GIRLS' COSTUME PARTY ATTRACTS 500 ATTENDANCE

University Coeds Exhibit Picturesque Garbs at Friday Affair.

A. W. S. AWARDS PRIZES

Dancing, Skits Presented On Program; Tassels Give Drama.

More than five hundred university coeds gathered at the annual girls' Cornhusker costume party Friday evening in the Armory. Cleverly garbed to portray everything from Irish washerwomen to bold sea pirates, the women were entertained during the evening by the A. W. S. board which sponsors the tradition.

Marjorie Dickinson of Rock Rapids, Ia., Chi Omega, was chosen by the judges as wearing the cleverest costume. She appeared as a dressing table. The prettiest costume, in the opinion of the judges, was worn by Margaret Leonard of Lincoln, Alpha Xi Delta. She came to the party as a Spanish señorita. Mildred Dole of Lincoln, Alpha Chi Omega, took the prize for the funniest costume. Her attire was that of an African cannibal chief.

Judges Select Winners.

As a pink colonial lady, Marjorie Cass of Ravenna received honorable mention for the prettiest costume. Dorothy Weaver of Falls City who acted as master of ceremonies for the program of dancing, singing and skits, was awarded honorable mention for the cleverest costume. The "missing link," represented by the costume of Alice Quigle of Lincoln was chosen as honorable mention for the funniest costume.

Anne Kavich of Fremont and Dorothy Zimmer of Lincoln were cited their humorous costumes when they entered the room as "time to retire." They appeared as (Continued on Page 4.)

RIFLE TEAM TO HOLD GROUP COMPET SOON

Will Have Match Between Four Squads Varsity Aspirants.

TO SHOOT THIS WEEK

A match between four teams composed of men trying out for the varsity and R.O.T.C. rifle teams will be held in Andrews hall this week. The members of each team were selected so as to make the teams of equal strength.

The course of fire consist of five shots in each position: prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. The whole course must be fired in twenty-six minutes and will be witnessed by the officer on duty on the range.

The whole range will be turned over to the men shooters as the girl rifle shooters will not fire in the daytime in the future. All scores in this match must be completed by 2 o'clock Friday, Dec. 18 and can be fired anytime during the week commencing Monday afternoon.

The varsity and R.O.T.C. teams will be picked from the outstanding shots in this match. Medals will be given to the winning team and in addition individual medals will be given to the highest individual scorer among the old men and another among the new men. (Continued on Page 3.)

VESPERS WILL HOLD HISTORIC SERVICES

Biblical Portrayal of Yule 1,000 Years Ago Is Planned.

Biblical scenes representing Christmas days a thousand years ago will be portrayed at the Vespers service on Tuesday night of this week in the main drawing room of Ellen Smith hall. The room will be lighted by a log in the fireplace and by candles.

Christmas in Rome in the year 500, the manger scene in Bethlehem, the holidays in Germany a 1000 will be depicted in the services. Special Christmas music by the Vespers choir and by the city Y. M. C. A. octet, Christmas poetry, and the tableaux make up the program.

Alice Quigle of the Vespers staff and a member of the university Y. M. C. A. will preside at the scripture service, and Miss Violet Olson of the city branch is in charge of the tableaux. They will be presented by the Lincoln high school Girl Reserve corps.

SOCIAL MAJORS CONVENE

Thursday Meeting Attracts Forty Students; Read Letters.

Forty students who are majoring in social work lunched together at the Grand hotel Thursday. The entertainment featured the reading of letters from former students describing the work in which they are now engaged.

Among these were letters from Miss Merle Draper, '21, who is now director of medical social work in the county health unit in Pomona, Calif.; Miss Ruth Peterson, who has spent the past year with the Family Welfare society in Omaha; Miss Mildred McGraw, who is with the County Welfare board of Cook county; and Miss Ruth Shallcross and Evelyn Adler, who are doing social work in New York City.

A letter which created special interest was from Miss Janet Schmidt. She has recently taken charge of one of the ten joint emergency relief stations which were set up for the winter by the Chicago council of social agencies. She has twenty-three workers under her supervision.

URGES DISCUSSION OF CHARITY DRIVE

Bob Lau, Campaign Head, Asks Organizations For Support.

SIMANEK LAUDS IDEA

In support of the Christmas charity fund drive, which was started by the Interfraternity council at its meeting last week, Bob Lau, chairman of the council committee in charge of the campaign, yesterday urged that all organizations discuss the subject in their meetings Monday night.

"I suggest that the houses discuss the plan Monday night. If they had planned to engage in some charity work for Christmas, it would be a good idea to contribute to the fund. Both the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils have approved of the idea and promise their full support," Lau declared.

Mr. Louis Horne, director of the Lincoln community chest, said that the local community chest would be glad to co-operate in any way they could if it was so desired. He suggested that organizations contributing might direct the expenditure of their contributions, which would be followed by the chest.

