clever comedy. The play presents a problem, a great play in three acts of excellent drama.

The University Players will give the play at the state penitentiary Sunday afternoon. The play opens at the Temple theatre Monday night and will continue throughout the week with the last performance Saturday night.

NO CARDS ISSUED ON TUESDAY SAYS KELLY

watchers will not be permitted to assist in the counting of ballots. No Loitering Allowed. Students are requested not to loiter in the lobby of the Temple or in the polling place in Agricultural hall. The polls will open at 9 a. m. and close promptly at 5 p. m. Boyd Von Seggern is chairman of the Student council election committee and is making all arrangements. Von Seggern, Kelly and Professor Lantz will be the election committee to decide on all problems that may arise during the election day but the student council will pass final judgment. Won't Take Excuses. New students on the campus are being advised to inform themselves on all regulations regarding university elections, according to statements made by Von Seggern. No excuses on the day of the coming elections will be accepted for ignorance in regard to laws set forth by the council, it was stated.

Orkin Bros. M. WASSERMANN. WOMEN MISSES. LONG'S

LONG'S. Is Edison Wrong? Thomas Alva Edison attended school only three months. He is an outstanding example of what a man may achieve without the advantages of a formal education.

Is Edison Wrong? Yet Edison is awarding University scholarship to a group of young men every year. Is he wrong in selecting these young men by a series of examinations? Is he wrong when he has those examinations graded and then chooses those who have the highest grades? If he is wrong, so is the General Electric Company and the Standard Oil Company and the National City Bank of New York and scores of leading American Corporations.

Every spring representatives of many great corporations visit the Nebraska campus with positions to offer certain Nebraska graduating seniors. Are these corporations wrong when they instruct their representatives to examine the scholastic records of applicants for positions? Are they wrong when they show no interest in the man who "just gets by"? Grades count!

BY COLLEGE BOOK STORES Facing Campus

No, Thank You!

Barb council members went on record at their meeting Friday noon as favoring the return of the Awgwan, PROVIDED at least one-half the staff be chosen from among the non-fraternity students.

It is true that the Awgwan, if resurrected, must be a truly representative student comic. It is equally true that to make the publication representative, there should be no discrimination between fraternity and non-fraternity groups. Both must have a hand in the publishing.

For any one group, however, to deliberately state that to secure its support the magazine must employ a staff comprised of at least fifty percent members of that group, is a horse of another color. It looks very much as though the Awgwan, killed by politics, is about to be made a political prize even before its needed resurrection.

While The Nebraskan believes there is a real need for a comic publication on the campus, and that the Awgwan should be revived to meet that need, it is self-evident that political bargaining for staff positions between any groups or factions will kill the sheet even before it is reinstated, granting that reinstatement is possible.

Student opinion has appeared to favor, almost unanimously, the return of the Awgwan. If it can be made a financial success, and a really representative magazine, presenting the humorous side of campus life with some degree of veracity rather than degenerating to a sheet filled with Greek names and inter-fraternity wise-cracking, it should be reinstated. If, however, the coming cannot be revived without strife between the various groups represented on the campus, and a mad grabbing for political plums in the form of staff positions, we say "No, Thank You." Let it remain buried.

Maybe the operating superintendent is waiting for cold weather to solve the parking problem by freezing up all the campus flivvers.

Campus Spiritualists.

Do we have any real school spirit on the Nebraska campus? This question has become all-important of late. Our cheering section gives the team less support than the knot-hole club, whose yells resound from the west stand. A contributor in The Morning Mail column deprecates the lack of co-operation of the Tassels and Corneobs.

Nebraska's varsity squad won from Iowa state yesterday by a score of 14-12. The margin was too narrow for comfort. "Disappointed" places the blame for any possible lack of fight and fire on the part of the team squarely on the melancholy and indifferent "send off" that Nebraska students gave the squad. There is much in what he says. Twenty Corneobs, three Tassels, and no band is a very poor start toward arousing interest and spirit among the student body as a whole.

Again, at the Oklahoma-Nebraska freshman game in Memorial stadium yesterday, there was little student spirit in evidence. Any Tassels present were well concealed. A few Corneobs traversed the stands, selling programs. The band was fairly well represented, but could by no means claim a record attendance. The student sections were quite well filled, and the cheer leaders did their best, but the loudest yells were directed at the referee. Cheering for the team was indifferent. A few loyal Nebraskans even did their best to get the cheer leaders laughed out of court, by mixing up and good-naturedly synecopating a few of the cheers.

The Nebraskan does not believe that school spirit on our campus is dead. Tassels and Corneobs are doing what they can. The test will come next Saturday, when the Cornhuskers meet Montana on Memorial stadium sod. Whether the Huskers take the game depends to a great extent on the student support they receive. How about a real "spiritualistic" revival?

Heard in the stadium: "This boy Sauer is doing some sweet playing!"
