STUDENTS REGISTER FOR SPECIAL SESSION WORK NEXT MONDAY

Vitalized Agriculture, Rural School Work, P.T.A. Studies Listed.

Novotny, Rosenlof, Cooper Will Conduct Ten Day Courses.

Registration for three special two week sessions will be held Monday, June 15, according to R. D. Moritz, director of the summer session. They include courses in vitalized agriculture for rural schools, rural school administration and supervision, and parent teachers association.

Those registering for vitalized agriculture should report Monday morning at 8 o'clock at Rural Economics building, room 205, on the agricultural campus. Rural school administration and supervision registration will be held at 1 o'clock at Teachers college 214. At 10 o'clock those who wish to take courses in Parent Teachers Association work may register at Andrews hall, 115.

The course in Parent Teachers association work is to be under the direction of E. L. Novotny, newly elected superintendent of schools at Beatrice and nationally known authority on parent teacher activities. Lincoln and Nebraska Parent Teacher associations are co-operating to make the course successful in point of enrollment. Mr. Novotny conducted the special session for this work last year.

Rosenlof Teaches Rural Studies.
Rural school administration and supervision is taught by G. W. Rosenlof, director of secondary education and teacher training, state department of education. It is arranged principally for county superintendents.

The course in vitalized agriculture, which is particularly adapted to the needs of county superintendents and rural teachers, is conducted by Bert Cooper, director of extension, the Northwest Missouri State Teachers college, Maryville, Mo. It is founded on the basis that the pupil's home life and community experiences should be connected with his development in the school room.

Vitalized agriculture is planned to attract and hold the student's interest by means of a crop survey and study of the important field crops in the community. It provides for the organization of the rural school on the basis of activities in life situations, thus vitalizing the work not only of agriculture but also of the entire school curriculum.

SAWFISH SNOOT ARRIVES.

The snout of a sawfish, a perfect specimen, has been given the Morrill hall museum by Miss Mary Tremaine, formerly English teacher in Lincoln high who is visiting in the city. The fish was captured by Miss Tremaine's father in the Panama Canal. It is being added to the museum collections by Miss Marjorie Shanafelt, Curator.

Museum Gets Black Rhino As Part Of Breede Collection

Another specimen of the Adam Breede collection, an immense, black rhinoceros, has been received from the Clark Brothers Taxidermist Studio in New York City and has been placed on exhibit in Morrill hall museum.

The animal is nine feet long and weighed 1,160 pounds in the crate. Recently the museum also received two cape buffalo, classified as the most dangerous animals in all South Africa. These were also shot by Adam Breede, late editor of the Hastings Tribune, whose African collection has been secured for the museum. Animals are being shipped from New York City as soon as they are mounted.

SUBSCRIPTIONS STILL AVAILABLE FOR PAPER

Time Extended On Summer Nebraskan To Aid Students.

Subscriptions to the Summer Nebraskan are still available at the regular campus price of twenty-five cents for the nine weeks. A large number of sales were made on Monday but due to registration activity many were unable to make contacts with subscription salesmen.

Distribution this year requires presentation of receipts before a copy may be obtained. Since all official bulletins and announcements for which students are held responsible are to appear in the Nebraskan it has been decided to extend the sales that everyone may have an opportunity to subscribe.

All students wishing subscriptions may secure them in the Nebraskan office in the basement of University hall, any time during the morning or afternoon. Back issues will be furnished late subscribers.

THOMAS, CARR TO LEAD ROUND-TABLE GROUPS

Discussions Begin Tuesday, No Charges Made For Attendance.

Daily round table discussion will be held by Charles Swain Thomas of Harvard university and Dr. W. L. Carr of Columbia university, visiting professors, in addition to their regular scheduled lectures, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by Dr. H. C. Koch, professor of secondary education. These discussions will begin Tuesday, June 16, and will continue until June 26, provided student interest is such as to justify them.

Professor Thomas will lecture on special methods of teaching English in the high school. This will be done under the catalogue number of Education 121 (English). The group will meet at 3 o'clock daily in Andrews hall 126. Those who desire to audit the series of lectures may do so at a nominal cost.

Round table discussions, however, are open without cost to those who desire to raise problems for general discussion. Mr. Thomas will be in Teachers college 212 daily at 2 o'clock to see this group, beginning Tuesday, June 16.

Specialist in Latin.
Professor Carr is a specialist in methods of teaching high school Latin. His lectures will be held in connection with Education 121 (Latin) each day at 2 o'clock in

Faculty Members Plan Studies, Trips, Conventions As Summer Session Opens

After nine months of school work, faculty members of the University of Nebraska today can look forward to teaching and attending summer sessions in universities from New York to San Francisco, serving as delegates at professional meetings and conventions throughout the country, and spending vacations abroad, on lake shores, in the mountains, and on motor tours.

Miss Louise Pound of the department of English will teach graduate courses in American speech and American folk song at Leland Stanford university in California from June 18 to Sept. 1. She and her sister, Miss Olivia Pound, will drive through to San Francisco.

Prof. H. W. Manter of the department of zoology has left Lincoln for the Carnegie biological laboratory at Tortugas, Fla. where he will do research work on the parasites of deep sea fishes. This laboratory is located on a small coral island about eighty miles

Two Geography Tours Planned For Summer

Two geography tours are planned by the university, both of them to start later in the summer.

A field trip in geography, conducted by Prof. Earl E. Lackey, will be made thru the Wyoming and Colorado Rockies to Salt Lake City and other scenic points of Utah, leaving Lincoln, Aug. 7 and returning Aug. 25.

A special study tour in geography will be conducted by Mr. LaFleur thru the eastern United States and part of Canada. The tour lasts about seven weeks, leaving Lincoln July 16 or 17.