Nebraskan Aids.

The Daily Nebraskan will co-operate in the campaign by publishing daily the list of contributors to the fund and the lump sum received. Contributions will be received any time at the office of the Nebraskan by Marvin Von Seggern, Bob Lau, or Jack Thompson, members of the Interfraternity council.

According to Julia Simanek, president of the Panhellenic council, most of the sororities are in favor of the idea. All members of the council were notified of this. (Continued on Page 3.)

THIRTEEN INITIATED BY PI SIGMA ALPHA

Political Science Group Takes New Members Saturday.

Pi Sigma Alpha, honorary political science fraternity, initiated ten new members and three honorary members Saturday evening at a banquet held at the University club. The organization composed of faculty members and students in the political science department elected on the basis of scholarship was organized at Nebraska last year for the purpose of promoting constructive interest in government matters.

The initiates are: Jack Thompson, Lucille Hendricks, Wayne Hatcher, Christian Larsen, Walter Kollmorgen, Phil Brownell, William Horsham, Joe Miller, Mabel Bridges, and Clarissa Delano. The three honorary members selected for membership are men identified with political science work in other colleges in the state. They are Dr. J. G. Lewis of the Wayne State teachers college, Dean J. E. Taylor of Doane college, and Prof. C. M. Brown, of the Peru state teachers college.

Dr. J. P. Senning, head of the political science department and Dr. Harold Stoke, faculty advisor of the organization gave short addresses in connection with the work of the organization. The three honorary members were also called on for informal remarks.

The fraternity has nineteen chapters in the United States, the Nebraska Tau chapter being the most recently installed. Four regular meetings a semester are held, either with such special meetings as can be called to take advantage of opportunities to hear outstanding figures in the field of political science who may happen to be in Lincoln.

FACULTY GROUP GIVES APPROVAL TO EXAM PLANS

Senate Adopts New System of Nine-Day Period for Tests Saturday.

LIMIT OF TWO EACH DAY

Professors May Use Own Option for Three-Hour Courses.

The university faculty Senate, Saturday morning, approved the new plan for conducting final examinations as presented by a special committee appointed last year to formulate a schedule which would avoid some of the disadvantages of the system formerly in use. The new plan provided only two examination periods a day and examinations continue for a nine day period in contrast to the former plan which provided for four examination periods a day lasting only one week.

Thursday, Jan. 21, is the beginning of the examination period under the new plan and the finals are scheduled on through Saturday, Jan. 30, including Saturday, Jan. 23. The plan recommends that morning examination periods start at 9:00 a. m. and last till noon, with afternoon periods scheduled from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m., although the examinations themselves need not occupy the entire three hour periods.

Continues Functioning.

The committee which drew up the new plan was requested by the Senate to continue to function as an agency to adjust any conflicts or difficulties which may arise under the new plan when first put into operation at the end of this semester. The committee of which Prof. T. M. Rayson is chairman, consists of Prof. R. C. Abbott, Prof. H. J. Keener, Prof. J. E. Kirshman, Prof. O. C. Weidemann, Dean T. J. Thompson, and Miss Florence I. McGahey, registrar.

BIZAD NEWS DEBUT SET FOR TOMORROW

Prof. J. A. Cuneo Tells of South American Job Possibilities.

TO HAVE FOUR ISSUES

Appearance of the first edition of the Bizad News, the official publication of the college of business administration, on Wednesday, December 16, was announced yesterday by Pierce Jones, editor of the paper. It will be the first of a series of four issues to be published this year.

The paper will contain features of interest to students in the college. Professor J. A. Cuneo, instructor in economics, has contributed an article outlining the advantages and possibilities of the employment of graduates in South America.

The Bizad News will also carry an article on the organization within the college of business administration and one on the value of a college education in relation to income.

Print 700 Copies.

Seven hundred copies of the first issue of the Bizad News will be printed, according to Charles Skade, business manager of the publication. They will be distributed free, as the advertising in the paper pays for the expenses of publication. The Terminal Printing company has been awarded the printing contract.

More than one hundred copies of the paper will be sent to high schools in the state to acquaint them with the organization and work of the college, according to the editor of the publication.

The News will be printed on four pages with four columns to the page. The publication is sponsored by the publication board of the college of business administration. Professor C. O. Swayzee is faculty adviser to the paper. Student organizations sponsoring the publication are Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternities, Chi Phi Theta, commerce sorority, and the Commercial club.

Dr. Forbes Appears Before Classics Club

An address on "Women" was delivered by Dr. C. A. Forbes at a meeting of the classic club held Friday at Andrews hall. The speaker was presented by Margaret Deming. The following officers were elected: president, Cordelia Alderson, '32; Humphrey, secretary, Kathleen Becker, '34; Lincoln; treasurer, Beth Schmid. A discussion concerning the po-

GIVEN SEASON'S PRIZES

Misses Snyder, Shallcross, Alden Sell Most Candy.

