LIGHTNER ANNOUNCES BIZAD PUBLICATION
College Executive Board to Supervise Sheet; Ads Pay for Venture.

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS
Announcement of plans for the publication of the Bizad News, official publication of the college of Business Administration, was made by Keith Lightner, president of the Bizad executive board yesterday. Applications to the publication staff will be received this week, he stated.

The News will be published four times a year. The Bizad executive board supervises the publication and Prof. C. O. Swazzy is faculty advisor to the paper. A new idea will be carried out this year, Lightner stated, in that the paper will be distributed free of charge to all students in the college of business administration. The paper will be paid for by advertisements, he said.

Four Sponsor Paper.
Sponsors of the Bizad News are the Commercial club, Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternities, and Chi Phi Theta, professional business administration sorority. Direct supervision will be handled by the Bizad executive board.

The paper will contain all news of interest to students in the college, Lightner stated. All those who wish to apply for editorial and business positions on the staff should hand in their applications at the office of the dean of the college, Mr. J. E. LeRoussignol.

Staff Positions Open.
Staff positions are open to sophomores and above in the university. Freshmen who want staff positions later should work with the staff now, Lightner stated. Applications for positions will be accepted until Thursday of this week.

The publication of the Bizad News was dropped a few years ago because of lack of student interest in the paper, but now, with a demand for the paper, it will start publication again, according to Lightner.

"We are desirous of making the Bizad News a paper of interest to all students," Dean LeRoussignol stated, "and we want to make it as representative of the college as it can be. All students who wish to work on the paper are invited to hand in applications this week."

sensitive and introspective. She clings desperately to her love, even as she doubts its sincerity. Three attitudes, the workings of three minds almost distorted by the great war, are thrown into the conflict and into bold relief in this play. It is a study of the war from an intellectual, psychological point of view. "The Unknown Warrior" should be a new angle of the war and a welcome relief from the now trite comedy of the trenches, and the tragedies of No Man's Land.

'CLASSICS' CLUB IS STARTED ON CAMPUS

Faculty and Students Form Society; Oldfather Gives Talk.

Faculty and students of the Classics department met in Andrews hall Friday afternoon to formally organize a Classics club. The club will serve to promote greater interest in the classics and to bring together students, members say.

Miss Margaret Deming presided at the first meeting. It was decided to hold meetings the first Friday of every month. The first part of the meeting is to be devoted to a social gathering and the last part will be given over to lectures, translations, and to topics of interest to students of the classics.

Prof. C. H. Oldfather, acting dean of the college of arts and sciences, gave a short lecture on the recent excavation of the acropolis at Athens. He also read a portion of An Itinerary of Greece, by Pausanias.

Election of officers for the club was postponed indefinitely. Adele Tombrink and Arlene Johnson were appointed to the refreshment committee for the next meeting. Arlene Steeple and Eloise Real were selected to arrange for the next meeting place of the organization. The next meeting is to be held Friday, Dec. 4.

Saturday, following "campus day" on Friday, drill students will begin their canvass of the city. All R. O. T. C. companies, the band, Pershing Rifles and Headquarters company will take part in the drive. Drill students will canvass the city during their regular drill periods, according to the plan outlined by Captain Spoerri.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW DORMITORY WILL BEGIN SOON

purchase a short time before in the extension of the city campus and were not designed for dormitory use. Three of these cottages are still used as dormitories.

On Nov. 30, 1923, a dormitory committee of the alumni of the university was named to investigate the possibility of building dormitories. This committee was composed of Charles W. Roberts, chairman, the late W. O. Jones, Mrs. W. E. Hardy, Mrs. L. W. Korschmeier, and Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women. This committee made studies of dormitory organizations and made a proposal that the alumni of the university be interested in a plan of financing whereby they would buy dormitory bonds. They conferred with architects and had the first set of plans drawn up. This idea was dropped at a time when university authorities were stressing the need for additional classroom buildings and for more adequate salaries for the faculty.

