SOCIETY

Students from the University of Oklahoma will have numerous opportunities to attend social functions while guests of the University of Nebraska. Friday evening will be rather quiet with the chancellor's reception for the faculty holding the major position. Saturday will find the Theta Xi's holding the first fall party of the season. The All-University at the coliseum will draw a large number of the students, as will the fourteen house parties.

Halloween To Be Theme of All-University Party

Halloween will be the theme of the All-University party to be staged Saturday evening at the coliseum. Shocks of constalks will dot the floor, lighted pumpkins will be placed at regular intervals, and a mammoth artificial jack-o-lantern will be suspended from the ceiling. The lantern will be lowered to the floor near the end of the evening and the surprise it contains will be revealed. Simple Simon and his Coo Coo's "all ten of 'em" will furnish the music, and entertainers from Lincoln will perform during the evening.

A country school house will be the setting of the Gamma Phi Beta "kid" party which will be held Saturday evening at the chapter house. Harry Bray and his Frolickers will play for the dancing. Mrs. Beedle, the house-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Coffman, Mr. Lester Orfield and Miss Taylor.

Phi Psi's Plan House Party. Jonsey and his eight piece orchestra will furnish the music for the Phi Kappa Psi house party Saturday evening. Prof. Boyd and Mrs. Myra Cox will be the chaperones. The Nebraska and Oklahoma colors will be used in the decorations. Out of town alumnae who will attend are Richard Tagg, Arthur Sweet, Simon Martin, Forrest Gaskill, Edward Candon, Wendell Marshall, Douglas Zimmerman, Marshall Pitzer and Robert Young.

Literary Society Holds Informal Party. Twenty guests will be entertained tonight at a party by the Delian-Union literary society in their room 303 at the Temple. Elton Luz is in charge of the first and third hours of the party. Entertainment and games will occupy the guests. Gladys Clem-

The Onlooker Murlin Spencer

The situation doesn't look so hot for Nebraska with the Sooner game only one day away. This statement is based on the work of the varsity against the freshmen in a sixty minute tilt Wednesday afternoon. The Huskers were able to score only once against the spirited defense of the yearlings and that came early in the first quarter. Maybe the freshmen put a better eleven on the field than we give them credit for, but at any rate the scrimmage made the Huskers look bad.

The days of looking on the Oklahoma-Nebraska tilt as one which is more or less of a setup are past. Oklahoma is coming to Lincoln with one of the best teams in the south, and with the showing of the two teams compared last Saturday the hope column favors the Sooners. While Nebraska was losing to the Wildcats from Northwestern, Oklahoma gave Rice a good drubbing. And Rice is a strong eleven any way you look at it.

In spite of the scrimmage last Wednesday, in spite of the Cornhuskers' defeat at Evanston, and in spite of the reputed strength of Oklahoma, we will go on record as favoring Nebraska to win Saturday. This prediction is not based on the sole reason that we are from Nebraska but is based on one thing—spirit of the Cornhuskers. The spirit is above reproach. In spite of the fact that the student body has not stood behind the team in any of its games so far, the spirit of the Huskers is good. Coach Bible said, "I really believe we're in a new era here as far as spirit is concerned. The boys want to excel. The spirit of the team is stronger and harder to break down." Regardless of what anyone wants to say, Nebraska has a good team this fall and it will be their spirit that will carry them through. That is the reason we pick Nebraska over Oklahoma Saturday.

We will probably get a rap in the neck for saying that the student body has not backed the team in any game to date. Of course, the team was given a sendoff rally before they went to Evanston last week and a rally will be held before the sooner game. But that isn't what we mean. There isn't the tension in the student body. It is impossible to feel an undercurrent of spirit on the campus with every student pulling hard for a Nebraska victory. These are the things that force a team to go out and win. That is what sent the Cornhuskers out against a superior Notre Dame team a few years back and brought them in on the long end of the score.

We can rap the coaches as much as we want, we can cry about lack of material, but whether we like it or not the fault lies right at home. In other words, we have a student body here that is dead all the way through. Before we came to school we heard much about Nebraska spirit, but that must have been before the extracurricular activities of the student body was carried on in local ice cream parlors.

Ray Richards, former star tackle at Nebraska, was headlineman in the scrimmage Wednesday. He looks like he could still get out and play sixty minutes of good football.

Pepsters Lead Pre-Game Spirit Show Before Train Leaves.

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 8.—Back from Evanston, Ill., where last Saturday they charted Cornhusker formations in the Nebraska-Northwestern game, the Oklahoma scouts report that the Cornhuskers of 1931 have forsaken their traditional running attack for one that combines runs and forward passes and will therefore be all the more dangerous when the Sooners engage them in the "Big Six" opener at Lincoln Saturday.

Nebraska fought Northwestern to a standstill the last three quarters of the contest, say the Sooner scouts.

Monday afternoon saw Coaches Adrian Lindsey and Dewey Luster hustle their Sooners into a physical analysis of the Cornhusker formations brought back in the notebooks of the scouts.

The freshmen have been taught the Nebraska plays and will use them in dummy scrimmage against the varsity.

Dunlay is Recovered. In the Rice game Bob Dunlay, big quarterback from Haskell, took a bad lick on the head but was dismissed from the university infirmary Sunday. Paul Young, lanky center, is also fully recovered from the muscle cramp that toppled him over in the third quarter of the Rice game Saturday.

A big sendoff rally will be given the Sooners when they board the train Thursday night for Lincoln. The "Eighty-Niners" varsity pep organization, will be in charge.

Miss Ester S. Anderson, department of geography, studied during the summer at Clark university in Worcester, Mass. She has completed all examinations and residence requirements for a doctorate degree.

TENTATIVE DATE SET ON OPENING NEW SWIM POOL (Continued from Page 1.) have a regular freshman team. Telegraphic meets will be held for the first year men.

Coach Vogeler is optimistic over the chances for the Husker swimming team. With five lettermen forming a nucleus, there is enough other material from which to develop a strong team. Lettermen back include: Amato, sprinter; Dalo, distance; Powell, diver; Sutherland, diver; and Cannon, backstroke. Unfortunately Ray Gavin, veteran backstroke, is not in school this year, according to Vogeler.
