DECORATIONS OF CLOSING FORMAL WILL BE LAVISH

Prom Committee Members Say New Type Will Be Presented.

CONTRACT LET FRIDAY

Scheme Calls for Covering Of Walls and Canopy as Low Ceiling.

Decorations for the junior-senior prom will comprise the most lavish set yet attempted at any University of Nebraska party, according to Bill McGaffin and Jean Rathburn, in charge of decorations for the final event of the formal season, which is to be held Feb. 27, in the coliseum.

The decoration contract was let Friday night and the scheme calls for the covering of all the brick walls in the coliseum and for a low ceiling in the shape of a canopy from balcony to balcony. Indirect lighting effects will be used and the north end of the floor will be cut off so as to make the floor smaller and will also serve to reflect the music.

Novel Presentation. The lobby will be decorated as a lounge and the committee is using every means to make the floor ideal for dancing. A novel way of presenting the prom girl has been devised, according to McGaffin, who says it is a plan which has never been used at Nebraska before.

The move to hold the junior-senior prom in the coliseum this year is in line with the plans of Dean T. J. Thompson who desires to have all university functions held in the building.

CHOICE OF ORCHESTRA LEFT TO PROM GROUP

KINKEAD MAKES REPORT

Full power to act in securing an orchestra for the Junior-Senior prom was delegated to members of the prom committee by means of a motion passed in a special Student Council meeting Friday afternoon. Suggestions as to a tentative price were offered by the council members and these are to be followed if possible. Another motion giving the prom committee authority to spend $300 on decorations was also placed on the books.

Robert Kinkead, chairman of the prom committee, reported to the council on negotiations which have been transacted toward the obtaining of an orchestra, giving nominal prices offered by various bands. Following this report Fred Grau, senior councilman, moved that members of the committee be given power to secure an orchestra according to their own judgment without involving the necessity of obtaining special Student Council permission.

Considerable discussion followed Grau's proposal. Alan Williams, bar representative on the council, declared that a limited price should be set and the prom committee should get in touch with more orchestras before entering into an agreement. Support to the motion was furnished by Bill McGaffin who pointed out that immediate action was necessary in order that the committee might go ahead with arrangements. The motion was balloted on and accepted with one dissenting vote.

Cost of a student union building is estimated at $600,000. The funds would be raised by student and alumni contributions.

POLITICS IN NEW MUDDLE IF BARBS AID MINOR GROUP

Authentic Hint Shows That Non-Greeks May Help Yellow Jackets.

CANDIDATES PRESENTED

Observer Says Rare Such Good Material Put Up For Races.

BY THE OBSERVER. Campus political conditions have been thrown into a new muddle following an authentic hint to the effect that the Yellow Jacket faction will have bar support at the polls next Tuesday. If the barb party is able to organize even a portion of its tentative voting strength of 333, as recorded in the proportional representation last spring, it may have a far-reaching effect on the class presidency outcome in all four classes.

Student interest in popular elections has been showing a proportional increase during the last four semesters. The ballot cast last fall for the four positions of class president is the largest in history for a first semester election. At that time there were over 2,000 votes cast and campus political leaders are predicting an even larger turnout on Tuesday.

Feminine interest and activity will again play an important part in the election's outcome since six women have filed as candidates for prom girl nomination. Four of these six will be selected and this selection will naturally be accompanied by multiple and various arrangements of vote-trading between male and female politicians.

SEALOCK PICKED AS NEW HEAD OF MUNI UNIVERSITY

Dean of Teachers College Elected by Regents For Position.

SCORE OF APPLICANTS

Selection Is Said to Have Been Agreed Before Final Meeting.

Dean William E. Sealock of the teachers college was chosen yesterday to head the newly created municipal university in Omaha. The dean was formally appointed to his new position at a meeting of the board of regents yesterday morning.

It is said that the selection was well agreed upon in advance of the meeting, although the regents have spent several weeks in considering candidates. There were more than a score of applicants for the position.

Dr. Sealock will begin his duties as president Sept. 1, at a salary of $10,000.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett said he did not know of anyone in the university whom he could recommend with more confidence of success, when he learned Dr. Sealock was being considered.

The chancellor declared, after the election, that "We shall be very sorry to lose Dean Sealock." He said Dean Sealock is a very fine man and will make a good president for the Omaha university.

Dean Sealock's resignation as teachers college head has not been received yet. The selection of his successor will not be considered until after his resignation is received. His present salary is $6,000.

This feeder's day is the climax to the winter's experimental livestock feedings. Its purpose is to present the results of these winter feeding experiments to the farmers, who can return to their farms and apply any new feeding methods, that they may have learned, on their own livestock.

May Queen is an honor established in 1912 when Louise Barr, Now Mrs. Lewis Anderson, was chosen by popular vote at a mass meeting of all senior women. Ever since then May Queen has been chosen by the senior women on the basis of her contribution in time and effort to all the activities on the campus.

No one files for the position but the queen is usually picked from among the Mortar Boards. The girl receiving the next highest number of votes in the election becomes maid of honor to attend the queen at her presentation on Ivy day. Ivy day has been set for April 30 this year.

Wickersham, Howser Give Skit; Alpha Xi Delta, Others Perform.

STAGE FASHION EXHIBIT

By Frances Holyoke. Coed Follies filled the Temple theater to overflowing Friday night making the event unusually profitable for A. W. S. board. Skits that were brief and clever, interspersed with fashion presentations made up lively performance with none of the usual between act drags and monotony that has inevitably resulted from the inclusion of too many skits in the past.

Wickersham and Howser! This opening combination of Jane Wickersham, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Peggy Howser, Pi Beta Phi, broke the ice and had the audience roaring with mirth throughout. Miss Howser accompanied Miss "Wick" in a general burlesque of opera, of Spanish dancing, "Boop-oop-a-doop."