Grand prizes to the highest W. A. salesmen at the football games this season were awarded at the A. W. S. Cornhusker costume party Friday evening in the armory. Kola Snyder received first prize of an oil painting and five pounds of candy, for the highest sales.

Jean Alden took second place, and Winifred Shallcross, third. Each winner was awarded a large box of candy. Other prizes went to Marjorie Tillotson, and Elizabeth Edmiston. Arthadell Shike and Doris Patterson received honorable mention.

DECEMBER ISSUE OF AWGWAN TO APPEAR TUESDAY

Formal Theme Is Feature of Current Humor Number.

ROBINSON DRAWS COVER

Wolf Heads Contributors To Magazine; New Talent Appears.

The December issue of the Awgwan, the Formal number, will go on sale Tuesday morning, according to an announcement made by Marvin Robinson, editor, Saturday. Awgwan stands will be placed in Social Science hall, Andrews hall and the Moon and at other places about the campus as usual, he said.

"This issue contains material of special interest to the student body," he stated, "the theme, of course, being in keeping with the time of year. The whole magazine is symbolic of Christmas and the formal season."

The cover, which was drawn by Robinson, depicts a young lady, who is dressed in a rented formal, ready to attend a formal party. In the background is a number of young men attired in full evening apparel.

Fashions Portrayed.

Robinson believes that one of the most attractive pages in the magazine is a feature called, "Foolish Formal Fashions," which shows the contributions that the different ages and people have made to our modern formal attire.

Another feature of this issue, an article by Art Wolf called "Why College Men Commit Suicide," or "Mother Burn My Clothes," offers some unusual remedies for common difficulties a young man encounters in preparing himself for formal parties. Roland Miller has also contributed a number of short features, one of which is "Water! Water!" He has also given an alphabetical list of phoney phonetic animals.

Margaret Deming has produced a poem for the magazine entitled "Our Nebula." Kay Hill and others have also offered some timely poetry.

"There is quite a lot of art work this time, among which names of several new artists appear," Robinson pointed out.

Sends Out Copies.

"Copies this month are going out over the state to the principal news stands in the larger cities. We are also taking a select list of high schools and sending sample copies to their editors of publication." (Continued on Page 3.)

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR SISTER DINNER

Complete Plans for Annual Banquet to Be Given Wednesday.

The program for the annual Big and Little Sister dinner, to be given under the auspices of the Big Sister Board on Dec. 17, Ellen Smith hall, has been announced by Katherine Warren, chairman of the program committee. Marjorie Pope will tap dance for the guests, and the Delta Gamma trio will present one or two numbers.

Tickets for the dinner, to which all university women are invited, are on sale in the organized houses now, and may be bought from girls who are Big Sisters.

Little Sisters will meet their Big Sisters at Ellen Smith hall and will have dinner with them. There will be an excellent opportunity for sorority women to meet non-sorority women and freshmen who will wish to be Big Sisters next year are urged to come.

Ruthalee Holloway is in charge of the arrangements for the dinner; Juliette Deetkin and Margaret Upson will direct games and see that everyone gets acquainted; and Katherine Warren and Ardeth Pierce have arranged the program.

GREEK BALL IS SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 6

Norman Galleher, Chairman, Announces Date After Friday Meeting.

CORNHUSKER IS CHOSEN

Downtown Ballroom Will Be Scene of Annual Formal Dance.

The interfraternity ball will be held Feb. 6 in the Hotel Cornhusker ballroom, Norman Galleher, chairman in charge, announced yesterday following a meeting of his committee Friday night.

Other arrangements, although incomplete, are progressing he reported and will be announced soon after Christmas vacation. Ticket sales will probably be limited to about 300 since the event is being held in a downtown ball room rather than in the Coliseum as is usual with the major social affairs of the year.

CHORUS TO PRESENT 'MESSIAH' WEDNESDAY

Four Artists Will Augment University Group of 250 Voices.

PROGRAM ANNUAL AFFAIR

The university chorus of 250 voices augmented by four soloists, groups of singers from the city, and a 25-piece orchestra will present Handel's "Messiah" in Grant Memorial hall, Dec. 16 at 8 o'clock. Howard Kirkpatrick, acting head of the school of music, is directing the Choral union.

The soloists asked by Kirkpatrick to take part in the "Messiah" are Rose Anne Carr, soprano; Edna Swanson, mezzo; contralto; Clark Sparks, tenor; and Stanley Deacon, bass. All are from Kansas City. Rose Anne Carr is scheduled as the feature guest star of the presentation.

