KANSAS DECLARES BAUSCH OUT; NOW BACK IN BIG SIX

Jayhawk School Reinstated By Conference Action at Kansas City.

PLAN FURTHER PROBING

Mt. Oread Institution Agrees To Abide by All Rules of Eligibility.

Kansas university, by declaring James Bausch ineligible, regained membership in the Big Six athletic conference Friday evening, at a meeting of the governing faculty council at Kansas City, Dean T. J. Thompson represented Nebraska at the meeting.

The same men, who on Oct. 24 had ousted the Jayhawkers from the conference, rescinded their former decision, following a statement presented by Dean George C. Shoad, K. U. faculty representative.

In the statement Kansas promised to abide by the conference eligibility rules and majority interpretations and to submit to investigation any of its athletes whose eligibility is questioned.

Plan Further Investigation.

Further investigation which the board deems necessary of the Lawrence situation will be conducted by the conference faculty committee on eligibility. The committee is composed of Dean F. W. Beyer of Iowa State college, and Reaves and Shoad of Kansas. Because that school is involved, Shoad will be replaced by Dr. H. H. King of Kansas State Agricultural college.

Bausch was found ineligible under the rule regarding the subsidization of athletes, which was adopted at a meeting in Kansas City Nov. 28 of member university and college presidents, athletic directors and faculty men. This rule was later adopted by the Kansas athletic board.

Bausch informed earlier.

Bausch, star football, basketball and track man, had admitted receiving $75 a month as an insurance salesman. He evidently had been informed earlier of his ineligibility for this past week he accepted a place on the west team which will play in the post season east-west game in San Francisco Dec. 27. In order to participate in such a game it is necessary for conference athletes to receive special permission from the conference committee. Bausch had not done this up to the time that he announced he would participate.

Other matters taken up by the officials at the Kansas City meeting were the arranging of a schedule next year, consideration of the formation of class "B" teams, and freshmen competition.

All Participate.

Coaches of all sports and athletic directors and business managers took part in the preliminary discussions Friday regarding next year's schedule, but were forced to hold up any definite action until the committee had reported on the status of Kansas.

Football coaches recommended that "B" teams be allowed to compete in two games each year, thus permitting more students to take part in actual competition. Also, the coaches recommended that freshman teams be permitted to play three football games each year, in place of the two games as has been the practice for the past two years.

These resolutions were submitted to the athletic directors, who in turn will send them to the faculty committee.

STUDENTS MUST SEEK DEGREES BY DEC. 13

Application for Diploma to Be Made in Room 9 of Administration.

Warning to seniors and graduates to make application for degrees or certificates by Dec. 13 has been issued by Florence I. M. Gahery, university registrar. This applies only to those who have not made applications before.

Application is required of candidates for January or June in order that they will be recommended for a diploma, and must be made in room 9 of the Administration building.

Further notice has been given that all applicants who have deficiencies in required courses must have them cleared by Jan. 15.

Candidates for a junior certificate from teachers college should apply in room 109 before Dec. 15.

The registrar's office will be open all day, from 8 to 5, for applications, instead of observing shorter hours as in previous years.

Jewett to Represent Nebraska in Contest

RICHARD L. JEWETT.

Jewett, son of Lt. Col. F. F. Jewett, former commander of the Nebraska R. O. T. C. regiment, was one of the two candidates chosen by the Nebraska Rhodes scholarship committee to represent the state in competition with students from five other midwest states. If he is successful in the competition, he will receive the Rhodes scholarship for study in Oxford university, England. He is a former student at the University of Nebraska, and at the present time is attending the United States Military academy at West Point.

'BIRDS' CHRISTMAS CAROL' DRAWS CROWD

Players Present Wiggin's Drama Saturday in Temple.

MISS GELLATLY DIRECTS

"The Birds' Christmas Carol," Kate Douglas Wiggin's Christmas story, was presented by the University Players to a packed house of eager children Saturday afternoon in the Temple theater, under the auspices of the Junior league.

