

GRADS WILL TUTOR FRESHMEN STUDENTS

Northwestern Adopts New Plan for Aid First Year Girls.

Freshman women living in dormitories will be offered tutorial assistance in any freshman subject through a system announced yesterday by Mrs. Florence S. Robnett, dean of women. Application for aid will be entirely voluntary until after mid-term when it will become compulsory for those freshman women whose grades are low.

The system provides for ten tutors, all women with teaching experience engaged in graduate work who will be present every night in Willard hall during study hours to give any instruction necessary. Miss Vera MacLaren, graduate in the physical science department, has been placed in charge of the tutors. Tutors will be assigned to the following required and elective subjects: English; mathematics including algebra and trigonometry; classical, roman; and Germanic languages; botany; zoology; chemistry; hygiene; social science; history and economic history; sociology, and political science. There will be no formal study hall and students will be free to leave as soon as they have received the required help.

Offet Large Classes.
The purpose of the new system, according to Dean Robnett, is to expedite adjustment of the student to work of the university and to offset some of the difficulties arising from large classes. "This is admittedly an experiment in educational method," said Dean Robnett. "It is believed, though, that the system will meet the needs not only of students whose preparation has been widely varied and often inadequate to meet collegiate standards, but also of those who have difficulty in required college courses for which they have no aptitude. If only ten students who otherwise would not return to the university because of poor grades can be carried successfully through their freshman year, the new tutorial system will have justified itself."—Daily Northwestern.

STUDENTS INITIATED INTO 'SECRET SIX'

Chicago Officials Accept Northwestern Men As Aides.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Collegiate cooperation with Chicago officials in combating the underworld is being discussed on the Northwestern university campus here this week following the initiation of a large number of students and faculty members into the secrets of the "Secret Six."

Al Capone and his gangster lieutenants were vividly described to a student-faculty luncheon gathering at the Orrington hotel by Col. Isham Randolph, chairman of the "hex" committee.

Professors as well as students became wide eyed as the anticrime leader described the manner in which investigators traced capone's checks and other documents through Chicago's financial institutions in procuring the evidence that has brought the notorious vice king to grief in the federal courts on charges of falsifying his income tax reports.

The Secret Six, already famous in the annals of journalism and in the cinema world, was formed only a year ago by industrial leaders of the city in such a way that no one of them knew who the other five were.

Current rates charged for "bumping a guy off" range from $50 to $300 in Chicago, but if President Walter Dill Scott of the university were the victim it would cost more, because he is a "big shot," the colonel said.

In the famous "pineapple primaries" of 1928, Chicago university students, 200 in number, voluntarily served without pay as watchers at polling places throughout the windy city. Many of them, it was said, had enlightening as well as thrilling experiences.

IOWA STATE TEACHER URGES SMALL KILLS

Professor Says Heavy Bags Of Wild Ducks Will Cut Supply.

AMES, Ia.—Iowa duck hunters who hope to enjoy good shooting not only this fall but also in future years will hold their bags this year well below the legal limit, Prof. J. E. Guthrie, of the zoology department at Iowa State college said yesterday. Heavy kills this fall will be sure to cause a heavy decrease in flocks for a number of years to come, he said.

Waterfowl throughout the country are scarcer this year than ever before, Professor Guthrie pointed out. "Though the situation is no worse in Iowa than elsewhere," he said, "this state is in one of the heaviest paths of migration, the Mississippi valley, and hunters in this territory therefore bear greater responsibility than those in other districts. If the kill in Iowa is large this fall, it will take years for natural reproduction to make up the loss."

One result of a heavy kill, he added, will probably be a marked decrease in the legal limit on bags in future years.

The scarcity of waterfowl this year, according to information from the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, is due to "a combination of adverse conditions in the cumulative effects of drought, drainage and overshooting."

ESTES REPORTS TO BE MADE AT VESPER SERVICE

The agricultural college vespers will be held today at 12:15 in the home economics parlor on the agricultural college campus. Helen Cassidy and Ruby Heather will give reports on the Estes park conference. Katherine Williams will lead the devotional services and a negro spiritual will be sung as an added feature of the program.

NEW HOME OF ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Homecoming day, at 11 o'clock in the morning, was chosen by members of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity to break ground for the building of their new home pictured above, which will face the southwest at the intersection of 15th and T, where it will face the new dormitory.

The new home is designed in the southern colonial style, having a two story southern colonial porch extending across three-fourths of the front elevation of the house. The main wall of the house will be built of textured colonial brick and the major portion of the windows, doors, shutters and main porch columns are entirely of wood in keeping with the colonial style.

