

ENROLLMENT IS SLOW; TEACHERS COLLEGE LEADS

Small Portion of Total in Most Colleges Is Registered.

DAY AND HALF REMAIN All Students Must Consult Advisers By Saturday To Avoid Fee.

Failing to gain momentum as predicted by deans of several colleges, registration continued yesterday, as it had the first three days, very slowly.

With only one and one-half days remaining for registration for next fall's entrance, most colleges had only a small portion of the total number of registrants expected. Teachers college with a present enrollment of 1,400 had up until 5 o'clock yesterday only 664 students who have consulted their advisers.

With a like comparison, other colleges have had a similar number of registrants. The engineering and pharmacy colleges have only 259 and 85 students, respectively, who have registered.

Teachers Lead.

With a high total of registration figures for yesterday Teachers college led with 353 and arts and science colleges followed a close second with 311. Although the agricultural college has led in numbers concerning next fall's entrance, the number of registrants yesterday from the teachers and arts and science colleges of 170 and 163 placed them fourth along the line.

Other registration figures for yesterday are business administration 155, dentistry 79, engineering 79, and pharmacy 3. Fifteen students registered late Wednesday in the pharmacy college which raises the total to 23.

Because no definite check is taken on their registration, the law college will be unable to give its registration figures until the last of the week.

New Assignment Plan. Students this year will be given consideration in their assignment of class sections in order of their registration, according to a new plan set forth by Prof. A. R. Congdon, chairman of the assignment committee.

Dean Thompson, Dr. Oldfather Give Opinions Of How They Would Do It If They Could Enter College Again

BY EVELYN SIMPSON.

Two members of the university faculty yesterday boarded the train of speculation and steamed out of the land of reality into the country of imagination and dreams to consider what they would do if they could turn back the wheels of time and enter upon their school careers tomorrow.

T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs of the university, evinced manifestations of his true Spartan makeup when, concluding a dissertation upon his struggles with Greek, he announced that were he to return to college training tomorrow, his course would be filled with "gauge" subjects. "Gauge" subjects, he insisted, were measure courses—courses in which one could say, "I learned something new today."

"The prime purpose of university training as I see it today," he said, "is to develop an individual that he may solve or attempt to solve a problem he meets in the world after his college days are behind him. Industry today is not interested in the technical knowledge obtained in the young chemist's training," he said. Industry is interested in a man's ability to think out the solution to a chemical problem—not because of the technical knowledge he has ac-

FACTION LEADERS ORGANIZE FORCES TO GATHER VOTES

Politics Climax With Spring Council, Publication Board Polling.

With the impending spring election less than two weeks away, faction political leaders have begun formulating about to find new schemes for grabbing the student vote.

Campus politics are climaxed each year by the spring Student Council and Publication Board election, this being the only polling which carries offices which are more than mere sinecure positions. As everyone knows the class president elections have degenerated into a formality, for there is nothing for a class president to do except pose for a picture in the Corncrib. This semester, however, has seen a slight rebirth in the presidential situation since two of the presidents demonstrated activity by holding special class meetings to consider the union building question.

More Women Votes. The spring election will undoubtedly call more women voters to the polls than any of the previous of this years' elections since several women will have to be chosen to serve on next year's student council. This angle will naturally inspire Yellow Jacket and Blue Shirt faction leaders to make a special bid for these feminine votes which will play an important part in the election's outcome.

Formal date for the election was set on May 19 by the student council at its Wednesday night meeting. Undoubtedly both factions will plan serenades and undoubtedly they both have some political stunt up their respective vote seeking sleeves. Candidates will probably be selected by the factions sometime during next week and filings will be due at the student activities office by Friday, May 13.

STUDENTS OF SCIENCE TO ATTEND PROGRAM

High School Teachers Will Discuss Organization Of Pupils' Clubs.

Students preparing to teach science in high school will be especially interested in the program of the high school science teachers section of the Nebraska Academy of Science, to be held Saturday in the Bessy hall auditorium, it was announced.

The major part of the program will be put on by high school science teachers from out in the state, most of whom are graduates of the University of Nebraska.

The organization of a state wide high school science club and junior academy of science will be discussed in hope of bringing about the adoption of such a plan.

State Follow Plan. Neighboring states have found the plan very valuable. Illinois has a state organization of science clubs. Kansas is this year planning to organize a junior academy of science for the purpose of the improvement of science teaching on the secondary school level.

STUDENT COUNCIL DRILL COMMITTEE TO HAVE HEARING

Appearance Before Board Of Regents Saturday May End Issue.

JOE HUNT HEADS GROUP

Chairman To Give Plea For Abolition; Williams Will Appear.

After three months of waiting the Student council committee on military science has finally been granted a hearing before the board of regents at one o'clock, Saturday. This meeting will climax agitation on the military drill issue since the regents' decision, regardless of the side they take, will completely close the matter. The council committee intends to propose making military science an elective rather than a compulsory course. At the same meeting it is expected that plans for a swimming pool will be discussed.

Members of the Student council group which will present its plan for the abolition of military drill include Joe Hunt, chairman; Fred Grau, Ed Faulkner, William McCleery and Robert Kelly. Since McCleery is out of the city at the present time it is expected that he will be unable to attend the meeting. He was the father of the Student council motion which provided for the appointment of the anti-drill committee.

Proponents to Appear. Proponents of military science also intend to be present at the Saturday meeting, in order that they may defend their side of the issue. When informed of the meeting Alan Williams, lieutenant colonel who took an active part in stirring up agitation in favor of drill when the issue was at its crux last winter, had the following statement to make:

"Student representatives of the military department intend to be present at the regents' meeting in order that they may defend military science from the attacks of the Student council committee. It is perfectly obvious that such an action as making military drill an elective course could not have disastrous results, largely because the only alternative—physical education—could not be selected due to (Continued on Page 4.)
