HONORARIES OFFICIATE

Chancellor, Deans, Condra and Bible Speak at Annual Event.

The Cornhusker oath was administered to nearly 900 freshmen during the freshman initiation ceremony which was held at the coliseum Thursday morning. Richard Devens, president of the Innocents society, presided at the convocation. Dr. George Condra was the principal speaker and administered the oath to the incoming students.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett advised the students to pay close attention to their financial expenditures and to live as economically as possible. Courage and loyalty were also stressed by the Chancellor.

Dean T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, supplemented the statements of Chancellor Burnett and invited the students to visit his office. He advised the students to adjust themselves to their new surroundings as quickly as possible and to make the best of the opportunities afforded by the university and to become interested in outside activities.

Amanda Heppner, dean of women, urged the freshmen girls to get acquainted with the upper classes and extended an invitation to a tea which was held yesterday afternoon at Ellen Smith hall.

Jean Rathburn, president of Merit Boards, urged the freshmen girls to obtain their green buttons at Ridge and Gunzel's Friday and Saturday.

Green Buttons Announced. Coach D. X. Bible stated that it was unnecessary to give up hope no matter what the odds were. Even in the face of almost certain defeat the man who still has hope is apt to prove the victor, was the substance of Coach Bible's speech. Coach Bible also urged the students to support and take part in extracurricular activities.

Coach Henry Schulte praised the spirit at the University of Nebraska and stated that no school. (Continued on Page 3.)

The first Freshman commission meeting was held Thursday afternoon, Sept. 24, at Ellen Smith hall. The meeting was well attended by freshmen girls who are interested in Y. W. C. A. work. Some very interesting discussions on campus problems are promised; social and moral questions of all kinds will be discussed.

Pledges Substitute Barrel Staves For Scepter as Rushing Period Ends

Treated no longer with the sweet solicitude of the rushee, and no longer put to bed in cotton wool by the anxious Greek parents, the rushees, who are rushees no longer but dishonorable pledges, the lowest things on the campus, find that this is no longer as easy as falling off a barrel. In fact it seems as if the barrel falls on you—at least in the form of its staves! The inevitable has come. Freshman rules have been posted. Dear old Alma Mater is just one board party after another. Pledges cannot sit on pillows. Oil cannot be poured on their wounds. They're having one heck of a time. The lesser of the lower life on the campus, the female pledges are now blessed with a new mother—one who takes her good looking freshman date away from her—and hands her out a sap from the mother's pet frat. The higher form of pledge life—the boys—find life harder yet. They view with apprehension the empty barrels deliv-

CREDIT TO BE GIVEN FOR RADIO COURSES

Extension Department Will Give Work in Three Languages.

BOOKS NOW AVAILABLE

For those who find it impossible to enroll in the night school classes of the university, the extension division is now offering a series of radio correspondence courses in three languages. The lessons are to be broadcast once a week through the university studio of station KFAB.

The radio courses were first offered by the extension division five years ago, and they were received very enthusiastically, according to Mrs. Ruth Pike of the division. At that time Dr. J. E. A. Alexis broadcast a course in Spanish.

This year forty lessons in introductory French, German and Spanish will be presented over the air. No credit will be offered in the courses in French or German, but five hours credit will be given in the Spanish course if certain extra work is done. Introductory lessons in all three courses were broadcast last Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Dr. Alexis will have charge of the Spanish course, which will be broadcast every Saturday starting tomorrow from 9:35 to 10. The instructor for the beginning French course is Mr. Emile V. Telle of the department of romance languages. This subject will be presented every Wednesday starting Sept. 23 from 2:30 to 3. Dr. W. K. Pfeiler will present the course in introductory German, which will be broadcast every Thursday starting Sept. 24 from 2:30 to 3.

Books to be used in these three courses may be purchased at cost from the university extension division. Sixty people have bought books within the last week, some for all three courses.

The extension division has received numerous telephone and letter inquiries about these radio courses. About a hundred letters have been received just recently. Mrs. Thompson, secretary of the division, declared.

Definite plans were announced yesterday concerning the rally tonight by the Corn Cobs and the Tassels. Art Mitchell, innocents rally chairman has high hopes for a successful pep campaign with two groups of Tassels visiting the fraternities and the Corn Cobs making the rounds of the sororities. The Corn Cobs will visit the outlying sororities and finish with those close to the campus. Each program will afford a variety of songs and music.

TO PICK CHEER LEADERS

Kinkead Says Ten Will Be Chosen After Tests by Vogeler.

An unusual amount of promising material in prospective cheer leaders has been evidenced, according to Bob Kinkead, member of Innocents society in charge of cheer leaders, in an announcement Thursday.

"Of the twenty-five men whom we have thus far chosen because of their superior ability," said Kinkead, "ten will be selected in the final tryouts this afternoon at 3:45. Candidates will practice yells before military science classes and have a voice test in the coliseum, and they are asked to report to Coach Rudolph Vogeler's office at the hour appointed this afternoon.

"The outlook is certainly good," he concluded, "for a peppy and enthusiastic bunch of cheerleaders, and Cornhusker football fans will be assured of adequate leadership in all Cornhusker songs and yells."

