

13 CORNHUSKERS WILL PLAY LAST FOOTBALL TODAY

Graduation List Includes 8 Lettermen; 5 Play in All Games.

BACKFIELD HIT HARDEST

Freshmen May Have Chance To Fill in Depleted Varsity Berths.

By CLIFF F. SANDAHL

When the gates of Memorial stadium at the University of Nebraska are closed for the 1930 football season after the Kansas Aggie-Husker battle today, the gridiron careers of 13 Cornhuskers will simultaneously terminate—at least as far as their "alma mater" is concerned.

Of the 13 players to be lost thru graduation are included eight lettermen, all of whom with the exception of three have been playing in every game. A non-letterman, listed with the graduates, has seen almost as much service this year as the bearers of the "N" insignia.

Here They Are
Here are the losses to be sustained in the Husker gridiron personnel when the work is again resumed next fall:

Marion Broadstone, Norfolk, tackle; Harold Frahm, Liberty, halfback; Elmer Greenberg, Omaha, guard; Felber Maasdam, Omaha, center; Wallace Marrow, Omaha, quarterback; Frank Prucka, Omaha, end; Claude Rowley, Clyde, Kan., halfback; Robert Young, Norfolk, fullback, all lettermen.

Others Are
Other seniors are Clarence Nelson, York, halfback; Buster Long, Buffalo, Wyo., fullback; Arden Peterson, Hampton, tackle; Gordon Eno, Lincoln, tackle; Charles Byrnes, Lincoln, end.
Vacancies in the line will be two ends, one a reserve; three tackles, two of whom were reserves; one guard and a center. The first string backfield will suffer the most with the two stalwart alternating fullbacks, Young and Long, both gone, and three halfbacks, one of whom was used consistently thru the season—Harold Frahm.

Fresh Must Fill In
Next year's squad will probably have several of this season's freshmen in the lineup, both in the forward wall and the backfield. Bernie Masterson and George Sauer, former Lincoln high stars, will probably find themselves in the backfield, replacing Young or Long at fullback and Frahm at halfback.
Each of the eight lettermen playing this year was afforded a chance to act as captain of the team, following decision last spring to do away with the season pilot. Frahm headed the list, starting with the Texas Aggie game; Greenberg was captain of the game at Norman, Okla.; Maasdam at Ames, against Iowa State; Marrow, Montana State at Lincoln; Prucka, Pittsburg here; Rowley at Lawrence, against University of Kansas; Young, Missouri here; Broadstone, University of Iowa at Iowa City.

CYCLONE GRIDSTERS DEPART FOR SOUTH

Have Two Intersectional Games Slated Against Powerful Teams.

AMES, Ia.—Nov. 26—A squad of Cyclone football players leaves the campus Thursday for the "sunny Southland" to conclude what has so far been a disastrous season, with two intersectional games, Loyola at New Orleans Nov. 29, and Rice at Houston Dec. 6. No practice was held Monday and only a light session was attempted today. Several of the men who are making the trip came out of the disheartening Drake game with bad bruises, but they are expected to be sufficiently recovered to make the trip.

Paul Trauger and Rudy Tegland, crippled in the Missouri game and still not completely recovered, are included in the traveling roster.
To break into the win column in these two games, a thing the Cyclones have been unable to do in the midwest, the Workman machine will have to repulse two strong Southern teams. Rice has lost but two games of the ten which it has played; while Loyola scored 121 points in her first four games.
Those making the trip are: Farrell, Swoboda, Albee and Johnson, ends; Captain Spear, Dixon, Smith and Nolte, tackles; Duesenberg, Hood, Bennett and Intermill, tackles; Nagel and Lichter, centers; and Wells, Bowes, Greife, Hawke, Trauger, Tegland, Impson, Nelson, Bowen and Wilcox, backs.
aker, George Nelson, Dr. Johnston, and Howard Dunn, manager, make up the remainder of the party.

Buster Long Leads Husker In Finale

Andrew L. "Buster" Long of Buffalo, Wyo., will serve as game captain Thursday when Nebraska closes the football season against the Kansas Aggies at Memorial stadium.

Buster has traveled a rocky route to attain his present place in Cornhusker football history. He "hung in there" during two discouraging seasons. He would appear like the goods in practice but in his few chances in games, it was another story. But Buster stuck. He played seven minutes his first season and three minutes last season. He kept plugging and this year it has been his writhing, twisting runs, his passing and punting that have proved a big asset to the Husker cause.