Women Aid Cause.
The Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women has had a standing committee on dormitories for several years. This committee, with a changing personnel, has studied the local problem and advised such a building. The women of the Faculty club, an organization of higher ranking women teachers in the university, has also had a committee studying this matter. This committee, composed of Miss Mabel Lee, professor of physical education, president of the club; Miss Laura Pfeifer, associate professor of European history, secretary; Miss Margaret Fedde, professor of home economics; Mrs. Hattie Plum Williams, professor of sociology; and Dean Heppner as chairman, studied the problem for some time and reported in favor of women's dormitories.

"We believe that the dormitory system with its opportunities for finer living and nobler thinking will plan an integral part in producing a superior type of citizen who will reflect credit upon the university and make a worthwhile contribution to the community and society at large," read a portion of their report.

Dean Heppner Active.
Dean Heppner, an active worker for the dormitories, has visited many of the modern dormitory plants in other universities, including Michigan, Cornell, Iowa State, University of Iowa, Northwestern, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Columbia, Kansas and Grinnell. From these inspections she has been able to critically study proposed plans for Nebraska dormitories.

ories and make many suggestions of great value.
Other administrative officers of the University with the architects have made several inspection trips to other universities to study types of construction, methods of administration, operation, and finance, incorporating their findings in the Nebraska arrangement.
"We are not trying to build palaces for the girls, but provide them comfortable living quarters in good taste. Many of our girls will marry and live in modest homes in the state. We should not give them cause to be dissatisfied with their future home life because of extravagant dormitories," recently commented Dean Heppner.

Combine Best Features.
Among the best features found by Dean Heppner in other schools and that have been incorporated in the Nebraska dormitory plans are the lavatory in each room, single beds, the requisite number of showers, closet arrangements, room size, and number of residents in the building. Dean Heppner has also secured many pointers at the annual meetings of the National Association of Deans of Women. At these annual meetings papers are presented dealing with the dormitory situation, dormitory needs, dormitory standards, etc. Architects for the Nebraska dormitory have followed as far as possible these standards as determined by actual experience.

Women have also played a considerable part in planning other features of the Nebraska dormitory system. Study halls, recreation rooms, party rooms, check rooms—all have come in for their attention at the hands of the interested women. The facilities and equipment for indoor athletics have been planned by the women's physical education department of the University.

Miss Fedde Helps.
The dining quarters have also been given long and serious consideration by women. Miss Fedde, chairman of the department of home economics, assisted first by Miss Bernice Elwell and later by Miss Artha A. Park of the same department, has taken over the responsibility for the dining room equipment. They feel that a superior arrangement has been effected by having the kitchens and dining room on the first floor instead of in the basement as is the case in many dormitories.

Initial Cost Higher.
University authorities explained today that the initial cost of the first dormitory unit is somewhat higher than will be the additional units because this central unit will provide administrative quarters, kitchens, dining rooms, and recreation rooms for the entire dormitory system. The additional units or wings will be devoted almost entirely to student rooms.

for use by the fall of 1932. University authorities feel that for the first time all university women will be able to enjoy happy and congenial surroundings that are reasonably priced, attractively furnished, adequately equipped, and well governed, a combination desired by all parents.

ANNUAL RECOGNITION SERVICE ANNOUNCED
University Y. W. C. A. Group Plans Ceremony for Tuesday Meeting.
The annual Recognition Service for members of the University Y. W. C. A. is to be held at 5:00 on Tuesday evening of this week in the Ellen Smith hall parlors. This beautiful candle lighting service is one of the most impressive ceremonies known to university women and has been practiced year after year, dating back to the origin of the first University Y. W. C. A. forty-seven years ago.
The purpose of the young women in their Christian association is: "To unite in the desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God, to determine to have a part in making this life possible for people, and to seek to understand Jesus and follow him. The candle lighting service taking place this week is a dedication as members of Y. W. C. A. to the ideals expressed in that purpose.
