Betty Wahlquist, Kappa Kappa Gamma of Hastings and member of Mortar Board, was crowned May queen before a large crowd of students and alumni in the ceremonies which climaxed the annual Ivy Day festivities on the green north of administration hall yesterday. Esther Gaylord of Lincoln, member of Mortar Board, was her maid of honor.

Miss Wahlquist was chapter editor and historian of Mortar Board this year and was identified with other campus activities, including Pi Lambda Theta, scholastic honorary society for women in teacher's college, membership in the A. W. S. board and W. A. A. council for three years. She was intramural president for two years, past president of the Tassels, and has served on the Cornhusker staff.

In addition to being a member of Mortar Board this year, Miss Gaylord was president of A. W. S. board and a member of the Tassels and the Student council.

The Ivy and daisy chain processions, which preceded the May queen's train, followed immediately after. Beta Theta Pi had been awarded the Kosmet Klub loving cup as winner of the interfraternity sing for the second successive year.

The procession started from the west end of Memorial hall, proceeding down the walk towards administration hall to the white carpet leading to the throne, where it turned on the grass plot surrounding the throne.

Jameson Bourke, of Shubert, Carolyn White of Lincoln, Ruth Schill of Alliance and Marie Broad of Lincoln led the daisy chain carried by two members of each of the lower classes from each organized house.

All senior women dressed in white, led by Adele Eisler of Lincoln, Mabel Heyne of Wisner and Emma McLaughlin of Fairfield, carrying the Ivy chain followed the underclass women.

The R. O. T. C. band, directed by Billie Quick, played during the daisy chain procession. The members of the Ivy chain marched to their places while a picked women's chorus, directed by Herman Decker, sang the Ivy chant.

Mortar Boards Lead. The May queen's procession began with the entrance of the active Mortar Boards. The procession started from Pharmacy hall and marched directly to the throne with the R. O. T. C. band playing. The Mortar Boards were followed by the pages, Marjorie Pope of Chadron, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Harriet Nesladek of Omaha, Alpha Omicron Pi, who were dressed in white satin and wore plumed caps. SLOCUM PLEADS FOR PROGRAM OF BEAUTIFICATION

Ivy Day Orator Narrates History Of Campus Development.

In his plea for campus beautification, Ralph "Cy" Slocum, yesterday afternoon's Ivy Day orator, set forth a history of campus development and Nebraska, deplored conditions as they now exist, and expressed the hope that the administration's plan of campus arrangement and progression may be carried out.

"The original campus as taken out by the university comprised the space of four city blocks. In the center of this square of prairie or cow pasture, the first college building was erected, old U Hall. Both the building and the campus space were ample for the early years, but time and growth have brought many changes. Building after building has been added to this old campus, planless in conception, and having neither harmony of style nor design," Slocum declared.

Slocum paid tribute to the regents and the administration for their efforts to devise a feasible and progressive plan of development, and expressed the hope that the legislature would see fit to give the University of Nebraska the buildings and space which it so sorely needs.

AG CAMPUS PUTS ON GALA DRESS FOR ANNUAL FAIR

Students Gather In Final Rally In Ag Hall Thursday.

BOARD EXPECTS 10,000

Farmers Will Convene In Activities Building For Dance.

All is in readiness at the agricultural college campus for the thirteenth annual Farmer's Fair which begins Saturday morning with the parade thru the main business district of Lincoln. The program continues thruout the afternoon and evening, featuring exhibits, dances, concessions, horse show, pageant and other outstanding attractions.

Given good weather, the senior fair board is predicting a record breaking crowd of 10,000 people will be on the campus for the annual day. They feel a better program has been outlined than in the past while the exhibits will be much stronger.

Gather at Rally. Several hundred students gathered in ag hall Thursday night for the final fair rally. Corn cobs and tassels were present to stir up enthusiasm and interest than has been shown by students in previous years.

BETA THETA PI WINS ANNUAL GREEK SING

Deltas Take Second Place; Sigma Alpha Epsilon Is Third.

Hahn Presents Trophy

Beta Theta Pi yesterday morning for the second consecutive year won the annual interfraternity sing, sponsored by Kosmet Klub. Three successive victories entitles the winners to permanent possession of the trophy. Second was Delta Tau Delta, and third, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The silver loving cup was presented to the victorious group by Carl Hahn, president of Kosmet Klub. Judges for the event were: Mrs. Joe Seacrest, Ed Walt and Oscar Bennett.

The winning Betas were led in their singing by Ed Wescott, president of the organization, to whom the trophy was presented.

DELTA DELTA DELTA WINS SORORITY SING

Kappa Alpha Theta Takes Second; Alpha Delta Theta Is Third.

