

STUDENTS FAVOR DISARMAMENT IN STATE-WIDE POLL

Nine Nebraska Colleges In Vote on Military Preparedness.

STAND AGAINST DRILL

Majority Asks Abolition of Compulsory Military Training.

Final results of the student poll taken among representative students in colleges in Nebraska indicated a strong trend toward disarmament. Counts were received from nine colleges in Nebraska which attended the student disarmament conference held on this campus in November.

The question of compulsory military training in colleges in Nebraska was brought before the students in the poll. Two hundred thirteen of a group of two hundred seventy-six did not favor compelling students in college to take military science. Fifty-nine were definitely in favor of compulsory training.

Show Division.

When asked if they believed that military training should completely be dropped from the college curriculum, the students were about equally divided and many believed that students who desired to study the science, should be permitted to do so. One hundred twenty-three would definitely drop military science from college curriculums, while one hundred forty Nebraska students voted to offer courses to those students who wished to register for them.

One question which was asked the participants was "If all nations join in similar reductions in military and naval establishments intended for use against each other, how much disarmament would you favor?" Four alternatives were given in answering this question, no disarmament, twenty-five percent, fifty percent or total disarmament. The results indicated strongly that those questioned, favored total disarmament. Ninety-five from two hundred seventy students held the belief that total disarmament was the best policy. Twenty wanted no disarmament. Twenty-one of the group sought twenty-five percent reduction of military and naval establishments, while the remainder, a group of seventy-six, pled for a seventy-five percent reduction.

Differ in Opinions.

"Do you favor the American delegation to the general disarmament conference taken the initiative in calling upon all nations to join in reducing armaments?" was the next question asked Nebraska students. There was some difference of opinion on this point. One hundred nine firmly believed that America should demand total disarmament. Fifty-seven of the group wanted only seventy-five percent reduction.

Disarmament Theme of Student Parley

Jane Robertson Reports on Buffalo Meeting to Vespers Group.

Disarmament was the main theme in the discussion at the eleventh convention of student volunteers held during the Christmas holidays in Buffalo, Jane Robertson said in her review of the convention at Vespers services yesterday afternoon.

Miss Robertson, with Dorothy Wiebusch and Delores Deadman were representatives at the meeting from the University of Nebraska. Both Miss Wiebusch and Miss Deadman supplemented Miss Robertson's review of the proceedings, giving resumes of speeches by Kirby Page, Dr. Kru, Miss Ziegler and various other world authorities.

Music by the Vespers choir under the direction of Dorothy Jensen completed the services.

DR. WHITE ATTENDS DEBATE CONFERENCE

President of Prep Forensic League Aids in Picking 1932 Topic.

MEET IN KANSAS CITY

"Taxation," "Auto Insurance," and "Advertising" were the final three topics selected from a list of over 100 topics, by an interstate committee which met Jan. 16 in Kansas City to determine possible high school debate topics for 1932-33, according to Dr. H. A. White, university debate coach.

Dr. White, president of the Nebraska high school debating league, served on the committee as a Nebraska delegate. The committee was composed of delegates from the various states affiliated with the co-operative debating movement.

These three topics will be taken up by each state and voted on for ultimate choice, according to Dr. White. Nebraska will vote on these questions after the tournament for this year which is scheduled for April 14, 15, and 16.

"Recognition of Russia" and "Athletics" were among the last five topics until a final vote eliminated these because they were considered to be "subject to public prejudice" and "too much discussion already," Dr. White stated.

After one or more questions are chosen by the states who wish to join in the co-operative movement, a handbook will be prepared for use in all high schools that debate. The official wording of any questions adopted will be made by a committee, of which Professor White is at present a member.

Blue Shirts Give Yellow Jackets Fair Share of Positions.

By THE OBSERVER.

With the close of the first semester the final words of another chapter have been written to the political history of this institution. It is, beyond question, one of the most lifeless sections in the tome of faction politics.

Fraternal alignments on the Blue Shirt and Yellow Jacket factions are unchanged. Contrary to experiences in the past there has not even been a suggestion of dissatisfaction on the part of groups affiliated with either side.

Women Refuse to Organize.

Each year the fraternal factions express a hope that sororities organize into party groups. As usual this year has evidenced not the slightest sorority tendency in that direction.

Some manner of a change of faction opinion was seen at first semester elections when the Yellow Jackets and Barbs refused to file a slate of candidates. Their contention was that the office of class president was deserving of no consideration since it carried with it no responsibilities, no activities. It was further indicated that these groups would attempt to secure removal of these offices thru action within the Student council. The agitation, however, died quietly before it ever reached the council.

AU REVOIR.