2,253 REGISTER BY WEDNESDAY EVENING

Mid-Week Total Indicates Enrollment May Exceed That of Last Year.

With sixty-eight enrolling Wednesday, the total registration for the summer session was increased to 2,253 as compared to 2,234 during the same period last year. Indications are that graduate students and late registrants will bring the grand total up to a slight increase over the 2,665 who entered last summer.

The total Monday was 1,825. On the second day, Tuesday, 301 registered. It was planned to finish the registration in one day, but so many were unable to complete their registration on Monday that the time was extended to Tuesday evening. Graduates must complete their registration by this evening to avoid paying a late fee.

Registration for academic work is much greater this year than in previous seasons, according to early reports. Many students taking the six-week course have taken advantage of the arrangement whereby certain academic nine-week classes may be completed by extension work.

Official Bulletin

Monday, June 15.

Parent Teachers Association—10 o'clock, Andrews hall 115.

Rural School Administration and Supervision—1 o'clock, Teachers College 214.

Vitalized Agriculture for Rural Schools—8 o'clock, Rural Economics 205 (agricultural campus).

Anyone wishing to register for the above courses previous to the dates mentioned may do so from 8 to 12 o'clock, Saturday, June 13; at the office of the director of summer session, Teachers College 305.

Owing to the unexpected registration in some of the classes, changes in room assignments are necessary. Any instructor finding it advisable to make such a change must secure permission from the chairman of the room assignment committee, W. B. Johns, Teachers College 203.

TWENTY BEGIN BOTANY STUDY AT ESTES PARK

Dr. Pool's Course At Camp Olympus Has Sizeable Enrollment.

Twenty University of Nebraska students are attending the summer botany classes which are now being held in Camp Olympus, Estes park, under the direction of Dr. R. J. Pool, chairman of the department of botany.

These courses are held each summer for a six weeks period and for the past five years have met with an enthusiastic response. As arranged they are a method of combining college training with a summer vacation. Classes close on Friday, July 17.

Camp Olympus, where the courses are being given, is an attractive and comfortably equipped group of buildings which face the Thompson meadows, across which is a full, broadside view of Long's peak and the summits of the Continental Divide, twelve miles away. A three story Lodge is the center of activities. It has several large fireplaces, a two-storied veranda, and also affords sleeping quarters and dining facilities.

CAMPUS COP HAS MANY VIOLATORS OF PARKING LAW

Parking violations have been numerous and frequent during the past few days according to Campus Cop Regier, who has been busy tagging cars.

"I am sure that these violations are due to misunderstandings rather than to any attempt to disregard traffic ordinances," Policeman Regier declared.

There are three sections of the campus in which parking by other than faculty members is prohibited, he pointed out. One place is on the drill field north of Social Sciences and Teachers college; one is back of Chemistry hall, and the other is back of the School of Music. Only faculty members with registered cars are permitted to park in these spots.

For first offenses Officer Regier has been giving a yellow warning tag and has merely jotted down the license number. A second offense will necessitate a trip to the police station on the part of violators, he said.

It was also explained that there is no time limit on parking on the campus. The two-hour limit which is in force in downtown areas does not apply here. Students may park their car in the morning and leave it there all day if they so desire.

SEASON OPENS WITH BIG PARTY TONIGHT IN MEMORIAL HALL

Student Executive Board Selections Will Be Announced.

Only Ten Cents Admission For This Summer's Party Events.

Recreational activity for summer session students will open with a gala party scheduled for tonight, the first week end of school. The initial social event will be held in the armory, commonly known as Grant Memorial hall, and will commence at 8:30 with a six piece orchestra under the direction of Dave Hahn furnishing the music.

A feature of the evening's entertainment will be the announcement of members on the Student Executive committee which will arrange and supervise summer session recreation for the balance of the term. This committee, which is being selected by Prof. E. W. Lantz, is made up entirely of students who will have control of parties, picnics and sports. Professor Lantz will act as faculty advisor for the group.

Future Parties at Stake.
Future parties depend a great deal upon the reception which this event is given by the student body. Faculty members expect an attendance of about 400 which is the number that attended the first party last year.

"The building will be satisfactorily cool," Professor Lantz explained. "This is due to the excellent system of cross ventilation which has been installed in the armory since it is used during the regular year both for dances and for women's athletic activity. Students may be assured of a highly comfortable temperature for their evening of dancing."

Two members have already been selected for the Student Executive committee and their are aiding with arrangements for tonight's party. Their names, along with those of other members which are being selected today, will be announced tonight.

An Early Start.
Because of many student suggestions offered at last year's parties it has been decided to start tonight's affair at 8:30 rather than at 9. Dancing will continue until 11:30 giving three full hours of dancing. This will give plenty of time for whatever students may wish to do later and they can still get in at 12 o'clock, the closing hour for university women.

Admission to the party is only ten cents, for men and women alike. This is to defray the expense of an orchestra.

If present plans are followed and the attendance at tonight's

TEXTBOOK EXHIBIT STARTS TOMORROW

Summer session students who are engaged in the teaching profession will have an opportunity to examine various types of high school text and reference books for a period commencing tomorrow and ending June 27.

The display, known as the Annual Summer School Exhibit, will be shown in Grant Memorial hall where representatives of all resident publishing firms and a number of outsiders will show their books.

This educational exhibit is arranged under the auspices of the university in order that teachers and professors may become acquainted with new textbooks which deal with high school subjects.

Included in the display will be a representative outlay of the products of school and college textbook publishers and other educational exhibits such as works of reference, laboratory equipment and supplies, and athletic goods. There will be no selling or soliciting of orders.