Aileen Neely Leads

Delta Delta Delta yesterday afternoon won the annual inter-sorority sing trophy presented by the A. W. S. board. Kappa Alpha Theta, last year's winner, was second and Alpha Delta Theta, third. Alpha Chi Omega received special honorable mention.

Dorothy McGinley, president of the winning organization, received the cup from Esther Gaylord, president of A. W. S. board.

Judges for the competition were: Lillian Helms Pauley, Homer Compton and Walter Wheatley.

Aileen Neely led the victorious singers in the contest. They sang two selections—"Pansy Bed" and "In Days of Old." After the award was made, the group was recalled to sing their winning numbers.

Delta Zeta, which has twice won the trophy in recent years, failed to place in this year's contest. Three successive wins give the victors permanent possession of the cup.

The successful organization sang without accompaniment. They were dressed in light-colored dresses and were about thirty in number.

Selection was made on the basis of four qualities: balance of parts, appearance and selection, phrasing and interpretation, and tone quality. The contest for third place was so close that special honorable mention was given to Alpha Chi Omega, runner-up for third place.

ENGINEERS HOLD OPEN HOUSE FOR GENERAL PUBLIC

Displays Open Program For Annual Festivities Last Night.

TO CONVENE IN TEMPLE

C. J. Frankforter Exhibits Model Oil Refinery In Laboratory.

Events last night in various engineering buildings of the campus started off the annual engineers' program which is being held this week end. Besides the open house last night the program will include a convocation, a luncheon, a banquet, and other activities today.

One of the displays last night which was particularly interesting was a scale model of the White Eagle refining plant, complete in every detail which was obtained by Col. C. J. Frankforter. This model was secured thru the courtesy of H. L. Bedell, chief chemist of the White Eagle Oil company of Augusta, Kas. Bedell graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1924 as a chemical engineer.

Is Model Plant. The model plant occupies a space eight feet square and shows boilers, stills, pipes, smoke stacks, railroads, and everything in minute detail to a scale of one inch equals twenty feet. It weighs 188 (Continued on Page 4.)

Mortar Boards Mask Misses Fee, Deetken, Simanek, Simpson, Krotz, Hager, Hoffman, Weaver, West, Neeley, Gish, Miss Lee.

DOPE UPSETS IN CHOICE OF INNOCENTS NOTED

Men's Group Taps Faulkner, Mitchell, Tomson, Wolf, Kinkead, Bell, Frankfurt, Mousel, Rhea, McGaffin, Von Seggern Brothers.

BY THE OBSERVER.

As a tribute to three years of service and leadership in the University of Nebraska student body, thirteen junior men were tapped Innocents and twelve junior women were masked Mortar Boards during the traditional Ivy Day ceremonies yesterday afternoon. An additional woman, Miss Mabel Lee of the physical education department, was masked in honorary member of Mortar Board.

Immediately following Ralph "Cy" Slocum's oratory plea for campus beautification, Mrs. Channing Collins, Mortar Board alumna explained the group's history while active members prepared to mask the following girls:

Jean Rathburn, Delta Gamma, Lincoln, president; Gretchen Fee, Delta Delta Delta, Sioux City, Ia., vice president; Julianne Deetken, Omaha, secretary; Julia Simanek, Alpha Omicron Pi, Prague, treasurer; Evelyn Simpson, Chi Omega, Omaha; Evelyn Krotz, Phi Mu, Odell; Gwendolyn Hager, Alpha Chi Omega, Lincoln; Evelyn West, Alpha Phi, Grand Island; Bernice Hoffman, Kappa Alpha Theta, Lincoln; Dorothy Weaver, Pi Beta Phi, Falls City; Aileen Neeley, Delta Delta Delta, Lincoln; Mildred Gish, Kappa Delta, Lincoln.

Dr. Condra Talks.

Dr. George E. Condra, prominent faculty member and Innocent alumni gave a preliminary address, preparatory to the ceremonial tapping of Innocents. Dr. Condra described the wealth of tradition, the infinite care in selection, the minute inspection of campus accomplishments, and fair methods of reaching decisions which characterized the choosing of successors to present Innocents. Meanwhile the honorable thirteen had circulated through the crowd and having spotted their men proceeded to tap them in the following order:

Richard Devereaux, Alpha Tau Omega, Omaha, president; Edwin Faulkner, Pi Kappa Psi, Lincoln, vice president; Arthur Mitchell, Delta Tau Delta, Huron, S. D., secretary; Coburn Tomson, Phi Kappa Psi, Lincoln, treasurer; Robert Kinkead, Alpha Tau Omega, Cheyenne, Wyo., Arthur Wolf, Sigma Phi Sigma, Edgar; Marvin Von Seggern, Pi Kappa Alpha, West Point; Richard Bell, Delta Phi Gamma, Bellwood; Hugh Rhea, Alpha Sigma Phi, Arlington; Wallace Frankfurt, Delta Upsilon, West Point; Russell Mousel, Beta Theta Pi, Hastings; Boyd Von Seggern, Alpha Gamma Rho, West Point; William McGaffin, Sigma Nu, Polk.

