A. W. S. board has planned that every upper classman offer a cheery "hello" to every student wearing a green button or a scarlet and cream cap. This, it is believed, will bring students closer together.

Students, apparently, are beginning to feel the need of closer acquaintanceship. Far too many are just going to classes. They know not with whom they rub elbows, if they allow themselves to get that close to their neighbors.

It is hoped that "Hello Day" will be a great success. May there be many more such moves that will foster a greater feeling of friendliness. The Cornhusker campus is void of school spirit. Here is a small start toward bringing back the surging impulse of "fight" which the fathers must have had in their veins when the university was founded.

MESSAGES TO FROSH
FEATURE BLUEPRINT

Cover of First Issue Has Pictures of Capital And DeBaufre.

The first Nebraska Blue Print of the year was issued last Thursday. The staff is headed by Gerald Briggs, editor in chief, and John Hutchings, managing editor.

This year the old cover design of two years ago is being used again. It is a picture of the state capital. A picture of Prof. W. L. DeBaufre, the new head of applied mechanics department, also appears on the cover of the September issue.

The September issue, being the first of the semester, includes within its contents two notices of special importance to new students from Dean Thompson and Chancellor Burnett. The departmental news still remains the feature of the magazine. This section contains news of the different departments from the department heads.

Other sections of interest in the magazine are: The Dean's Corner by O. J. Ferguson; Departmental Societies; and Honoraries and Scholaristic Awards Explained. A topic that should hold special interest for all engineers is "Cement Plants and Products in 'Cement Concrete in Nebraska'" by Donald D. Price, district engineer for the Portland Cement Association.

A special call is being made to all interested engineering freshmen and sophomores to apply for positions on the magazine staff.

erected on the campus of the University Medical College in Omaha, according to the present plan. These will include an addition to the heating plant on which work is now being done.

Improvements will not be confined to Lincoln and Omaha but will include Curtis, Nebraska also, where the School of Agriculture is located. Officials are ready for bids on a shop building, to be erected at this place, which will probably cost about $20,000.

MORNING MAIL

Surprised, to Say the Least. TO THE EDITOR: It is with a great deal of surprised interest that I learn that the university has a "zoo department" according to a recent headline in The Daily Nebraskan.

But it seems I have grown up with the wrong impression, for I now learn that our own university is the possessor of a zoo. It is always extremely interesting to learn new things, and I wish to extend a sentiment of appreciation to our dear campus newspaper.

Maybe It's Propaganda. TO THE EDITOR: I note in today's Rag what the World-Herald has to say about us. Why specifically place the blame on the university regents, chancellor, and faculty?

And then in the editorial column was found this line: "Barb parties or all-university parties, as they are known, are of a class that cater to average students. Their purpose is to provide a particular type of entertainment for the student of modest means."

ANOTHER FROSH. Ed. Note: Beg your pardon, Another Frosh. There was no intimation of synonymous associations made. I believe, upon investigation, you shall find that the Barb council is actually trying to cater to the average student.

NEWSPAPER TALK

The Dods Are Interested. Many hard-pressed fathers throughout Nebraska would like to kiss Boyd Von Seggern of West Point, editor of The Daily Nebraskan, who is advocating social retrenchment among the sororities and fraternities of the university.

Ed. Note: Upon which the editor blushes. There is one point, however, which should be corrected: The Daily Nebraskan is not advocating, necessarily, the cutting out of downtown parties; merely, rather, a cutdown on the expenses of those parties.

And Now We Have Action!

Pan-Hellenic council is the first organization on the campus to make a definite move toward party expenditure curtailments.

Here is something definite; something laudible. The Daily Nebraskan has demanded from no one that parties be discarded from the social budget, nor has this newspaper demanded that even the expensive features of those parties be discontinued for this year.

The Pan-Hellenic council does not bind itself as to whether it shall ask its members to cut down on expenses. The council may never do that. But it does admit, thru its action, that there is a conceivable need for curbing of extravagant social affairs.

Perhaps, now, it is in order for the Interfraternity council to conduct a similar move. There is no harm in it, of course. It is well, in fact, for various organizations to air their views on the situation and to take stock of what is at hand.

Both the Pan-Hellenic council and the Interfraternity council can do much in fostering a move for cheaper social functions. These groups control the actions of a large percentage of university students.

Comment over the state in the weekly newspapers as well as in all daily publications points to an anticipated success in this move to cut party costs.

There is one thing, however, that must be admitted. It is better to have a party without bids than to have no party at all. As a happy medium between the two—that of having a party with expensive bids and that of having no party—would it not be possible to send out an ordinary slip of paper bearing the printed information?

And, my Gosh! Almost time for first quarter exams again!

'Hello Day' Will Create Friendship. "It will go a long way toward bringing back a friendly spirit on the campus and toward getting away from the clique idea."

A nerve system for energetic skyscrapers

Long before the huge bulk of a new skyscraper looms up, Bell System men have planned its nerve system—the maze of telephone cables and wires so vital to its business activities.

From the inception of a building design, telephone engineers work hand in hand with the architects. They determine the telephone needs of thousands of future tenants. Then they plan cable shafts rising from cellar to roof and the grid of under-floor ducts that will put telephones within easy reach of every occupant.

There's a real thrill in working out these plans, for without telephones the immense structures of today would hardly be practicable.
