RUSSELL, IRISH POET, ADDRESSES STUDENTS TODAY

'Philosophy of Rural and Community Life' Is A. E.'S Topic.

GRANTS AN INTERVIEW

Sees Danger to Mankind in Rural Exodus; Advocates New Social Order.

George Russell, internationally known Irish economist, poet, philosopher, and journalist, will speak at the Stuart theater at 11 o'clock today on the subject "Philosophy of Rural and Community Life."

Mr. Russell—"A. E." to the literary world—is speaking in Lincoln under the auspices of the university. In an interview with a Nebraska reporter yesterday afternoon Mr. Russell explained the agricultural organization that has been accomplished in Ireland, how this differs from the type attempted in America, and of the problem which faces America in the rural exodus.

Rural Exodus. It is estimated, said Mr. Russell, that if this exodus from the farm continues, within a few years 90 percent of the American people will be urban. We do not realize what this means, because our cities are constantly being replenished with a vigorous manhood from the rural communities. In England one need only to see the extent of degeneration in the three or four generation city dweller to realize the horror of the situation which America faces if this rural exodus is not stopped.

New Social Order. Mr. Russell's remedy for this rural exodus is the building up of a rural civilization, a new social order. Almost always, he says, civilization is centered around a few square miles of brick and mortar. If we can build up a rural civilization with true culture and other interests than the mere production of food products, we will have reached the solution of our problem.

Referring to his own country as a laboratory in which social and political experiments can be worked out, "A. E." with a truly Irish love for his home country told of the natural endowments of Ireland, but failed not to overlook its liabilities in lack of land. There, he says, the average size of a farm is from ten to thirty acres and the farmers make a comfortable living off these little farms.

Mystic and Poet. The most impressive thing, however, of the interview was not Mr. Russell's theories of agricultural economics. It was "A. E." the mystic and the poet. The rich baritone voice, the tempered cadence of his words, the slight—very slight—Irish accent, coupled with the physical appearance of this broad, six foot, bearded sage of Ireland overshadowed his economic theories.

Mr. Russell was met on his arrival in Lincoln yesterday afternoon by a committee composed of Governor Arthur W. Weaver.

RICHARD FITZGERALD IS INJURED IN SMASH

Car Strikes Bridge on Way To Ames; Companions Are Unhurt.

Richard P. Fitzgerald, Denver, Colo., senior student in the University of Nebraska, was seriously injured in an automobile wreck about 100 miles from Lincoln Friday evening, Oct. 17.

Accompanied by James R. Dowd, Guthrie Center, Ia., and Frank K. Konkrigt, Kimball, Neb., both students in the university, Fitzgerald left Lincoln Friday afternoon for Ames, Ia., to attend the Iowa State-Nebraska game.

Misinterpreted Sign. Fitzgerald, who was driving a new Ford coupe, misinterpreted a road sign to read "curve" instead of "turn," and failed to make a sharp corner. The car struck a bridge on the other side of the corner.

Fitzgerald sustained a broken collar bone, a broken left arm, a broken rib, and a punctured lung. He was taken to the Bryan Memorial hospital when brought back to Lincoln on the train, and is reported to be doing as well as might be expected. Neither of his companions were injured.

All three are members of Kappa Sigma.

STAMP SALE DRIVE BEGINS WEDNESDAY

A. W. S. Sponsors Campaign To Get Grads Back for Annual Homecoming.

JEAN RATHBURN IS HEAD

Annual "N" stamp sale drive begins Wednesday, Oct. 22. The sale, sponsored by the A. W. S. board, is put on for the purpose of bringing all the grads to homecoming, Nov. 15. The sale is held every year by the board and is successful in getting the grads back for one of the biggest events of the year.

The stamps are sold in all sorority and fraternity houses, as well as dormitories, and used by the downtown business houses. Two freshmen chosen from each sorority will be assigned to a business block to handle the sale in the downtown section.

Prizes Offered. Upperclassmen will take charge of selling the stamps in the fraternity and sorority houses. A prize is to be awarded to the team of two girls which is most successful in selling the stamps in the downtown district, according to Jean Rathburn, chairman of the sale.

CORN COBS PLAN HOUSE TO HOUSE RALLY ON FRIDAY

A house-to-house rally, featuring musical entertainment and cheerleading, is being planned by Corn Cobs for Friday night, according to an announcement made today by Arthur Mitchell, president of the group.

OFFER PRIZE OF $25 FOR ESSAY ON PHILOSOPHY

A prize of $25 will be awarded to the University of Nebraska student taking a course in philosophy who can write the best essay on some phase of contemporary German philosophy, according to an announcement made today by Dr. E. L. Hinman, chairman of the department. This award, known as the midget prize in philosophy, is granted every year.