They tell a story about Buster—one of many—and like the others it may or may not be true. He had adorned the bench for two years. When the opening game of the 1930 season rolled around against the Texas Aggies he was still pretty much of a wallflower. Fearing that his best friends hadn't told him and that he was occupying the same position of the young woman who was often a bridesmaid but never a bride, he went to Coach Bible and asked this question:

"What's the matter with me, D. X.? I've been holding down that bench for two years and it looks like I'll be there one more."

"Well, as things stand now, I think there's something like three or four boys out there better than you are. Maybe I'm wrong but if I am there's still plenty of chance to prove it."
"I wonder what I'm supposed to say now," Buster mused. He decided there wasn't anything left to say but there were some things he could do about it. He did them and the results speak for themselves.

There's one thing about Coach Bible—if a lad will stick to it and show any ability he'll get his chance.

"BUSTER" LONG

ATHLETIC COUNCIL TRIES HEAD MENTOR

Wisconsin Papers Believe Attempts at Ousting Coach Prevail.

Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite of the University of Wisconsin is "on trial" before the athletic council, sports writers of Madison report. A meeting of the council late Monday broke up after a discussion of merely routine matters, without issuing any statement on the matter.
Many sports writers of the state press believe the coach is being blamed for "bad breaks" entirely outside his control, and regard the attempt to oust him as simply the perennial howling of disgruntled students and "win or bust" alumni.

"It is an old procedure at Wisconsin," says the Milwaukee Journal, "putting football coaches on trial. It has been done for years, and among a lot of folks now it brings only a laugh, with perhaps a bit of passing sympathy for the gentleman who has been short-sighted enough to accept the position and happens to be up for judgment."
"We don't see any reason why Thistlethwaite should go, but if the athletic association thinks differently, the coach will have the last laugh. He has stuck for four years, longer than either of his predecessors, which after all is something."
"Wisconsin's football team and coaching staff has no apologies to make," Thistlethwaite stated. "I am offering no abbies."
Said the Journal in conclusion, "No school which changes coaches every two or three seasons can expect to gather in many championships, if any."

AMES, Ia.—Coach Louis E. Menze, having completed his duties as head freshman football coach, is now intent upon his task of developing the Cyclone court quint. Daily practices were started Monday, but they will be interrupted by a three-day Thanksgiving vacation. Twenty-five men have been retained for the varsity squad, including three major lettermen and two minor lettermen. Six other candidates, including Co-captain Hawk and Dick Wilcox, lettermen, will report at the conclusion of the intersectional football games with Loyola and Rice.
With less than a month in which to prepare for the first game with Simpson college Dec. 19, Coach Menze is making a hasty effort to develop a capable replacement for Captain Wood's position at forward. Co-captain Heitman, center, Reicke, guard, and Roadcap, forward, form the nucleus of the team, all being lettermen. Adolph Ludwig, brother of the former Cyclone cage star, is also filling the role of understudy to Heitman at center.
While lacking the physical strength necessary to proclaim a championship team, the 1931 Cyclone cage team faces a favorable season. The team may be composed entirely of juniors, all of whom have had varsity experience. The present squad members are Heitman, Roadcap, Holmes and Zimmerman, all of whom have had varsity experience. Numerical men are Brown, Craghead, Dill, Graves, Levie, Ludwig, Manchester, Manship, Rogers, Thomson, Candee, Peters, Sadoris, King, Coverdale, Burrell, Curtis and Ellgen.
The following men will report at the conclusion of the football season: Hawk, Wilcox, Bowes, Bowen, Walker and Nagel.

PHI TAU THETA CONVENTION TO BE HELD HERE

Delegates from six midwest universities will meet on the Nebraska campus over Thanksgiving vacation at the annual national convocation of Phi Tau Theta, Methodist fraternity. The state of Iowa leads the list with three universities represented, while Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska will be represented by delegates from the state universities.
Henry Rinker, president of the Beta chapter of Nebraska, is in charge of the program, together with Rev. W. C. Fawell, national sponsor.

Speakers on the program are Dr. Charles F. Boss, jr., Dr. Charles Fordyce, Dr. Stuff of the English department of the University of Nebraska, Dr. Victor West, president of the Methodist Ministerial union, and W. Edgar Gates. The convention will continue over three days, Nov. 27, 28 and 29.

STANFORD WILL GIVE PROFITS TO CHARITY

Surplus of Dartmouth Game Promised to Bay Region Community Chest.