The play, which has been a favorite since its publication in 1888, presents a striking contrast of genuine comedy in the troubles of the poor Ruggles family and the tragedy of Carol Bird's life filled with luxury and ease, which does not compensate for her being crippled.

A cast composed of Lincoln school children and University Players presented the play. Every one of the nine members of the Ruggles family was convincing in his part. A member of an extremely poor family, Miss Pauline Gellatly, who directed the play, took the part of Sarah Maud Ruggles.

Plays Carol.

Helen Elizabeth Lawrence, a Lincoln high school girl, played the part of Carol. She made a pretty picture and possessed much enthusiasm, according to playgoers.

Dance skits by the pupils of Flavia Waters Champe, and a reading by Carl Romans were presented between the acts. Ruth Hetton sang "Christmas Carol" in the last act of the play, accompanied by Clare Olson. The play will be presented again next Saturday, at 2:30 o'clock in the Temple theater.

STUDENTS SUFFERING FROM TRENCH MOUTH

Lyman Declares Epidemic Claiming Many Here; Sees Danger.

An epidemic of trench mouth or Vincent's disease, a gum and throat infection, is spreading rapidly in the university, according to Dean R. A. Lyman, and should be checked at once by preventative measures and medical treatment.

The prevalence of the disease is indicated by the fact that the university health service, which Dean Lyman directs, is treating more cases of trench mouth now than ever before. The number of students who come to the health service for treatment of such infection is on the increase.

Symptoms of trench mouth are bleeding gums and deep seated ulcers in the throat and mouth that do not heal readily. Treatment, to be effective, must be administered by competent physicians or dental surgeons. Dean Lyman urges all students with any trace of the infection to report to the student health service for medical attention.

Mild in its early stages, trench mouth, unless checked, becomes so serious that an individual may lose many teeth and suffer a blood-stream infection. Some of the cases now being treated by the student health service are so chronic intravenous solutions of mercury have to be injected.

The disease is transmitted from one person to another very easily. To avoid an infection of trench mouth students should take greatest care not to use pipes, musical instruments, laboratory instruments, or any other articles of personal hygiene that are used by others, Dr. Lyman says.

Mouth washes serve as a preventive to some extent but are useless without other treatment if infection sets in.

ITALIAN MUSEUM KEEPER TO TEACH PHILOSOPHY HERE

Is Famous Archaeologist and Authority on Early Religions.

COMES FROM VIRGINIA U

Vittorio Macchioro Will Serve as Exchange Professor.

Prof. Vittorio Macchioro, Italian archaeologist and for twenty years keeper of the Naples national museum, will come to the University of Nebraska the second semester of the school year as an exchange professor in philosophy through the Carnegie institute, according to an announcement made Saturday by Dr. E. L. Hinman, chairman of the department of philosophy.

Prof. Macchioro will offer two regular courses in religion and will give a number of addresses throughout the semester on Italian archaeology. One course, to be listed as Philosophy 166, will deal with the Greek religion and will be at 9 o'clock on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The other course, Philosophy 168, will be on Roman religion and will be given at 4 o'clock on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Was Curator.

Born in Trieste, Italy fifty years ago, Prof. Macchioro early in life became interested in archaeology and in the history of religion. He is a former curator of the museums of Pavia and Modena. While the keeper of the Naples national museum he was also assistant professor of archaeology at the University of Naples.

In 1928 he was a lecturer on history of religions at universities in Berlin, Heidelberg and Praha. He was a visiting professor last year at Columbia university. His teaching activity consisted of ten Sherman lectures in history of religions and a seminar in Greek mysticism and Christianity.

Leading at Virginia.

Professor Macchioro gave the courses on religion at the University of Chicago last summer and this semester is teaching at the University of Virginia.

SALLY PICKARD, OMAHA, HONORED AT ANNUAL BALL

Is Presented as Honorary Colonel; Crowd Sets Attendance Mark.

2,400 STUDENTS DANCE

Balcony Attracts 1,000 Spectators; Band Plays Overtime.