Comenius Club Elects New Officers for Year

Election of officers of the Comenius club for the ensuing year was held last Friday night at the regular business meeting of that organization according to Stanley Mengler, retiring president.

The newly elected officers are: Ervin Brezina, president; Mildred Bartoff, vice president; Rose Novak, secretary and treasurer.

STATE HI PRESS ASSOCIATION TO HEAR NEWS MEN

Prep Group Plans First of Meetings Here for October 24.

TOUR OF CITY PLANNED

The Tentative Constitution Awaits Approval of Delegates.

A notable array of speakers including some of the best known Nebraska newspaper men will appear at meetings of the Nebraska High School Press Association which convenes in Lincoln, Oct. 24.

The high school journalists will be guests of the University of Nebraska school of journalism. Francis Flood, the Nebraska Farmer's globe trotter, will tell of his travels in far away countries. James E. Lawrence, managing editor of the Lincoln Star, will discuss the functions of the newspaper in society today.

Fred Seacrest, business manager of the Nebraska State Journal, will explain the work of the business office. Prof. R. P. Crawford of the university faculty, will tell how to write and market feature articles.

John Bentley, Nebraska State Journal sports editor, will speak on sports reporting. Several group conferences and round table discussions will be held on high school publication problems. A questionnaire has been sent out to all schools which have newspapers by the school of journalism for the press association in order to secure data on expenses, support, and worthwhileness of such publications.

An effort has also been made to secure information on school annuals, particularly with reference to advertising, rates, and methods of finance. Have Constitution. Copies of a tentative constitution which will be voted on at the convention have been mailed to all high schools which have publications or courses in journalism.

As the association is now organized, two student delegates and

Colorado Frosh Are Ducked in Icy Water for Not Wearing Green Caps

Nebraska Men Witness Strange 'Court of Honor' on Boulder Campus; 156 New Men Given Good Soaking by Irate Upperclassmen.

Editor's Note: Marvin Von Seggern was one of the three Nebraska representatives at the convention of the National Engineering College Publications association held at Boulder, Colo., last week. He was impressed with the manner of enforcement of campus traditions.

BY MARVIN VON SEGGERN. An original method of enforcement teaches campus traditions to the freshmen at the University of Colorado at Boulder. Freshmen are made to adhere rigidly to rules which are designed to show them their place on the campus. Green caps are not much of a problem, nor is the enforcement of the other rules, namely no smoking of cigars on the campus and no walking on the grass by the frosh.

Violations of these rules are considered grave offenses and punishment is inflicted accordingly. Sophomore cops, appointed by the

GAMMILL ISSUES CALL FOR YEARBOOK PHOTOS

Picture Taking Commences Tomorrow; Students Are To Make Own Dates.

MUST BE IN EARLIER

Pictures for the junior and senior and fraternity and sorority sections of the 1931 Cornhusker will be taken starting Wednesday, Oct. 22, according to the editor of the annual.

A new plan is being followed this year and students will make their own appointments at Hauck's or Townsend's studios. Instead of having them made and announced by the yearbook staff as has been done before.

"It will be necessary to get the pictures earlier," stated Kenneth Gammill, editor, "in order to conform with this year's plans for the Cornhusker. Our copy must be sent to the publishers at a relatively early date."

As in the past the junior and senior pictures will cost $3 each and photos for the fraternity and sorority sections will be priced at $1.50.

Lower Price Not Feasible. "We had hoped that it might be possible to make picture reservations at lower prices this year," stated the Cornhusker editor, "but this will not be feasible because of the new plan upon which the yearbook is sold."

Students may make their appointments for pictures at either Hauck's or Townsend's, as they personally desire, according to the yearbook editor. They are urged, however, to get them taken as soon as possible in order that complete plans for the annual may be laid out as soon as possible.

"There will be a time limit set upon the picture taking process," asserted Gammill, "but this will not be until we can determine how the student body is co-operating with us in this matter. It is our sincere hope that, starting Wednesday, students will make picture appointments at their earliest possible convenience. A better book is sure to result if we have the pictures in sooner."

The editor of the Cornhusker, especially stressed the fact that there will be no personal list announced each day in The Daily Nebraskan as was done last year. The entire responsibility for making the appointment and getting the picture taken rests with the student alone and it is hoped that immediate co-operation will be given.

CUSTODIAN HURT IN FALL. The custodian of Nebraska hall, John Perkins, was injured last Tuesday when he fell from a ladder and broke three ribs. Mr. Perkins will be away from his work for a short time.

STUDENTS SHOW FINE ACTING IN 'JOURNEY'S END'

War Drama Attracts Large Crowd to Its Initial Performance.

CAST IS ALL MALE

Walter Vogt Stars in Main Role of Stanhope, Young Captain.

