KANSAS SCHOOLS TO FIGHT AGAINST TAX

Will Seek Injunction Against Levy on Sororities, Fraternities.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—That the fraternities and sororities will attempt to secure an injunction from the district court in November to stop the collection of organized house taxes was decided at the men and women's Pan-Hellenic society meeting yesterday afternoon in the Memorial Union building.

In the event of an appeal the Stone-McClure-Webb and Johnson law firm of Topeka will represent the university, Baker, Washburn and Pittsburg in the supreme court. This law firm was chosen at the meeting yesterday.

Kansas State Agricultural college has definitely refused to cooperate with the groups at the university, and its pan-hellenic organization has already decided on a law firm to fight the tax case. The hiring of a lawyer to act as counsel was the cause for a breach between the two schools.

Retain Law Firm. At the meeting which was attended by sixty-two fraternities and sororities, both social and professional, and representatives from Baker and Washburn, it was decided by popular vote to hire the Topeka law firm and pay it a retention fee of $600 pro rata, and also 10 percent of the tax charge in case that the organized houses are successfully defended in the supreme court.

Pittsburg, although not represented at the meeting, sent information that the organized houses there would co-operate with the university Pan-Hellenic society, and that it would pay its share of the expenses. The smaller schools, however, have not been quick to act because they would not lose greatly by paying the taxes. The university and K. S. A. C. are hardest hit.

"The only reason for forming this organization is because of the poor financial condition that the organized houses are suffering," Robert Dillis, president of the men's pan-hellenic council, said today, "and it will not function for any other purpose than the one we are now working on."

The final three points were scored by Nebraska after Greenberg had intercepted a pass on the Kansas 20-yard line. After three attempts at the line which netted two yards, Frahm stepped back and kicked the goal to give Nebraska a 16 to 0 lead which they held the remainder of the game.

No Outstanding Star. No outstanding man can be picked in the Nebraska lineup. They all played real football and the "explosion" expected by Coach Dana X. Bible has finally come. The Nebraska team Saturday afternoon was making use of the potential power which has been stored up in it since the beginning of the season.

Pruka and Hokuf, Broadstone and Rhea; Justice, Greenberg and Koster and Ely all played wonderful games in the Husker line, opening huge holes for the backs to plow thru. Mathis, Manley, Frahm, Kreizinger, Young and Buster Long came thru in great style, the line and backfield getting the plays timed together for the first time this year.

BIG BERNIE IS VARSITY CALIBER NOW

Bernie Masterson, one of the outstanding prep school stars of the 1929 season, is one of Coach Browne's most dependable ball jugglers on the frosh squad this fall. The big fellow specializes as a pass receiver and of late has been taking a turn backing up the line in fullback position. Masterson, a Lincoln high product, an all star for three seasons, appears to be varsity caliber right now. He stands better than six feet and weighs around 180 pounds.

SEVEN LETTER MEN RETURN TO K-AGGIES

First Basketball Turnout Indicates Material Plentiful.

MANHATTAN, Kas.—Seven lettermen and perhaps ten sophomores of more than ordinary ability will be on hand when the Kansas Aggies open basketball practice at the close of the football season. Tall men will be abundant, so much so that if height were any incentive the Aggies would be able to place a team on the floor which would average better than six feet three inches in height.

The tallest man available is Cronkite, six and one half feet in his stockings. A varsity squad member last year and also a football tackle of no mean ability.

Returning lettermen include six from last year and one from 1927 squad. The six holdovers are Captain Nigro, Ralph Vohs, Eldon Auker, George Wiggins, Henry Cronkite, Paul Fairbank, and S. H. Brookway, a returning forward who lettered three years ago.

'BONES' IS ORY THAT THRILLS STUDENT FOSSIL HUNTERS AS THEY MAKE RICH DISCOVERY DURING LATE EXCAVATION.

(Continued from Page 1.) and so were able to spend a month chiseling out bones from the mass of fossil remains they found.

Instead of a pick and shovel, fossil miners use a small dental instrument about six inches long which resembles a nut pick. With it they excavate their buried treasure.

Chisel Out Specimens. With these small picks McGrew and Harper later joined by two other students of the university, dug and chiseled until they had brought out hundreds of specimens many of which were complete enough for articulation at the museum here.

The nature of the bones and their location about 75 feet below the general level of the country thereabouts indicates they were deposited there during the plicocene age, according to McGrew. This means that they had been there for three, four or five million years. Geologists do not agree on how many millions.

Find Seventy Deer. Remains of at least seventy deer about two feet tall were found in the pocket, while bones of animals as small as mice and others as large as elephants were uncovered. McGrew, Harper, and their companions dug out an area about 20 by 25 feet while they were camped there. They are certain that the pocket goes back 60 yards and do not know to what depth it reaches.

McGrew has just articulated the bones of one of the small deer mainly interesting because of a vestigial third toe. The completeness of the skeletons and their state of preservation are considered remarkable by geologists who inspected the find. McGrew and Harper will return to work their fossil mine next summer.

Museum Buys Cast Of Elephant Teeth

A cast of the lower molars of the famous elephant, Jumbo, Barnum & Bailey attraction for several seasons, has been purchased by the university museum from the Wards Natural Science establishment. Jumbo, according to museum attendants, was recognized as one of the most intelligent and docile as well as the largest of elephants in captivity. He was killed by a train while trying to push a smaller elephant off the track. The cast of Jumbo's molars will be added to Charles Marri's elephant collection.

PRIZE OFFERED FOR BEST PLAQUE DESIGN

Drafts Must Be Turned In To Devereaux; Contest Closes Jan. 15.

Ten dollars will be given for the best scholarship plaque design for the Interfraternity council, according to an announcement made yesterday by R. A. Devereaux, chairman of the scholarship plaque design committee.

The designs are to be simple, distinctive, and significant and must be such that they may be cast on metal. The contest will close Jan. 15, 1931, and all designs must be mailed or submitted to Devereaux in the Interfraternity council office in the basement of University hall before that date.

Given High Groups. The plaques which have been presented to the fourteen high fraternities at the Interfraternity banquet for scholarship in the past have been in use for so long that it will be impossible to use them again. The old plaques were made of plaster of paris and have all been broken or soiled in some way.

The plaques should represent scholarship and Nebraska traditions. They are to be eight and one half inches by eleven inches and will be cast in metal for durability and neatness.

More significance will be attached to the new design and material and the purpose of the presentation of plaques, according to the chairman of the committee, is to promote better scholarship in conjunction with a plan to raise the required scholarship average for initiation.