Miss Sally Pickard, '31, Omaha, was presented as honorary colonel to a record breaking crowd of nearly 3,500 people who attended the twenty-second annual Military ball held at the coliseum Friday night.

Miss Pickard, Pi Beta Phi and president of Mortar Board society, was formerly presented at 10:30 when the drawbridge of the feudal castle on the stage swung open and she stepped across the moat where she was received by Winston Behn, colonel of the cadet regiment. After being officially saluted by Captain Lehman's crack drill squad the honorary colonel, escorted by the cadet colonel, marched under the row of arched sabers drawn by cadet officers and took her place on the regal throne of the Military ball.

Some 1,200 couples lined the huge coliseum floor while more than 1,000 persons occupied the spectators gallery, the largest crowd which has ever been present at a formal affair on the Nebraska campus.

Decorations Elaborate.

The entire coliseum was dimly lighted and elaborately decorated after the fashion of an ancient feudal castle, in keeping with the scenery on the stage where the honorary colonel was introduced. Red and white streamers descended from the flag which overhung the center of the coliseum floor and were attached at regular intervals along the balcony railing.

Several dances preceding the introduction of colonel and the grand march were dedicated to the respective battalion and company sponsors who were presented in groups of four.

Col. W. H. Oury, commandant of the regiment, was present as were the following pu- (Continued on Page 3.)

Pirie Is Chosen for Rhodes Competition

JOHN C. PIRIE.

Announcement was made Saturday by the Rhodes scholarship committee that John C. Pirie, Lincoln, had been chosen from Nebraska to compete with students from five other midwest states for the Rhodes scholarship for study at Oxford university, England. Pirie is a junior in law college. For a time he attended the United States Naval academy at Annapolis.

AG CLUB WILL STAGE JUNIOR AK-SAR-BEN

Block and Bridle to Offer Student Livestock Show Dec. 13.

IS FIRST PRESENTATION

First presentation of the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben, a student livestock show and showmanship contest, has been set for Saturday evening, Dec. 13, at the judging pavilion on the college of agriculture campus under the auspices of the Block and Bridle club.

Junior Ak-Sar-Ben, which replaces the Baby International of past years, is similar in plan and presents a program of competitive showmanship classes as well as entertaining features which are climaxed with the naming of the grand champion showman of the college of agriculture.

Program.

The program of the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben will include showmanship, competition in cattle, swine, sheep and horse classes, and the winners will compete for the title of the grand champion showman of the college and the silver loving cup offered by the Ak-Sar-Ben of Omaha and known as the Ak-Sar-Ben trophy.

W. J. Kennedy, manager of the Acme Serum company of St. Joseph, Mo., and nationally known livestock man, will come to Lincoln for the purpose of judging the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben and naming the grand champion showman of the college, according to announcement made by Guy McReynolds, manager of the show.

Follow With Ball.

Following the two hour program of the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben, the Block and Bridle club will sponsor the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben ball, an informal ag dance at the activities building. The ball is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock and the committee in charge have made preparations which they declare will make it the outstanding ag dance of the year.

Entries in the various classes of the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben are complete and every class is full. According to McReynolds, a great deal of interest is evident among the students of the college of agriculture.

ENROLLMENT IN FARM SHORT COURSE GROWS

89 Students Now Attending Special Sessions at Ag College.

Enrollment in the farm operator's course is larger than ever, a report by H. K. Douthit, supervisor announced Saturday. There are eighty-nine students registered for this short course which began Nov. 24. Of these, twenty-five are second year men.

Last year during the first semester of the course, seventy-six students were enrolled, while sixty-nine were in the ranks during the second semester. This is the third year that the short course has been conducted by the college of agriculture. Previously, it was combined with the school of agriculture, which was discontinued in 1928.

Is Two Year Course.

