Regents Ask for $465,000 Budget Increase

BUILDING PLANS ARE SUBMITTED

$950,000 Request for Capital Improvements Made in Recommendations to Governor; $1,780,000 Total as to $1,315,000 for 1929-30.

NEED $300,000 TO REPLACE UNIVERSITY HALL

Additional Funds for Building Women's Dormitories, New Nurses Home in Omaha, Domestic Science Hall and Observatory Are Wanted.

Increases of $465,000 in general maintenance funds and an appropriation of $950,000 for capital improvements are requested of the state legislature by the board of regents in a statement of recommendations released Saturday morning. The recommendations were addressed to Gov. A. J. Weaver.

A total of $4,780,000 is requested for the 1931-31 biennium as compared with $4,315,000 for the 1929-31 period. That amount is requested for maintenance. The general university fund and the college of medicine receive the largest increases in the requests maintenance funds. An increase of $150,000 is asked for the hospital maintenance.

New Buildings Planned. In capital improvements the university is asking for new building to replace University hall, additional funds to building women's dormitories, a new nurses home in Omaha, a domestic science hall at the agricultural campus, improvements on the Morrill hall and a new laboratory for the astronomy department. In addition the regents want $125,000 to purchase new farm and campus lands and $35,000 for improvements at the Curtis and North Platte agricultural experiment stations.

The $950,000 requested for capital improvements represents an increase of $435,000 over the amount granted by the last legislature for new buildings. The 1929 legislature appropriated $515,000 of which $315,000 went to pay for the university's share of the new heating plant. The other $200,000 was to enable the university to building dormitories but this amount was found to be insufficient.

Would Wreck U Hall. Replacement of University hall, the oldest building on the campus, calls for the largest expenditures in the items of capital improvement. The regents are requesting $300,000 for this purpose. If the requests of the board of regents are granted the mill levy (Continued on Page 4.)

Wants a "Holiday."

'HOLIDAY' OPENS RUN OF ONE WEEK MONDAY

Actors Will Give Initial Performance of Comedy at Temple.

BARRY AUTHOR OF PLAY

BY ROSELINE PIZER.

University Players will give their initial performance of Philip Barry's "Holiday" at the Temple theater on Nov. 17 at 7:30 o'clock. The play will continue through the week with a performance each evening and a matinee on Saturday afternoon.

The theme of "Holiday" is the emptiness of the lives of the rich not a particularly new idea, but it is presented in a novel way with wit and humor of Barry to make it fascinating. It is gay, pulsating with life, airy, and full of comic grace. Thoroughly American, thoroughly modern, the play is full of laughter and wise cracks that are tossed about with amazing rapidity.

Plot of Drama. All that stands between Johnny Case, the hero, and the wealthy Julia Seton is his determination to keep out of the entanglements of social position. Having made his one killing in the stock market, he now insists upon retiring early in life when he can enjoy it, rather than later, when age prevents life's greatest enjoyment. But to Julia with her back- (Continued on Page 4.)

SCHOONER TO GET OUT A BIRTHDAY NUMBER

Literary Magazine's Fourth Anniversary Issue Will Appear This Week.

IS RATED 100 PERCENT

Prairie Schooner's fourth birthday number, published as its regular fall issue, will be distributed within the next week, according to Prof. Lowry C. Wimberly, the editor of the University of Nebraska literary magazine.

The Schooner, this year given Edward J. O'Brien's 100 percent rating for short stories, publishes articles by several new contributors as well as stories by regular writers in the autumn issue.

Olga Folda is the author of "The Dowry," a short story. She is a graduate student at the University of Chicago who lives at Clarkson, Neb. John E. Underwood, Cornell A. E. and Wyoming homesteader, has his first published story in this number of the Schooner entitled "In Loving Memory."

Peterson Contributes. Martin S. Peterson, University of Nebraska English instructor and regular Schooner contributor, has a story, "Indian," in this issue. From the pen of Evalene Parsons Jackson, Columbia university alumna and librarian in Atlanta, Ga., comes another short story, "The Dark Boy."

NEBRASKA AND MISSOURI MIX IN DRAW GAME

DRIZZLING RAIN MAKES HARD GOING ON GRID

Show-Me's Do Not Present Effective Running Attack And Are Forced to Take to Air; Biblemen Exhibit Signs of Weariness.

BY GUY CRAIG.

Every under-dog has its day! Saturday afternoon in Memorial stadium the Missouri Tigers, the under-dogs in their traditional game with Nebraska, battled the Cornhuskers to a scoreless draw to practically eliminate Nebraska from championship consideration. The game was colorless and devoid of thrills with the exception of one bright moment when Hugh Rhea blocked and recovered a Tiger punt. It looked for a moment as though he would score but the Arlington husky was pulled down from behind. Lewis Brown furnished the only other heart throb when he galloped 30 yards after receiving one of Missouri's punts.

Thousands Attend Homecoming Rally

From Big Bonfire on Drill Field Students Parade to Lincoln Hotel.

BIBLE COMMENDS SPIRIT

Rallying around the bonfire not large enough to fill the immense skeleton of telephone poles but probably the largest conflagration in Cornhusker rallies, Nebraska students Friday night took part in a homecoming demonstration to welcome the Missouri team and to greet returning grads.

The rally began at the drill field at 7 o'clock and thousands of students could be seen in the light of the bonfire. A parade through the streets of Lincoln followed with the band leading the procession to the Lincoln hotel, where the Missouri team was quartered.

Bell Displayed. The Husker-Tiger bell, symbolic of football supremacy between Nebraska and Missouri, had an important role in the celebration.

Coach D. X. Bible was the principal speaker at the rally. "Rivaling the great send-off demonstration you gave us last Thursday before the Kansas game this is one of the greatest pep demonstrations I have ever witnessed," Bible told the students. "I'm sure our boys will show the same spirit (Continued on Page 4.)
