

SOCIETY

More than 1,200 people will witness the presentation of the honorary colonel at the Military ball, one of the major social events of the year, at the coliseum Friday evening. Identity of the honorary colonel will remain a mystery until late in the evening when she will be formally announced and presented by sponsors and officers of the ball. The coliseum will be crowded with both spectators and dancers eagerly awaiting a glimpse of the new colonel.

Theta Chis Will Give One of Initial Formals.

Members of Theta Chi will give a formal dance for 150 couples at the Venetian room of the Lincoln hotel Saturday. The couples will be served refreshments at the chapter house after the party. Eddie Jungbluth's orchestra is to provide music for the dance which will be chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. W. D. Strong and Prof. and Mrs.

Sigma Lambdas Have Thanksgiving Dinner.
Fifty-six members and pledges gathered at the Delta Sigma Lambda chapter house early last week for their annual Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. H. C. M. Burgess, house-mother, presided over the dinner.

Kappa Sigma Introduced a New Type of Entertainment on the campus when the chapter was host to forty-five couples at a breakfast dance Thursday morning. Breakfast was served at 6 o'clock and was followed by dancing which ceased in time for the guests to attend the Kosmet show in a body. Chaperones were Mrs. C. Palmer Smith and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Doole. Ed Vandenburg's orchestra furnished the music.

Two Skeletons Are Found in Valley of Weeping Water

Excavation of two old Indian mounds in the Weeping Water valley by the University of Nebraska archaeological survey last week revealed poorly preserved bones of two skeletons, presumably interred hundreds of years ago. Aside from the bones only a few chipped arrowheads and other primitive flint implements were uncovered. No pottery was found.

Old flint quarries near the mounds are thought to have been worked by the aborigines. W. Duncan Strong, university anthropologist, believes that the skeletons uncovered may have been those of workers at the quarries.

Several other mounds in the vicinity of Nehawka have not yet been touched but will be excavated in the spring, according to Mr. Strong.

Vold Contributes to Boston Law Review

Prof. L. Vold of the college of law is the author of an article entitled "Current Applications of the Seller's Lien Under the Uniform Sales Act" which appeared in the November number of the Boston University Law Review. This article is the substance of one of the chapters in Mr. Vold's forthcoming book on the law of sales.

BIG SISTERS SPONSOR VESPER SERVICE TODAY

Upperclasswomen Urged to Accompany Wards to Meeting Tonight.

Vesper services tonight will be held under the sponsorship of Big Sister board as another of the projects supervised by that group to effect bonds between big and little sisters and upper and underclasswomen. The Rev. L. W. McMillan, student pastor of the University Episcopal church will be main speaker of the evening, and his topic theme will be one having to do with friendships.

Evelyn West, member of the board, will preside at the service. In addition to her introduction of the speaker, she will address the group for a short time in an informative manner on the work of Big Sister board and the aims of those who are interested in the success of the big sister movement.

As a special attraction and added musical entertainment, Lucille Reilly will sing. Miss Reilly sang several numbers at the recent big and little sister banquet.

Big sisters have been notified of the service, and they are requested to arrange to accompany their little sisters to vespers tonight. "We hope that big sisters will respond as heartily to this second affair sponsored by the board as they did to the first two, the church and the dinner," stated Charlotte Joyce, president of the board. "The board believes that in the varied activities embraced within its program mutual interests can be found by big and little sisters, and real friendships formed as a result," she said.

Husker Coed Now Displays Process At Nebraska Ball

BY VIRGINIA POLLARD.
Nebraska ball, the fourth event on the women's intramural sport program, opens tonight with thirty teams entered in the elimination tournament.

The idea of the game is to keep the ball from touching the floor on your side of the net, but to make it touch the floor on your opponent's side of the net. This feat is accomplished by the use of your hands. Fifteen points is a game, a team is winner when it has won two out of three games.

No girl may play who is enrolled in individual gymnasium. Only one major or minor may play on a team; a team is limited to fifteen players. Games are played at 5 o'clock in the east side of the women's gymnasium.

Fifty intramural points are awarded a group for each team entered. One hundred points are awarded the winner of the main elimination tournament while the runner-up acquires fifty points.

