Coach Schulte Partly Responsible For Percy Beard's Mark in Hurdles

By Edwin B. Dooley.
In the New York Sun.

Many track records have been disallowed in recent years because of oversight on the part of the authorities in charge of the meets. Sloping cinder paths, illegal starting devices, unofficial hurdles, inexperienced timers and similar circumstances have shattered more than one athlete's hopes after it had been announced that he had shattered a world mark.

Henry Schulte, track coach of the University of Nebraska, must have been thinking about such things as he sat in the stands at Lincoln recently watching the national A. A. U. track and field events. The 120 high hurdle race was about to take place, when Schulte turned to one of his friends and inquired whether or not the International Amateur Athletic federation has approved officially the hurdle invented by Harry Hillman, famous runner of two decades ago and now head track coach at Dartmouth college.

Starts Discussion.

That casual question prompted a discussion which spread to the officials in charge of the contests. Realizing that some of the foremost timber toppers in the country were entered in the high hurdles, and that there was a possibility of a new mark being established, the A. A. U. authorities wisely decided to use the old style of hurdle. Thus, any doubt, dispute or uncertainty would be avoided should a new record result.

What happened in the national A. A. U. 120-yard high hurdles is history now. But Percy Beard, who won the event in world record time by clipping two-tenths of a second off Earl Thompson's 14 2-5 mark, has Schulte to thank for his record. The Hillman hurdle, splendid device that it is, has already been approved by the Intercollegiate A. A. A., but not yet passed the censorship of the International Amateur Athletic federation. Even tho the A. A. U. will recommend that hurdle to the international body when the latter organization holds its congress at Los Angeles next year, it is extremely doubtful if Beard's record shattering performance would go down in the books had not the regulation hurdle been used.

Education Boards Stop Seventy 'I Do' Processions

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP). The board of education, in delaying the award of permanent contracts to teachers, delayed at least seventy marriages, it appears.

In New York state teachers cannot marry while on probation. The board, apparently not realizing the gravity of the situation, delayed action on the permanent awards. Then board offices were delayed with complaints from men as well as the teachers. "My fiance wants to get married and so do I. I'm afraid he may slip away if we have to wait all summer," one girl said over the telephone.

BERLIN.—Students of the University of Berlin have carried their difference to Under den Linden. National socialists mauled social democratic pamphlet distributors in front of the university and tried to conduct a forum in Franz Josef Platz. When a serious fight between the factions threatened, police cleared the streets. Twenty students were arrested.

Similar trouble developed at the Charlottenburg Institute of Technology, where police also were called in and where four arrests were made.