A large and appreciative audience witnessed with approval the premier showing of "Journey's End," the first production of the University Players' season, at the Temple theater last night.

The curtain rose on a realistic dugout scene where five officers eat, sleep, and drink rather steadily. The effect of war on the souls of these five men and those who take their places when they "go west" is the theme of "Journey's End." Walter Vogt plays the part of Stanhope, the young army captain, very effectively. He handles his portrayal with restraint and an adept touch here and there which makes it very realistic.

Thompson Comedian. Herbert Yenne's interpretation of Raleigh, the impetuous school boy, with pep, vigor and suppressed excitement, is very good. William F. Thompson, one of the guest artists, as Trotter is responsible for many laughs in the show. Trotter is the genial fellow who always enjoys his food. Robert Reade plays Mason, the cook, and does an excellent piece of work with this comical character.

An unusual bit of acting is done by W. Zolley as Hibbert, the chap crazed by his fear of the war. One of the most outstanding scenes in the play is the one in which Hibbert tries to escape from the war and Stanhope holds him back with the aid of a diar.

Theodore Diers, a guest of the Players, is very well cast for the part of the kindly school teacher, Osborne. He plays the part with fine understanding. The rest of the cast is well chosen and they play their parts well.

Leland Bennett as Captain Hardy does a clever piece of acting. Art Singly plays the company sergeant major, Harlan Easton, the colonel. Jeric Mickel the frightened German captive, Joe di Natale and Eldridge Brubaker the soldiers. There are no women in the cast.

One of the most noticeable features of the play is the conversation which has to do almost entirely with unimportant elemental things, especially food. What the characters think and what they say have no connection. They talk to relieve the strain and get their minds off of the war.

"Journey's End" by R. C. Sheriff is a gripping war story that presents an entirely new angle of the war problem. It is well staged and presented very effectively.

As a prologue to every act, the entire uniformed cast assembled and saluted. Decorations in the lobby of the theater also add atmosphere to the play. The doughnuts and coffee served after the first act were a realistic note as well as very enjoyable.

SEVEN GIRLS VIE FOR HONORARY POSITION

Many Athletes on Fall Election Slate; Maclay, Hokuf, Tomson Have Lettered; Ely, Mathis Are Sophomore Football Men.

BY POLITICUS. The race is on! And from all appearances it is to be an athletic race at the ballot box, at least as regards the contest between the two campus fraternity factions—the yellow jackets and blue shirts—over three of the class presidencies.

When the polls open at 9 a. m. in the Temple today, the student electorate will have to decide on four class presidents from a list of fourteen candidates in all.

But that isn't all that will have to be determined at this election. There's the selection of the honorary colonel to be made, too. In this field only one is to be chosen and she will have to be picked from seven possibilities, including Sally Pickard, Phi Beta Phi; Dorothy Clark, Alpha Phi; Frances Holyoke, Delta Gamma; Janie Lehnhoff, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Irene Dawson, Alpha Omicron Pi; Evelyn Stotts, Delta Delta Delta; Bessie Tauber, nonsorority.

COUNCIL TO ENFORCE ALL ELECTION RULES

Von Seggern, Kelly Warn Factions Against Violations.

CARDS MUST BE SHOWN

All rules set forth by the Student council in regard to elections will be strictly observed in the polling for class officers and honorary colonel today, it was stated by Boyd Von Seggern who is chairman of the elections committee.

Bob Kelly, as president of the Student council, and Prof. E. W. Lantz, as faculty advisor and member of the university faculty committee, have asserted their desire that an orderly election be conducted.

A brief summary of the rules that will be observed in the election is as follows:
1. No votes shall be solicited at the polls or in the building in which the election is being held.
2. No money shall be spent on behalf of any candidate.
3. No printed, mimeographed, typed or otherwise published material in behalf of any candidate shall be permitted except the impartial announcements of the candidates appearing in the press.
4. Each voter shall check the names of the candidate or candidates for whom he wishes to vote on a ballot furnished him by the election officials in its respective box.
5. There shall be a separate ballot for each class.
6. Identification cards must be presented before ballot will be issued.
7. Each faction may have two representatives at the polls during the time of voting and during the time that the votes are counted.
8. The ballots shall be counted by the election officials.

The polls will open at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and will remain open until 5 o'clock p. m. The scene of voting will be at the Temple building and at Agricultural hall on the college of agriculture campus.

Oldfather Scheduled For Three Addresses

Dr. C. H. Oldfather, chairman of the history department, will give three talks on the life and influence of the Latin poet Virgil during the coming week.

On Wednesday he will go to the Northwest State Teachers college at Marysville, Mo., to address students there. Thursday he will return to Lincoln to speak before the first district meeting of the Nebraska State Teachers association. Friday he will speak at another district meeting of the state teachers association in Norfolk.
