A large cake decorated with the words "Le Jour des Roi" in green king centered the table at a charming evening party given by faculty members of the French de-partment for the students enrolled the more advanced courses. E. V. Telle told the guests about French holidays in his native language and sang several French songs. The party was given in celebration of Twelfth Night, Jan. 6, which is a New Years festival of France. The king or queen who is selected by drawing a bean from a cake chooses a partner and the guests do them honor. They were presented with gifts by the queen. The gifts consisted of handker-chiefs, rings, etc. The whole cere-mony was carried out in French. Pineapple ice was served with the cake. There was a moment of at tim luncheon which was folsuspense during the evening when each guest waited to see who would be the lucky individual to draw the bean and become king. This was modeled after an old ceremony performed in France from Jan. 6 to the Mardi Gras in celebration of the new year. Kappa Alumnae Give Luncheon.

"It would be a good thing," he concluded, "if the entire university could be so arranged that all students would have access to a few courses on the college of agricul-ture campus." Agriculture, Prof. Mussehl believes, fits well into any schedule.

The liberal field, however, is not a "pipe" course, this instruc-tor hastened to add. Forty hours of agricultural subjects in at least departments are required. four The liberal student must also have twelve hours in economics, ten in English, and twenty in science, besides the usual physical education and military drill requirements. Elective hours total thirty-seven.

MOVE COVERS COUNTRY

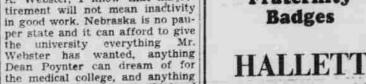

Copies of a petition calling for the abolition of compulsory military training as being against the principles of American government have been sent to sorority and fraternity houses and other campus groups by Ruth Hatfield and Evelyn Adier, promoters of the movement on the Nebraska cam-pus. Miss Alder is chairman of the local league.

The organization wishes to pro-cure 50,000 signatures to their pe-tition. It will then be submitted to congress, possibly to become a na-tional law, according to backers. Western universities are asked to send 5,000 signatures to this measure. The University of Nebraska wisnes to be responsible for at least half of this amount, according to Miss Adler Petition.