CORNHUSKER STAFF POSTS STILL OPEN

Detrick Suggests More Men Apply for Unfilled Positions.

WOMEN SWAMP OFFICE

According to Editor Otis Detrick of the Cornhusker, there are still a few positions such as fraternity editor, sports editor, and circulation manager, available if applications come in within the next few days. These places will soon be filled, so it is urged that all students interested apply at once. The office of the Cornhusker editor has been swamped with women applicants looking for something to do on that publication, while but few men have been after the jobs. It is strongly urged by Detrick that more men report to his office for these positions.

A number of the Nebraska year books that were ordered and paid for last year have not been called for. If you have paid for a Cornhusker and failed to get it call at that office at once for your copy, says Detrick.

The job of publicity editor is also open to the right person. Someone who has experience is preferred, but all applications will be considered before making the final decision for the position.

The organization of the Cornhusker staff is going to be completed in a few days.

WOMAN WRITER'S NOVEL MENTIONS PRAIRIE SCHOONER

Reference is made to the Prairie Schooner magazine in Bess Streeter Aldrich's latest book, "A White Bird Flying." On page 128 of this volume, one of the characters in the story writes a story for submission to the Schooner.

Mrs. Aldrich of Elmwood, has been a frequent contributor herself to the Prairie Schooner magazine, and in the above manner uniquely places the name of this publication, which is edited by Prof. L. C. Wimberly, before the world.

FRESHMEN MAY YET PROCURE 'N' BOOKS

Many freshmen have still neglected to care for "N" books. "Y" secretaries urge all freshmen to call for these handbooks immediately. Underclassmen may still purchase "N" books in either of the "Y" offices for 25 cents.

AG FACULTY TO HOLD FRESHMAN WELCOME ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Annual Reception for New Students Begins at 8 O'clock.

Final plans for the annual college of agriculture student reception given by the faculty and the extension service Saturday night have been completed, according to Dr. P. A. Downs who is general chairman of the committee in charge of the event. Several hundred Aggies are expected to attend. The reception is to be held in the student activities building. The reception is to be started at 8. About twelve college of agriculture faculty members are to be in the receiving line, according to present plans. After the students have been through the receiving line, they will go upstairs where they will be entertained with various stunts until all of the guests have been through the line.

In announcing the entertainment for the students this morning, Prof. H. J. Gramlich of the animal husbandry department said it will be more elaborate than in former years. L. I. Frisbie, Wilbur Knight, Dr. L. V. Skidmore are other members of the committee assisting Professor Gramlich.

Oz Black, prominent Lincoln cartoonist, is to give an illustrated lecture and chalk talk as one of the features of the program. After his performance, dancing will start on the main floor of the student activities building. Hampton's orchestra is playing.

Gramlich also announced that the grand march just previous to the time the dancing starts will be one of the features of the evening. Dean and Mrs. W. W. Burr are to lead the grand march.

Students in the college of agriculture are receiving invitations to the reception in ag hall up until noon Saturday. Due to the fact that it was impossible for the faculty members to get the correct addresses of the students at such an early date, the students are asked to call for their invitations. Identification cards must be presented.

ASTRONOMY CLASSES BEGIN STAR GAZING

Professor Swezey Conducts Pupils in Observing Solar System.

Star gazing is being carried on in earnest every Wednesday evening in astronomy classes, conducted by Prof. Goodwin D. Swezey in the university observatory. The classes are composed almost entirely of beginners who wish to gain first hand knowledge of the heavens and their meanings. There is a one hour course and also a three hour course. In the latter the class is held twice in the week during the day and once in the evenings for gazing through the telescope at the observatory.

The observatory has a large window facing east, which has a number of photographs around it. This display is interesting as some of the pictures there have been taken through the telescope. Perhaps the most interesting is a picture taken by Mr. Swezey on May 29, 1910 of Halley's comet. Mr. Swezey exposed the negative to the comet for sixty-five minutes and then the next day took the surrounding buildings and blended them together to make a most unusual photograph.

Professor Swezey has been with the University of Nebraska for thirty-seven years, coming here in 1894. He was made chairman of the department in 1905 and has served in that capacity for twenty-five years.

All freshmen in the college are to be at the horse barn for the annual "warming up," according to Nash. They are being advised not to attend in good clothes but are being urged to wear overalls of other form of old clothes.

The membership drive in the Ag club will probably get under way next week. The club plans several mixers in the student activities building and interesting meetings during the year.

PAN-HEL COUNCIL FALLS IN LINE ON HOMECOMING DAY

Sorority Representatives Vote to Close Night To Parties.

VARSITY DANCE PLANNED

Interfraternity Group Has Already Ordered No Events Oct. 24.

The Pan-Hellenic council went on record late Wednesday afternoon as unanimously favoring the plan to close Oct. 24, homecoming to all sorority parties to prevent entire university participation in the "varsity party" sponsored by the Innocents society, according to an announcement of Julia Simanek, president of the council.

