Old King Cornhusker.

Once more Dana X. Bible has brought the Big Six pennant back to Nebraska. Once more Nebraska sits upon the throne of victory. The Cornhusker is king.

Last Saturday a fighting Cornhusker eleven battled its way to the title in as thrilling a game as has ever been seen on Memorial stadium sod. That game climaxed a season as hard fought as any since the conference was organized.

Dana X. Bible and a fighting Cornhusker crew deserve every bit of praise which is directed their way. No one man can be named as Nebraska's best.

On Turkey day that same eleven will go to do battle with an outstanding Pitt eleven. Notre Dame's fighting Irish have been the only ones able to beat them.

Nebraska is fortunate in other respects in its football teams. All about us fly rumors of proselyting and subsidizing athletes.

All praise to Dana X. Bible and as fighting a crew as ever donned the Scarlet and Cream. May the Cornhusker take Pitt and add another laurel.

Old timers come back to the campus and tell us of the days when school spirit was so thick around the school that you could gather it up in bushel baskets.

A Slump In Activities.

If what The Nebraskan said Sunday about interest in activities fading away is true, and most of the students interviewed seemed to think it was, then it would be natural to assume that any day some ambitious fellow will come along with a scheme for reviving such interest.

Every year these interest arousing campaigns are undertaken but the very lack of interest for which they are started soon gobbles them up. Last year's Innocents society, realizing that something ought to be done, appealed to the junior class.

There were countless other movements last year to revive the student spirit, ranging from student union building to Sunday evening community singing on the campus.

In view of the dismal failure of all attempts in the past to stop this decline of interest, let us first find out where the trouble lies. Then, if we think it necessary or desirable to revive the interest or school spirit, let us build up a stable system.

Let us investigate. Are campus traditions and activities the only institutions which suffer from lack of interest? The church finds that interest in sermons is being eclipsed by the popular desire for other things.

With this in mind, we may be able to devise a scheme for reviving interest in extra-curricular activities that will go down a little deeper into the real trouble. It may be that the whole political system needs revising, or it may be that the student should be offered a little more incentive to work. Maybe the educational system has become so specialized that the student will take part in nothing but what will help him to further his knowledge or experience along his chosen profession.

Why don't the campus anarchists form an organization for the purpose of abolishing organizations?

The best way to stop cheating at examinations is to have no examinations.

The latest fashion for girls this winter is red flannels, says Dame Fashion.

A statement from the University of Washington says that 90 percent of the 4,220 men students there go hatless.

We wonder if the boys who consent to wear military uniforms to the Military ball are going to include wearing those graceful drill shoes.

What Students Are Thinking About.

A number of communications have reached this office and altho some of them have been printed in their entirety, they begin to stack up. The following is a brief statement of the contents of some of these letters.

One person complains that the student directory comes out about a month later than is necessary. The student directory to be of the most use should be out as soon as possible after registration is completed.

Rallies are going down hill. There used to be a lot of spirit. Corn Cobs, Tassels, and Innocents must combine efforts.

Awgwan editor needs more contributions. Many capable humorists on campus, but few take interest. If the publication is going to carry campus humor, somebody has got to bring that humor to the Awgwan office.

A browsing room for the library where students can get a pleasure out of reading fine books, and browsing in an atmosphere of culture and beauty.

A student deplors the fact that aeroplanes are causing a lot of accidents and taking a tremendous toll of human life. Says that the younger generation might consider aviation as a nuisance.

More support for barb parties. These are all-university affairs and should have support of entire student body. This would tend to unify the whole school, especially barbs and Greeks.

Why was there such a multitude of people out on a rainy day to see a parade which they had seen many times before? (Meaning Armistice day.) Does it represent loyalty of the people to their country or merely curiosity?

Grades are tearing at the very roots of what education should be attempting to do. To get high grades the student must conform strictly to the text and not argue his own opinions.

MORNING MAIL

Formal Comment. TO THE EDITOR: In conjunction with the request that basic students attend the Military ball in uniform, a letter was sent to the various fraternities explaining the situation.

Public opinion has students pictured as pleasure seekers, but this is not a true picture. Students are for the most part serious minded. There are, of course, students who come for social life, others for activities, and those who come for just learning, but who are never particularly illustrious during school life.

This was disappointing as it was expected that the entire body would enter into the affair in true military spirit and unanimously agree to attend in uniform.

There can be no doubt in the minds of basic students as to the aspect of formality which uniforms would lend. Any military uniform is strictly formal and it is certainly no disgrace or any indication of one's financial status to appear in such attire.

EXPECT FURTHER DEVELOPMENT OF "WALKIE" QUESTION

(Continued from Page 1.) itely showed that women had been approached with such a suggestion but turned their backs to it. Furthermore it was revealed that walking to parties is not an innovation but a custom of long standing, abandoned only in recent years.

Some few men were opposed to the move but as a whole they were heartily in favor of it, particularly from an economical standpoint. Women who were interviewed held various views, but most of them conceded that they would walk if they were "made" to.

As it is understood by this writer the Interfraternity council will not consider any suggestion which advocates elimination of cars. Such action as they may

PRESIDENTS WOMEN'S HONORARIES DISCUSS GRADES WITH A. W. S.

They are Gretchen Fee, vice president; Gwendolyn Hager, corresponding secretary and chairman of Cornhusker party; Jean Rathburn, reporter and chairman of fashion revue; Evelyn Simpson, chairman of stamp sale; Dorothy Weaver, social chairman; Jane Axtell, secretary; Helen Baldwin, point system chairman; Margaret Upson, chairman of freshman activities; Mary Alice Kelley, chairman of vocational guidance; Lucille Reilly, treasurer; Margaret Buol, chairman of office; Anne Bunting, publicity chairman, and Mildred Stenten, chairman of notification of board and council members.

Gwendolyn Hager told of plans for the Cornhusker party, and asked the presidents to request the members of their group to bring costumes with them when they return from Thanksgiving vacation. She distributed letters of invitation to the groups.

The presidents who spoke and the organizations they represented are: Roseline Pizer, Theta Sigma Phi; Jean Rathburn, Motor Board; Eleanor Deming; Vestals; Lorraine Lallman; Phi Mu Epsilon; Alice Geddes, Alpha Lambda Delta; Helen Jeffries, Omicron Nu; Carolyn White, Phi Upsilon Omicron; Toby Goldstein, Gamma Alpha Chi; Betty Harrison, Pi Lambda Theta; Dorothy Gifford; Gamma Epsilon Pi; Margaret Deming, Chi Delta Phi; Dorothy McCall, Phi Chi Theta; Dorothea Mason, Iota Sigma Phi; Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Rho Tau were explained by a member of the A. W. S. board.

Presidents of the groups who were unable to attend, sent representatives.

A survey of the scholastic requirements of the organizations and the standards of election was distributed to the presidents. Gretchen Fee, vice-president of the board, presided at the meeting, and Jane Axtell acted as secretary.

take will probably be in the form of a resolution which asks the Panhellenic council to take some formal stand on the matter. From that point the men will be in a better position to know what to do. If the Panhellenic council takes an unfavorable attitude toward walking dates one of two things may happen. Men may rise in rebellion and declare a boycott on cars or they may drop the issue entirely.

At any rate the present issue rests nearly entirely with the women as far as its success or failure is concerned. If they choose to cast an air of social reproach upon dates who want to walk, the whole measure will fall thru. If they take the initiative and propose walking an important problem will be easily solved.