PALO ALTO, Cal.—As an aid to the present unemployment situation Stanford university has offered to give its surplus profits in the Dartmouth game to the Bay Region Community Chest in California. It was announced recently, following a decision of the Board of Athletic Control, none of the University funds will be used, but the profits from the game will be distributed among the Community Chests of the Bay Region for unemployment relief during the winter.
Half of Share Given
The plan calls for the donation of one-half of Stanford's share of all tickets sold in excess of 25,000 and all of its share of tickets sold in excess of 50,000.
Following is Stanford's offer in full:
"1. The financial needs of Stanford University are too great to permit it to expend its resources even for so worthy an object as unemployment relief.
"2. The University and its Board of Athletic Control realize the unprecedented seriousness of the unemployment situation and, within the limitations imposed by paragraph one above, desire to help in the fullest degree.
"3. Stanford plays Dartmouth at Stanford on Saturday, November 29. Tickets are $3.50 each, of which Stanford receives $1.75.
Name Conditions
"4. Subject to the conditions named below, the university desires to make the following offer whereby funds may be secured for relief of unemployed persons thru the stimulation of increased attendance at the Dartmouth game:
"Stanford will give one-half of its share of all tickets sold in excess of 25,000 and all of its share of all tickets sold in excess of 50,000.
"Funds thus made available will be distributed among the community chests of the San Francisco bay region to be used for the relief of unemployed this winter. The distribution will include the community chests in San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley and San Jose together with other smaller chests in the San Francisco bay region. The funds will be prorated among the eligible chests on the basis of their annual collections.
Will Aid if Possible.
"5. To repeat, in this proposal Stanford university with the cooperation of its board of athletic control, is not giving away money to which it has a reasonable expectation. That it cannot do. But it wishes to help if it can, and in effect it is saying that, if the jun-

FOUR HOOPSTERS ARE NUCLEUS OF 1930-1931 TEAM

Maclay Heads Big Six Loop Scorers Last Year iwth 112 Points.

FISHER PUZZLES FANS

Hokuf and Davey Are Others Upon Whom Black Pins Hopes.

(By Leonard Conklin.)

Four basketeer lettermen extraordinary will form the nucleus of Charley Black's 1930-31 hoop squad, a crew incidentally that may atone for the dethroning of the Huskers as football kings according to preseason dope whippersnappers.
Don Maclay, Morris Fisher, Seldon Davey and Steve Hokuf are the lettermen eligible this year.

Maclay had a sensational record last season. A Big Six total of 112 points placed him at the head of the point scoring list in the conference and nominated the Auburn youth for all conference choice. His six feet three inches at the center position nearly monopolized the tipoff so that combining this with long strides for quick breaking short shots Maclay was a constant threat.
"Morrey" Fisher is slated for a big year. Fisher and Maclay were tied in the conference last year at 21 points each as a record for tallies made in a single game until this man Bishop of Kansas ran up a total of 23 in a battle that Kansas won 36 to 35.

Fisher Ambidextrous.
Husker fans usually stay awake nights trying to figure out whether Fisher is right or left handed. Good authority classifies him as "both handed" and one of the most deceptive passers and dribblers in the valley.
Hokuf, the mainstay in Nebraska's defense last year, will finish football today and be on deck for practice Monday when Black intends to begin working his men intensively through the ten practices that remain before the jaunt up to Vermillion, S. D., for a tilt Dec. 13.

Davey is Fast.

Seldon Davey, forward, is fast, shifty, and "heads up" in his play. The Maclay-Fisher-Davey combination in the forward line of offense presents a stronger team working threat than has been in evidence at Nebraska for several seasons.

The other guard position is more or less open to all comers, Ed Stipsky of last year's squad will make a strong bid there and George Koster and Bert Durkee, who will come off the football squad, are hailed as potential defensive men.

Dec. 19 Pittsburgh brings an invading quintet to Lincoln and Dec. 27, 29 and 30 finds the Huskers in Washington playing the University of Seattle.

K. U. BASKETBALL PRACTICE STARTS WITH FIFTEEN OUT

L. A. W. ENCE, Kans.—Fifteen men, including six letter veterans, responded to the first regular call for basketball Monday at the University of Kansas.

Dr. F. C. Allen has been working his nonfootball players for several weeks in a handball tournament to give them condition, but the men released from football joined the squad Monday night and a short session of scrimmage was held. All were released after the workout to report for regular work again Dec. 1.

Lettermen back are Bishop, Cox, Bausch, Page, O'Leary and Ramsey. Former squad men are Ranson, Skinner and Baker, who played in 1923 and 1924.

Sophomores of promise are Johnson, Filkin, Hale and Kraemer.

"Winter Birds in Nebraska" was the subject of a talk given by Marjorie Shanafelt to the Axis club at the university museum Thursday evening.