In acting upon the recommendation that such action should be taken by the Interfraternity council, Pan-Hellenic encountered no opposition, with the exception of one sorority which withdrew its objection before the vote. As yet the Barb council has not acted upon the plan, but it is expected they will approve it.

This decision of Pan-Hellenic, together with that of the Interfraternity council, prohibits all Greek letter organizations from holding parties the night of homecoming. The move, which was sponsored by the Innocents society is intended to become a tradition on the Nebraska campus. If the first party is a success.

According to Edwin J. Faulkner, Jr., member of the Innocents society, the varsity party will be representative of the Nebraska campus. A lumina, undergraduates, Greeks and Barbs, together with visitors from the other campuses, instead of being segregated into small groups, will be brought together at this party. This plan is followed on several other campuses of the Big Six, and it is hoped that it will find favor on the Nebraska campus.

In making the announcement of the Pan-Hellenic decision, Miss Simanek said:

DR. JUDD TO VISIT UNIVERSITY CAMPUS

Husker Grad Back From Adventurous Sojourn Among Chinese.

Dr. Walter Judd, University of Nebraska graduate, A. B. 1920, M. D. 1923, recently returned from China, will be a campus visitor Monday and will occupy the pulpit of the Plymouth church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Judd, who for the past seven years has been in charge of the Congregational hospital in Shanghai, Fukien province, has had many thrilling experiences with the Chinese armies and with bandits who were under communist influence. Last spring, according to news reports, he was saved from a firing squad through the intervention of an officer whom he had previously befriended. During the civil war of 1924-27 Dr. Judd and one other American physician maintained two hospitals without access to adequate medical and surgical supplies during which time the armies commandeered the hospital quarters no less than six times, crowding out the civilian patients.

Dr. Judd plans to live in the United States at least a year and will be traveling in the interests of the student volunteer movement.

ROBERTSON NEW COUNCIL OFFICER

The election of Jane Robertson to the vice-presidency of the W. A. A. council was announced Thursday at the council meeting. The failure of Lucile Kelly, who would have been this year's president, to return to school, succeeded Mildred Gish, the vice-president in that office, and necessitated the election of a new vice-president.

The boy in baggy tweeds on the back row. I am not sure about him. He is almost asleep, he might know about life. I wonder, He yawns, he fingers a small button on his coat. I should have guessed, who cares about life and death, and good and bad, and success and failure when one has spent the preceding night adjusting—adjusting oneself to fraternity life. He'll be lucky to come through with his life—he thinks.

That girl with the maroon eugenie. She powders an exquisitely powdered nose, and smooths her long kid gauntlets, and buckles her maroon jacket tighter about her waist. She thinks—how perfectly plebian to talk of life and death, and good and bad, and success and failure in this fashion. How utterly plebian to talk of such things at eight o'clock in the (Continued on Page 3.)

PLAYERS TICKETS GO ON SALE NEXT WEEK

Tassels in Charge Annual Drive for Dramatic Group Season.

CANVASS OPENS MONDAY

Five members of Tassels society met Thursday noon to formulate plans for a drive on University Players' season tickets which go on sale the first three days of next week. Through an arrangement with the dramatic organization, the Tassels hope to make a highly successful drive in order that they may have the wherewithal to accompany the Cornhuskers on their trip to Missouri.

Julienne Deetken, Omaha, president of the Tassels group, appointed Jane Youngson, Dorothy Zoller, Ann Frehling and Dorothy Luschinger as team captains in charge of the various divisions of the drive.

Miss Youngson will be in charge of Lincoln sales downtown. Booths are to be located in Miller & Paine's and Ridge & Gunzel's. Miss Zoller is to have general supervision over student ticket sales on the city campus. Miss Frehling will direct selling activities at ag college, and Miss Luschinger will manage sales to faculty members.

Student Tickets Are $2. Student tickets will sell at the regular rate of $2 each and faculty members will be entitled to tickets at the same price. A special section in the center of the Temple auditorium is under special reservation and admission to these will be available through the presentation of Tassel receipt and an additional dollar. Students and faculty members of Lincoln schools may also purchase tickets at student rates, provided they can show high school identification cards.

Public tickets for the season will sell at $4 each. Either a student or a public ticket entitles the purchaser to attendance at the six University Players productions of the coming season.

The four team captains, according to Miss Deetken, are selecting members of Tassels to work under them and these teams will be announced in Sunday's Nebraskan.

IDA HOZENOSZLE

Funny—prosperity may come, and prosperity may go, but this thing co-education goes on forever. I sit in my eight o'clock this morning, wondering, as usual, what it is all about. Others seem to wonder with me—many others.

Prof. talks of life and death, and good and bad, and success and failure. Abstract terms, my grandmother could tell of them, each one slowly, earnestly—with a penetrating smile on her face. Life and death, good and bad, success and failure. I think I'd rather listen to my grandmother—if I must listen.

That girl by the window. With the yellow hair, and blue suit, and string of gay flame crystals. She could tell something about life I'll wager. Her eyes would shine, her cheeks flush. Life—college life—why not—it's her world. She would skip lightly over death, and answer nonchalantly past good and bad, and ignore failure, and accept