The entire roof will consist of heavy grade architectural type slate in varying thicknesses and a random mixture of gray, purple, green and black colors.

On the first floor there will be a living room 19 ft. x 30 ft. and in addition, a knotty pine paneled library measuring 15 ft. x 19 ft. At the center of the first floor plan, there is a large reception hall, extending the full depth of the house, allowing entrance either from the rear court or from the main entrance porch. The first floor also includes a 19 ft. x 30 ft. dining room with pantry, kitchen and storage room facilities. The house mother's suite is also a part of the first floor plan and consists of a bedroom, private bath and closet space.

There is in the basement a lounge 19 ft. x 30 ft., which is combined with the reception hall to create a large lounging space. In addition to the service portions of the basement, consisting of a large trunk room, boiler room, coal and storage room, and servant's suite with private bath, there is a chapter room, measuring 19 ft. x 25 ft.

The second and third floor plans are identical as to arrangement except the second floor has a capacity of eighteen men and the third floor of sixteen men, making a total house capacity of thirty-four men. Each upper floor is designed with separate study rooms, accommodating two men in each room, and in the corners of the houses are situated the dormitory sleeping rooms, accommodating six men to each room. Each study room is equipped with a built-in wardrobe unit with separate hanging space and chiffoniere space for each student. Each of the two upper floors has a large toilet and shower room, together with linen closet and telephone room.

The building committee consists of C. B. Dobbs, chairman; Earl Ketcham and Robert C. Dods, officers of the alumni are Claude S. Wilson, president; E. E. Campbell, vice president, and E. E. Lanphere, secretary treasurer.

Walter Huber, Ranking Law College Senior Is Candidate for Rhodes Award

Editor's Note: This is a second of a series of five articles dealing with the Nebraska candidates for the 1932 Rhodes Scholarships. The next article will appear in a later issue.

By DICK MORAN.
Ranking first in scholarship among the seniors of the Law College and working his way thru college is the record of Walter G. Huber, one of Nebraska's candidates for the 1932 Rhodes Scholarships.

Huber, who is a member of Phi Beta Kappa national collegiate honorary scholastic society, attended Omaha University for two years and is now beginning his fourth year at the University of Nebraska. His scholastic average at Omaha was A, and his average here has been over ninety.

Huber graduated from Omaha Technical high school in 1925. He was a member of the debate team at that school and has continued his forensic activities during his college career. He was a member of the debate team at Omaha during 1927 and 1928 and debated for Nebraska in 1929 and 1930. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary debating society, and is president of the local chapter this year.

Last year Huber was one of the freshman advisers in Law college and at the same time occupied the position of a student editor of the Nebraska Law Bulletin, published every year by the law college.

Huber is affiliated with Delta Theta Phi law fraternity and is a member of the Student Council. This year he was chosen to be a holdover member.

He plans to go on with his law studies if he should win a Rhodes Scholarship. He is interested in government and community work but at the present time does not plan to specialize in any particular field of law. He was granted his A. B. degree from Nebraska in 1930 and will receive the degree of L. L. B. next June.

Huber, son of George F. Huber, is twenty-two years old and claims Irving as his home town. He has partly earned his way thru school by general sales work.

leagues, and many colleges and universities have chosen this subject.

Gray, a junior in the college of arts and sciences, comes from Omaha Technical high school where he was a member of the state championship team in 1929. In that same year, he won the Long Debate trophy, being judged the best debater in the freshman class. Last year he was a member of the team which traveled through Iowa and Illinois.

Cherry, serving his first season as a member of the Nebraska Debate team, received his training at Peru training school, where he took his college preparatory work. He is a member of Delta Theta Phi and Corn Cobs.

Tickets for the debate will be sold at the door of the Temple. A few members of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating fraternity, are selling tickets, but there is no general sales campaign.

A luncheon for the debaters and officials will be given at the Lincoln hotel this noon. The members of the Turkish team will arrive in Lincoln about 10 o'clock this morning. They will go to Doane college, Crete, Wednesday, for a debate there that night.

will contain eighty-five rooms. Each room will house two girls.

After the completion of the central unit, the north unit of two separate buildings will be built. The south unit of two buildings will not be built until some future time. Land has not yet been purchased for the south unit.

The south corner of the central unit will be located on the lot now occupied by the old Sigma Chi house. The unit will cover this lot and the lots north of it.

The cost of the central unit will be $269,000, according to present plans.
