EIGHT GAMES ARE BOOKED FOR YEAR

Announcement Shows Definite Arrangement Not Yet Reached With Evanston Officials; Iowa Battle Is Season Opener.

MINNESOTA SCHEDULED FOR SECOND CONTEST

Iowa University Away and Pittsburgh at Lincoln Are Other Two Intersectional Battles; Regular Conference Engagements Signed.

Nebraska will undertake one of the most difficult schedules in history in 1932, according to an announcement issued by the athletic department. Eight games have been scheduled, five in the conference and three with outstanding teams from other parts of the country.

The schedule includes games with Iowa State, Minnesota, Kansas, Kansas Aggies, Iowa, Pittsburgh, Oklahoma and Missouri. There has been no announcement made of a game with Northwestern next year, in spite of the repeated reports which claim that the opening game will be played with the Wildcats.

Intersectional games with Minnesota, Iowa and Pittsburgh give the Huskers games with two teams in the Big Ten and one eastern team. Minnesota was the one team given a chance to take the Big Ten title away from Northwestern this year, and lost only after a hard game in which superior reserve Wildcat power proved to be too much in the final period of the game.

Play Pitt Here.

Pittsburgh is always one of the leading contenders for national honor, and will present a number of the veterans which they will use this year. The game will be played in Lincoln, giving the Nebraska fans an opportunity to witness this major game.

Iowa is expected to have an even stronger team next year than they had this and will always provide plenty of competition for the Huskers.

Besides these games Nebraska will take on the five other teams in this Big Six conference.

- The schedule:
- Oct. 8 Iowa State in Lincoln.
 - Oct. 15 Minnesota at Minneapolis.
 - Oct. 22 Kansas at Lawrence.
 - Oct. 29 Kansas Aggies in Lincoln.
 - Nov. 5 Iowa at Iowa City.
 - Nov. 12 Pittsburgh in Lincoln.
 - Nov. 19 Oklahoma at Norman.
 - Nov. 24 (Thanksgiving) Missouri in Lincoln.

PASS DEFENSE WORK FEATURES PRATICE

Biblemen Concentrate on Breaking Up K-Aggie Aerial Formations.

If a long, concentrated drill on pass defense means anything, the Huskers will be ready for any passing offense shot at them by Kansas Aggies this Saturday in the game that has a direct bearing on the Big Six title. Coach Dana X. Bible sent his entire squad against the freshmen and nubbins in a long defense drill Thursday afternoon.

For the most part, the Huskers were successful in breaking up the Aggie passes as demonstrated by the freshmen. The work of Ely, dropping back from the line, and Sauer and Paul was outstanding in the long afternoon workout.

Nebraska was also given an opportunity to witness the running plays of Kansas as demonstrated by the Nubbins. The entire afternoon was spent in a dummy scrimmage.

Every man on the Cornhusker squad is in good shape for the game. The Huskers were deprived of an opportunity for heavy scrimmage Wednesday by rain, which may hold them back to some extent.

One team last night had Ely, center; Joy and Durkee, ends; Rhea and Gilbert, tackles; Justice and Koster, guards; with Sauer, Paul, Masterson and Manley in the backfield. The other team in-

VEENKER PREPARES FOR DRAKE CONTEST

Cyclones and Bulldogs Are Traditional Rivals Since 1898.

AMES, Ia.—Two gridiron rivals who have been concentrating on each other almost every season since football's stone age will resume activities on State field Saturday in another of those typical Drake-Iowa State grid wars.

The football rivalry between these two schools dates back to the era of nose guards and revolving wedges in 1898, with the Cyclones having built up a decided advantage in the number of games won. However, the Drake Bulldogs, under the expert generalship of Lynn King, have subdued the Cyclones in each of the past three years.

It is these recent defeats that irk the Iowa Staters. With five victories and one defeat this season, the Cyclones are sparing no efforts this week in planning the overthrow of Drake this Saturday to make their season even more successful and to stop the reign of the Bulldogs.

Tuesday Coach Veenker called on the freshmen to scrimmage his varsity, using Drake formations to give his line a chance at solving the Drake offense. He also ordered a session on pass defensive work for his backs to prepare them for the task of checking the vaunted aerial attack of the Bulldogs.

HUSKER B TEAM MEETS KEARNEY NORMAL TONIGHT

Second String Men Polish Off for Battle With James' Squad.

23 WILL MAKE JOURNEY

Tilt Is Second of Season For Nubbins; Have Win Over Peru.

The Husker B squad tapered off Thursday night for the tilt with Ted James' Kearney Normal eleven tonight with a long signal drill. A white ball was used as that is the type of ball which will be played with under the flood lights Friday. Pass plays were stressed in the signal drill as the Kearney eleven presents a heavy line which will not be an easy to punch.

This will be the second scheduled game for the B squad, having one victory to their credit, a 14 to 6 victory over Peru.

The trip will be made by bus and the team will leave here at noon Friday. They will arrive at Kearney in time to eat supper and play. Immediately after the game they will board the bus for Lincoln, arriving in time to catch the train for Manhattan where they will witness the Husker-Kaggie game.

Men who will make the trip are: backs—Baillor, Barger, Chase, Mueller, Nelson, Raugh, Yorly, Stubb and Wilson; ends—Hubert Lunney, Paul and Scott; tackles—Scoggans, Bata, Clark, Holmbeck and Wenke; guards—Cole, Miller and Green; centers—Jones, Keriakedes and Leffel.

Red Young announced his probable starting lineup to be: ends, Copple and Lunney; tackles, Clark and Scoggans; guards, Gartner and Miller; center, Leffel; backs, Nelson, Chase, Baillor and Yorly.