Present Synopacted Wedding. "A Synopacted Wedding" by the members of Alpha Xi Delta also showed just how a truly modern wedding a-la-jazz might well be. Ruth Schell, dressed in formal outfit of black and white gave the prologue. The entire performance was worked out in a synopacted (Continued on Page 2.)

BUTLER WRITES MUSIC

All Male Cast Will Be Used; Tryouts to Be Announced Later.

"High and Dry" a three act musical comedy written by William T. McCleery, has been selected by Kosmet Klub members for their annual spring show, it was announced on Saturday afternoon. Music for the show has been written by Edward Butler.

Tryouts for "High and Dry" which will have an all male cast, will be announced at a later date. At that time a resume of the plot will be furnished the aspirants for a part in the caste to aid them in the tryouts.

Third Consecutive.

This is the third consecutive play featured by Kosmet Klub which has been written by McCleery. The first was "Don't Be Silly" music for which was written by Joyce Ayres, '30, and Lamar Burling, '30, and which was produced in the spring of 1929.

Donald Carlson, Farke Anderson and John Skiles had the leads of this show. "Don't Be Silly" was the last play to be taken on the road throughout the state by Kosmet Klub.

The next play which was written by McCleery and accepted by the club was "Sob Sister." Joyce Ayres and Warren Chiles furnished the music for this production which showed at the Temple theater for two nights in the spring of 1930. Robert Young, Warren Chiles, Doris Powell and Doris Hosman had the leads in "Sob Sister." This was the first time in several years that the all male caste precedent had been broken.

CUNNINGHAM REVISES ARCHITECTS' COURSE

Curriculum Reorganization Includes New Five Year Degree.

TO BE IN USE IN 1933

Reorganization of the curriculum of the department of architecture at the University of Nebraska was announced today by Harry F. Cunningham, chairman, obliges students to take five years of work to qualify for a degree or three years to obtain a certificate of proficiency in drawing and design.

The title of the new degree, which will be granted at the end of five years of study, is bachelor of the art of architecture. This course includes two years devoted to pre-architectural cultural studies and three years of specializing in architectural design.

Students who desire to prepare themselves for draftsmen and designer in architectural offices may take the three year course and obtain a certificate. The four year course in architectural engineering is still offered. It remains essentially a course in structural design and no attention is paid the aesthetic side of architecture.

A degree to be used temporarily for students now enrolled in the department is entitled bachelor of architecture and was granted to five mid-year graduates two weeks ago for the first time. After June 1, 1933, only the degree of bachelor of the art of architecture will be available. Graduate work for the advanced students is also being offered by the department.

Advocates Confederation. In his explanation of the proposed plan, M. Lanux advocated a series of steps which would lead up to the confederation. The first of which might be said to be in progress today. The nations of Europe are at the present studying the unemployment situation, and later M. Lanux hopes that they will establish a monetary unity, and a regulated system of tariff.

"We cannot ask the nations to be converted to free trade," declared the speaker, "but we can systematize it by raising or lowering (Continued on page 4.)"

All Candidates May Run Activities List

All candidates for Tuesday's election are urged to turn in a complete list of their activities at the Daily Nebraskan office before 4 o'clock Monday afternoon if they wish a complete representation in Tuesday morning's Nebraskan.

BY MERLIN SPENCER.

Nebraska's hopes of sewing up the Big Six title faded in the distance Saturday night when Kansas won a closely contested game, 34 to 29. Sixty-five hundred fans saw the Jayhawkers jump into a tie for the conference lead by virtue of their victory.

The game was one of the fastest played on the home court this season. Both teams used a fast breaking offense with a man to man defense. Nebraska jumped into an early lead scoring six points in the first four minutes while holding Kansas to two points.

Kansas tied up the score after about eleven minutes of play, 10 to 10 and jumped into a two point lead soon after, holding the lead for the remainder of the game.

Bishop Piles Score. Bishop was easily the star for the Jayhawkers. This forward scored 14 points, giving him high scoring position for the game and also putting him one point ahead of Fisher for high scoring honors in the Big Six. Davey was high point man for Nebraska with 10 points. O'Leary and Johnson of Kansas were also high in the scoring column with 8 and 7 points respectively.

FRENCH PUBLICIST IS CONVOCATION SPEAKER

Lanux Explains a Proposed Plan of Organization Within Europe.

HOPES FOR LESS WAR

Using as his theme, "The United States of Europe," Monsieur de Lanux, French publicist and editor, explained this proposed plan of European organization to a large audience at regular 11 o'clock convocation Friday morning, at the Temple theater. This plan was submitted to the various European states several years ago by M. Aristede Briand, French statesman, and has received serious attention throughout the world. M. Lanux was introduced by Dean Hicks of the arts and science college.

Europe is made up of twenty-seven states of various sizes and importance, with a total population of three times that of the United States, according to M. Lanux, and these nations at the present have 27 different kinds of money, tariff laws, and governments. It is for these economic and political reasons, that Europe has a need of organization he said, and also for the best interests of peace.

"We hope in Europe that we will not have another war," said M. Lanux, "but we hope in a process of slow evolution to form a confederation of states." However, as M. Briand has foreseen, there are numerous obstacles to be overcome, before the plan can be put into effect, and for that reason he made very broad plans, intending to use the best of suggestions that came in from the various countries to be embodied in the final organization. Briand, M. Lanux declared is an advocate of the league of nations, and he has received the support of the league officials for his plan.

Advocates Confederation. In his explanation of the proposed plan, M. Lanux advocated a series of steps which would lead up to the confederation. The first of which might be said to be in progress today. The nations of Europe are at the present studying the unemployment situation, and later M. Lanux hopes that they will establish a monetary unity, and a regulated system of tariff.