The farm operator's course is a two year winter course planned to meet the needs of men who wish to improve their agriculture but who cannot leave home long enough at one time to take the regular course in the college of agriculture, Douthit explained. The aim of the course, he said, is to equip men for the management of farms through practical instruction and in the shortest time possible.

The work for each winter will be divided into two terms of eight weeks each, with one week of vacation during the Christmas holidays. The present course will terminate on March 20.

Experience Required.

NEBRASKA RHODES COMMITTEE PICKS TWO FROM SCHOOL

John C. Pirie and Richard L. Jewett of University Get Nomination.

WILL REPRESENT STATE

Must Compete With Ten From Midwest Region for Scholar Awards.

John C. Pirie of Lincoln, junior in the law college, and Richard L. Jewett, graduate of the university and senior in the United States Military academy at West Point, were named the two Nebraska Rhodes scholarship candidates by the Nebraska Rhodes scholarship committee at a meeting in Lincoln Saturday.

Pirie and Jewett along with ten candidates from five other midwestern states will appear before the regional committee in Des Moines Dec. 10. There four of the twelve will be chosen to enter Oxford university in England in October, 1931, as Rhodes scholars. The district includes Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas and South Dakota.

The two Nebraska candidates were chosen from a group of eight from three Nebraska schools. The candidates for the choice for Nebraska were: Grand Island college, Robert W. Chamberlain; Hastings college, Donald C. Dearborn; University of Nebraska, David Fellman, Eugene S. Robb, Theodore C. Erick, Merrill M. Flood, John C. Pirie, and Richard L. Jewett.

Entered in 1924.

Pirie entered the university in 1924, but two years later received an appointment to the United States Naval academy at Annapolis. He attended the naval academy two years. There he was secretary-treasurer of his class, editor of the year book, "The Lucky Bag," played football, and made a letter in rowing.

In 1928 he re-entered the university and graduated from the college of arts and sciences the following year with honor of Phi Beta Kappa. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and Phi Delta Psi, professional law fraternity. Pirie is twenty-three years old.

Jewett at West Point.

Richard L. Jewett, son of Lt. Col. F. F. Jewett, commander of the university R. O. T. C. unit until this year, attended the university until receiving his appointment to the military academy four years ago. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

The Rhodes scholarships provide an annual allowance of 400 pounds sterling for two years at Oxford with an option of another year there or at any English or continental university.

Nebraska now has two scholars at Oxford. Bob Lash, former university student, will finish there in May, 1931. Ervin Schimpenning of Humphrey, former student at Midland college, entered in September, 1929.

Four on Committee.

The Nebraska Rhodes scholarship committee consists of J. E. Miller, Lincoln business man and former university regent; H. A. Gunderson of Fremont, Rhodes scholar from 1911 to 1914; Ralph T. Wilson of Omaha, Rhodes scholar from 1920 to 1923; and Paul Good, Lincoln attorney and Nebraska Rhodes scholar from 1914 to 1917.

Choice of the scholars is made on scholastic record and attainments, qualities of leadership, and force of character. Scholars must be male citizens of the United States, between the age of nineteen and twenty-five at the time of entrance to Oxford, and must have finished their sophomore year in some American college or university.

STUDENT EARNINGS REACH $33,000,000

Data From 611 Colleges Shows Part Time Workers Made Vast Sum.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Students working their way through 611 American colleges earned approximately $33,000,000 in 1929, the federal commissioner of education, William John Cooper, declared in an announcement calling attention to a publication on "Self-Help for College Students," recently compiled by the office of education.

The purpose of the publication is to put before the students who intend to work their way through college information that will be of value to them.

The commissioner called attention to loans amounting to nearly $4,000,000 annually made to students through more than 100 student loan agencies.

Loan funds which are available to those who wish to borrow money for a college education are discussed in the bulletin and addresses of over 100 student loan agencies are listed. Nearly $4,000,000 is loaned annually in 283 institutions in this country.

WEATHER FORECAST

Lincoln and vicinity: Mostly fair Sunday; little change in temperature. Lowest temperature Saturday night 25 degrees.
