EASTER—Spring—Health—Happiness—Joy—Gladness—it's that time of year. The thought comes that if one can be assured of a healthy mind and a healthy body all other things should come to him.

Certainly no Nebraska student can blame his physical shortcomings on any lack of facilities at the university. Browse for a moment, by proxy, over the athletic equipment to be found at the Cornhusker school.

FIRST there are the football field, the tracks inside and outside the stadium and the shots, javelins, discuses and other accessories necessary thereto. A dollar deposit will furnish the sport lover with shoes, sweat clothes, towels and everything else but ability.

Then review the coliseum. Five handball courts, two squash courts, two practice tennis plots down stairs and three playing courts on the main floor, a golf driving-practice mat, all those cry for use. In the gymnasium there are basketball goals, swinging rings, Indian rings, tumbling mats, a boxing ring, weights and tumble horses. There is even a horseshoe court.

BESIDES the coliseum are four new tennis courts ready for use and Harold Sherman now has the six next to the drill field waiting for a little hot sun to bake them as smooth and solid as cement.

In fact the only thing not ready to serve sporting Huskers is a swimming pool and the prospects are good for one of those by next fall.

Everett Kreizinger rather did himself proud in the Red-Blue gridiron mix Saturday afternoon. Kreizinger broke loose for two runs of 85 and 45 yards each with the Reds tackling hard where he had just won. Bernie Masterson Bauer, Norwood and Kilbourne gave exhibitions which hint that there may be several freshmen bidding for regular berths next fall.

BILL OSSIAN, high flying pole vaulter for Nebraska last year, watched Saturday's football game. Ossian is coaching at Aurora this year and as he looked at Coach Schulte's indoor track yesterday you could see a longing in his eyes to do spikes and grab a pole again. Once an athlete, always an athlete. Four dollars to a two-cent stamp that Aurora will have some lad threatening the state high school vault mark in a year or so. Bill tied with Jim Bausch at 13 feet for first in the Big Six last year.

FOUR TENNIS FIGURES TO PLAY IN COLISEUM

Tilden, World's Champion, Will Be Featured in Matches.

CANVAS COURT PLANNED

Four players who have been prominent figures in the international tennis world will display their wares at the University of Nebraska coliseum, the evening of April 13.

The program of matches received by H. D. Gish from Jack Curley, New York promoter in charge of the Tilden tours, includes: Singles match—Frank Hunter former national tennis champion, vs. J. Emmett Pare, Chicago national clay courts champion.

Doubles match—William Tilden and Frank Hunter vs. Karel Kozeluh and Emmett Pare.

Singles match—William T. Tilden, world's champion, and Karl Kozeluh, European champion and former world's professional titleholder.

Champion Will Umpire Dr. Loch Weix, Chinese Davis cup captain, will umpire the match at the coliseum. The Tilden party also carries ball boys, net men and other assistants to help in staging the exhibition.

A canvas court will be stretched over the coliseum floor for the match, thus enabling the players to obtain a bounce somewhat similar to that from a clay surface.

Reserved and general admission tickets are now on sale at the Student Activities office in the coliseum. Business Manager of Athletics John K. Selleck announces a special reduced rate of 50 cents on each class of tickets will be made university students holding athletic tickets.

SOONER POLO FOUR POLISHES FOR GAME

First Tilt Is To Be Played With Colorado Aggies On April 9, 10.

NORMAN, (Special). Despite the loss of its experienced No. 1 player of last fall, George Watts of Hope, N. M., who is this semester studying law in Tennessee, the Sooner polo four is daily polishing its play for the opening matches at the Colorado Aggie quartet of Fort Collins, Colo.

Capt. J. J. Waters, the Sooner coach, has been driving a large squad through a two hour practice period no matter what the weather, and in Clyde Watts of Wagener, who saw some service at the No. 3 post last fall, believes he has the best possible successor to George Watts. The two Watts are not related.

With Clyde Watts doing the feeding, the scoring burden will again devolve upon the team's invincible No. 2, Capt. J. Brad McKinley, Hamilton, Tex. He will be backed by Joe Chastain of Collinsville, a game last learning No. 3, and sturdy Joe Barnhill of Oklahoma City, the team's great No. 4. Barnhill, according to Coach Waters, is hitting harder than ever this spring. On a bring in during a recent practice joust, he dealt the wooden ball three mighty clouts, driving it 280 yards, then scored on his fourth. His clever interception of the ball in the mouth of the goal and his subsequent back shots attracted attention in the Oklahoma-Arizona series at Tucson last November.

The Colorado quartet, coached by Lieut. Edward J. Roxbury, has secured permission from its faculty council to play both Missouri and Oklahoma on its trip and will come to Norman after engaging the Tigers April 4 and 6. Oklahoma administered two stunning defeats upon Missouri at Columbia last September, 11-4 and 13-4.

The Colorado Aggie line-up, Coach Waters will be Donald Kipp, No. 1; Gilbert O'Meller, No. 2; John LoSasso, No. 3; and Ed Walter, No. 4. A substitute will be selected from Don Beard, Ben Rodgers, Allison Hickman, Gene Burton and Lynn Dougherty.

The matches will be played on the university polo field, which is equipped with bleachers and located one-half mile south of the campus.
