STUDENT COUNCIL TO VOTE ON DRILL

Members of the council then prepared to declare their stand on the motion by means of a roll call vote when Williams raised a point of order to the effect that a vote of that nature was not permissable according to rules of parliamentary law without first notifying the members who were not present at the meeting.

In the discussion which followed, Boyd Von Seggern, Bill McGaffin, and Fred Grau expressed favorable arguments on McCleery's motion while Williams, the lone opponent, expressed an opposite viewpoint. William's argument that the Student council was taking a step which might not be in accord with student sentiment was answered by McGaffin as follows:

"We were elected by students at an open election in order that we might be representatives of their interests on the campus. We are the figurative voice of the student body and it seems to me that any stand which we take is only a minature representation of the belief of the student body as a whole. I believe we are acting in accord with all principles of fairness when we vote for the accep-

That frightful conflagration at the Denmark, New Jersey, government arsenal, took heavy toll of lives. The little town nearby was suddenly hurled into a maelstrom of terror, loss : . : and federal investigations.

There was little justification for this calamity; hardly any excuse for the lack of protection to lives and property. But, Government investigations whitewashed all concerned-until ...

The editor of Chem and Met investigated the smoldering ruins. His report was not of the "whitewashing" type. It boldly set forth the facts-disclosed the lack of protective measures-placed the blame directly where it belonged. And, all through the bitter controversy which followed, this editor held his ground-didn't retract one word of the truth.

The consequence? From that time forth, the Government has faithfully embodied, in all arsenals constructed, those recommendations for safety and protection which were stressed in this McGraw-Hill journal.

McGraw-Hill editors, first of all, must dig out the truth : : : then through every opposition, stick to their guns. This is one big reason why so many of the nation's leaders turn to these journals for news on industry's doings. This, too, is one big reason why you should read the McGraw-Hill paper that covers the field you expect to enter.

On Lost Articles!

We are the "Big Stick" when it comes to finding lost articles for students. Our Classified want ads have shown themselves very proficient in locating valuables lost in the shuffle of college life.

The next time you lose something just drop in and insert a small want ad and you'll find that the results are quick and satisfactory. If you can't find it in the ordinary way, you are reasonably sure of success by this method. A great many students have tried it and find that what we say is true.

Our office open practically all day. Regular office hours, 1:00 to 6:00 every afternoon.

Did you ever look on the bulletin boards of some of our most imposing buildings and see the funny little scraps of paper tacked thereto?

These scraps of paper carry heartbreaking appeals for the return of someone's notebook, pen, watch, gloves, etc. How the persons who stuck them up expect to get their belongings back that way is a mystery to us, probably more so to them. If they really want their goods back, they should use the best medium possible-The Nebraskan's Classified Want Ads.