While hundreds of people surrounded the rectangle in the joint shade of Pharmacy hall, the armory, administration building, and "U" hall, the ten active Mortar Boards searched through throngs to sort out their maskers. Mean-

'HIGH AND DRY' WILL OPEN AT LIBERTY TONIGHT

Curtain Scheduled To Roll Back At 8 O'clock This Evening.

To climax the many impressive ceremonies which have taken place during these days of festivity, the Kosmet Klub opens its 1931 show with its all-time cast in "High and Dry" at 8 o'clock tonight in the Liberty theater.

Tickets for the show have sold very good, according to Ed Edmonds who is in charge of the sales campaign. There were 900 tickets for reserved seats called for up to 5 o'clock last night, and Edmonds predicted that many more were out. "However, there are plenty of good seats left on the general admission tickets," he said.

Advance Sale Good. Many people, alumnae and others, from both in and out of Lincoln have already purchased many tickets for the show which indicates there will be a good representation outside of the immediate school circle.

Edmonds asks that the Kosmet ticket salesmen check their money in to him by noon today at his office in the Cornhusker rooms.

Dean Worcester Believes Honors Convocation Emphasizes Possibility Of Broadened Academic Activities

By SEARS RIEPMA.

Summarizing the purpose of the recent honors convocation as to bring before the student mind the possibilities of a broadened academic career, Dr. D. A. Worcester, of teachers college, recently explained his viewpoint, as a member of the committee in charge, on the function of the convocation and the value of emphasis on scholarship to the student.

"The general purposes of honor societies, must be to bring some emphasis on one of the real purposes of the university—scholarship achievement," said Dr. Worcester. "This is not necessarily the only purpose of a collegiate career, however, because the highest ideal of a student's personality must include a well-rounded schedule of activities, which may also, sometimes, be realized thru extra-curricular work or merely self-support. This type of personality, which I consider very important, think is really developed thru activities as well as thru the classroom. Neither side of university life should be neglected.

All Should Look Around. Even those whom we ordinarily consider being limited because of their need for employment while going to school can better their condition by a careful survey of all the possibilities open to them. In this way no great difficulty can be found in securing the diversified personality so sought after today.

"I don't think we have any evidence, that self-support is a serious handicap to a person's scholarship or activities. In another institution it has been found that, in general, those who were earning their way thru school had as high an academic average and nearly as many activities to their credit as those non-self-supporting. I am hoping to have some soon on the local situation. And evidently those who are not forced to help themselves in this manner gain little advantage from the extra time they have on their hands," said Doctor Worcester.

LeRossignol Reads McCleery Play; Comments, But Thinks It Might Be More Bloodthirsty in Some Parts

By MARVIN SCHMID.

"If presented in the right way, as doubtless it will be, 'High and Dry,' with its gay perlage running through, along with its wholesome merriment, should prove to be one of Kosmet's most successful musical comedies," declared Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college of business administration and professor of economics.

Dr. LeRossignol who has achieved considerable renown from his stories dealing with French-Canadian life read McCleery's production upon special permission from the Kosmet Klub. The professor is the author of four novels and numerous short stories published in various magazines. The novels are "The Esupport Road," which deals with tales of old Quebec, "Flying Canoe," which was commented on especially favorably by Edward J. O'Brien, nationally known critic, "Little Stories of Quebec," and "Jean Baptiste."

After asserting that he had read the 1931 Kosmet production with great interest and amusement and claiming the play to have much good clean humor and a clever plot, the professor said, "The audience will doubtless be kept guessing as in the modern detective story, until near the end, when they will probably be surprised at the denouement."

Wanted Savage Lover. "I was sorry that the savage lovers (there is one in the story) who produced a long knife early in the play, did not appear again and that there was no murder or sudden death, but perhaps I am too bloodthirsty."

Then, Dr. LeRossignol in a form of explanation stated, "Really, none of the characters were sufficiently villainous to deserve such a fate."

"There is certainly nothing morbid about the play and the day and night during which the leading characters were marooned on Sheela's Island should appeal to both students and faculty who are looking forward eagerly to their summer vacation."