A schedule of games will be posted on the bulletin board in the women's gymnasium.

Bowling will be continued tonight. The schedule will be posted on the bulletin board inside the women's gymnasium.

band leader. Reports from dance halls and hotels where Mr. Lee and his orchestra have played recently are to the effect that his band speaks rhythm, the plaintive blues of spiritual music, specializing in sweet tunes with an occasional foot warmer. Speaking of foot warmers, they really wouldn't get half bad this kind of weather. However on the dance floor they are generally not carried about in one's pocket.

Booked by a Southerner. Captain Crissy of the military department, in charge of the music, admits that being a southerner he is partial to a good colored band and for this reason made every effort to sign George E. Lee on the dotted line rather than import some other band. Of course since he recorded "Three Little Words" but Ellington being on the coast, Crissy claims his first thought was for Mr. Lee. Lee is coming.

Teachers College Initiates Program to Help Scholarship of Freshmen

Knowing that an average of 40 percent of freshmen entering state universities do not return their second year chiefly because of low scholarship, and that only 18 percent of those entering college are graduated in four years, the teachers college at the University of Nebraska this year is starting a comprehensive program to "save" its first year students.

The teachers college through its adviser, William H. Thompson, will help them when they experience scholastic difficulties. His first task is to learn all possible about each freshman in order to know where help is needed in case of scholastic difficulties. A battery of tests is given at the outset and the results classified. Once the student's record is found out, everything possible is done to help him.

Special Training. Many who possess inadequate backgrounds in "tool" subjects such as English and composition, which are required in all other courses to some degree, are given special training in reading and studying as well as advice on the type of work to follow until their foundation knowledge is strengthened.

In reading alone 25 percent of the 800 freshmen in teachers college this year are below eighth grade standards. And 71 percent of those who were delinquent in their studies at the end of the first quarter of school had less than ninth grade reading ability. This is not indicative of a poor class, according to Professor Thompson, as the all time average for college freshmen everywhere this test has been given is even below this standard.

Professor Thompson's report shows a high correlation between can never have true student government until powers are centralized in one strong governing body.

Other Points. Two other points of dissension are the questions of the proportion of men and women on the new council and the raising of the scholastic requirement for council members. Both points are under fire by students.

Should the constitution be adopted by the council the document will follow a devious route before it will become the official ruling organ of the students. It will first have to be ratified by the student body. After that it will go to the faculty committee on student affairs through recommendation of its sub-committee on the Student Council, headed by Prof. E. S. Fullbrook.

If passed by that body it will go to the University senate where the final authority now rests. Should it be passed favorably by that body it will become the plan of government for students at the University of Nebraska.

students with inferior reading ability and those delinquent at the first quarter. These are the ones he hopes to help through an advisory program which he characterizes as "simply human and intelligent."

California University Prints Strong's Study

"Archaeology of the Dalles-Deschutes Region," commonly known as the valley of the Columbia river, is the subject of a study written by two California archaeologists and W. Duncan Strong, University of Nebraska anthropologist, which has just been published by the University of California press.

The article is based on three seasons of work Mr. Strong did in the Columbia valley.

The new G-E low-grid-current Pilotron tube capable of measuring a current as small as 10⁻¹¹ ampere

This Little Tube Measures Stars Centuries of Light Years Distant

BY MEANS of a new vacuum tube called a low-grid-current Pilotron tube, astronomers can gather the facts of stellar news with greater speed and accuracy. In conjunction with a photoelectric tube, it will help render information on the amount of light radiation and position of stars centuries of light years away. It is further applicable to such laboratory uses as demand the most delicate measurement of electric current.

So sensitive is this tube, that it can measure 0.000,000,000,000,001 of an ampere, or, one-hundredth of a millionth of a billionth of an ampere. This amount of current, compared with that of a 50-watt incandescent lamp, is as two drops of water compared with the entire volume of water spilled over Niagara Falls in a year.

General Electric leadership in the development of vacuum tubes has largely been maintained by college-trained men, just as college-trained men are largely responsible for the impressive progress made in electric in other fields of research and engineering.