University students belonging to the Choral union and regularly enrolled in chorus work have been working on Handel's composition since the beginning of the school year in preparation for this Christmas presentation. Kirkpatrick has held all his rehearsals for the "Messiah" in class sessions of the union. Class sessions are held twice each week in Morrill hall. Some special instruction has been given in the school of music.

Started in 1895.

This year's Messiah will be the thirty-sixth consecutive presentation given by the university. Handel's work was first presented in 1895 by the university chorus. It was organized by the late Carrie E. Raymond, who directed the chorus until her death six years ago. It was then taken up and continued by Howard Kirkpatrick.

The Choral union offers two productions each year. The first is the "Messiah" in class sessions of the union, and the second is a musical held in the spring.

The production will be presented at 8 o'clock for the second time since its origin. Previous to last year it was held at some morning hour. The affair will be open to the public with no admission charge.

ENGINEERS SCHEDULE INSPECTION JOURNEY

An inspection trip through the plant of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power Co. has been planned for mechanical engineers by the program committee of A. S. M. E.

The committee asks that all students interested in visiting the plant meet in the plant office, 9th and K sts., Wednesday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p. m.

SCARLET QUINTET LOSES TO DAKOTA

Coyotes Withstand Final Period Nebraska Rally to Chalk Up Win Saturday Night; Blackmen Behind 25 to 13 at Half Time.

ADKINS LEADS HOOP ASSAULT WITH 26 POINTS

Lenser, Henrion, Wischmeier Lead Brilliant Comeback in the Second Half; Koster's Play at Guard Features Cornhusker Defense.

BY HOWARD ALLOWAY.

Nebraska lost to South Dakota, 41 to 36, in the basketball scoring spree by Charley Black's recruits was not enough to overcome a twelve point lead piled up by the Coyote veterans during the first half of a close, hard fought game.

Individual star of the game was Steve Adkins, who tossed eleven baskets and dropped in four free throws for 26 of the visitors' 41 points. Almost alone he kept the northerners on top during the second half after Nebraska had begun to click and had tied up Olson, the other South Dakota forward who had accounted for ten markers in the first half, holding him to a single toss.

Lenser Leads Attack.

High in the Husker scoring column was Kurt Lenser, Lincoln junior and new man on Black's team, with four field goals and a gift point. Walt Henrion, sophomore, was next in line with a trio of field goals and two free throws. Koster displayed a strong defensive game.

Nebraska scored first on Wischmeier's toss just after the game started. A few seconds later Adkins had tied the count. Olson tossed his first giving the visitors a lead they held to the final gun.

During the first half Cosch Black used two full teams in a futile attempt to find a combination which would stop the assault Adkins and Olson were carrying against the south basket. The visitors had Nebraska's offense well bottled up. During the second half these and one more saw action and were successful in outpointing the South Dakota boys 23 to 16, but were 5 points short of overcoming the fast pace set by Adkins and (Continued on Page 4.)

PREP DEBATE LEAGUE INITIATES REFORMS

Delegates Vote to Increase Number of Debaters, Judges Used.

FORENSIC SEASON NEARS

Voting to use three judges in the finals of the state debate tournament the Nebraska high school debating league, at its meeting Friday night on the university campus, increased the number used in the finals last year when only one was used. Two delegates from each of the sixteen districts in the state were present at the meeting.

The league also decided that district champions coming to the final competition might use any number of speakers from three to six. Formerly only three were allowed, but in the next tournament the contenders may use up to six in any combination they wish. They may enter two teams, one for the negative and one for the affirmative.

The delegates voted to condemn certain information bureaus which furnish written speeches and manuscripts for use in the meets, according to Prof. H. A. White, instructor in the department of English. (Continued on Page 4.)

TODAY MARKS MORTAR BOARD HONOR AFFAIR

Will Hold Tea for Junior, Sophomore Women With High Averages.

Sophomore and junior women will be entertained at a tea given by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, this afternoon in Ellen Smith hall between 3 and 5 o'clock. Invitations have been issued to 370 sophomore and junior women who have an average of 80 percent or above and have no outstanding delinquencies on their scholastic records.

ORDER COVER FOR 1932 CORNHUSKER

Staff Finishes Layout Work On Annual; Modern Drawings Used.

The cover for the 1932 Cornhusker has been ordered from the S. K. Smith company, according to Otis Detrick, editor of the year book. It is an embossed leather cover, upon which are the figures of the heads of a college woman and a college man. It is done in harmonizing colors.

The dummy has been laid out as it will be printed. The introductory pages to each book, or section are modern drawings depicting modern college students and college life without being too collegiate. The art work has been done by Karl Fitzer, artist for Burger-Baird & Co.

"All of these pages are done in four color processing, which provides a good introduction to each of the sections, such as the activities, organizations, football, classes, etc. Work on the book is progressing rapidly," Detrick said.