With this issue The Daily Nebraskan suspends publication until next semester. News editors will cover up typewriters for the last time, managing editors will tear their hair no more, and the editor will no longer fear to open his mail. Only one news event of importance will fill the eye of all students for the next two weeks. Final examinations are at hand and everything else fades into insignificance before them.

To news editors who have so patiently aided and abetted the managing editors in their pursuit of the news and to reporters who have so painstakingly followed up all manner of tips on the trail of stories, the managing editors tender their deepest thanks. To columnists, sports writer, and society editor we offer many thanks. To the managing editor's desk we say adieu. And to the reading public we say farewell.

THE MANAGING EDITORS.

Will Post Notice for Publications Meeting

Applicants for staff positions on the Daily Nebraskan and the Awgwan are requested to watch for notice of the meeting of the Publication Board, which notices will be posted in the publication's offices and on the bulletin board of the School of Journalism. Candidates are requested to be available, whenever their schedules permit for the meeting of the board.

MANY STUDENTS GET HEALTH TREATMENTS

Figures From University Medical Service Are Released.

8,700 CASES TREATED

Figures just released from the student health office reveal that over 8,700 treatments were given students by the university health staff plus a total of 188 patients cared for in the infirmary during the past fiscal year.

That men students use the health office much more frequently than do women is indicated by the fact that 5,433 of those bringing their ailments in for inspection were men while 3,352 coeds took advantage of the health facilities offered by the university.

According to Dr. R. A. Lyman, dean of pharmacy college and head of the student health service this situation has prevailed during the last eleven years.

Thirty-one types of ailments received treatment at the infirmary this last year with infections topping the list with 36 cases reported. Close behind came the ever-popular colds with 31 and influenza with 29. Mumps again registered heavily with 15 students afflicted temporarily with this mild disease.

Only one typhoid case was reported, but scarlet fever made up for it with four students taken care of at the infirmary. No

Military Ball Seen to Be Outstanding Fete of Season.

With the major portion of the formal season gone at the close of the first semester few major social activities remain on the campus schedule. The past semester witnessed a constant round of social events, formal and informal.

The most outstanding of the parties perhaps was the Military Ball which opened the formal season on campus Dec. 4. The affair was given under the auspices of the military department in the coliseum where Jean Rathburn of Lincoln, Delta Gamma, was presented as honorary colonel. General John J. Ferhing was the honored guest of the evening, when nearly three thousand persons gathered to watch the traditional procedure.

Earlier than their custom the Kosmet Klub gave their annual morning revue Nov. 7 at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Miss Willa McHenry, Kappa Alpha Theta, who was elected by the male vote of the school as Nebraska sweetheart, was presented that morning before King Kosmet and his court. A relay of skits were presented by various fraternities and sororities on campus. Ray Ramsey presided as master of ceremonies at the affair, and awarded the trophy for the best skit to Kappa Gamma and Delta Upsilon.

Climax Cited.

The climax of the annual Farmer's Formal given Oct. 30 in the Students activities building on the agricultural campus was the presentation of Eleanor Dixon, Chi Omega, of Blair as the queen of the event. Dean Burr revealed her identity when she stepped from between several shocks of corn. A barn motif prevailed in all of the decorations for the event.

The outstanding social event for women on campus was the All-Activities tea given by the major women's organizations on campus Oct. 1 in Ellen Smith hall. The organization participating were the A. W. S. board, Y. W. C. A. cabinet, W. A. A. executive council, League of Women Voters and the Big Sister board. Members of Tassels aided in the various rooms of the hall where all activities were explained to the guests. More than four hundred women attended the event.

Twenty Fraternities Will Be Called on Carpet for Violating Rules.

Immediately following examinations the Interfraternity Council Scholarship committee will send letters to the twenty fraternities who initiated men without proper authority last year. These letters will call for replies stating the nature and defense for each case.

Dean Harper will be present at a meeting of the committee after finals when the letters will be read. The committee will consider the circumstances of each case, and refer recommendations for penalties to the judiciary committee of the Interfraternity council.

This is the first case of violations which has arisen under the new scholarship requirements put in force by the Interfraternity council, a year ago.

JUDGERS WIN SECOND HONORS AT CONTEST

Team Loses Denver Trophy As Kansas Team Takes Third First.

GINGRICH RANKS HIGH

Though no official word has been received at the agricultural college relative to the winnings of livestock exhibited at the western livestock show in Denver by the University of Nebraska, the junior judging team won second place in the collegiate contest.

Prof. M. A. Alexander's stock judging team lost the right to claim permanent possession of the Denver trophy when Kansas won the contest this year. In prior contests both Nebraska and Kansas had won two legs on the trophy and each needed but a win this year to gain permanent possession. Nebraska was second in the contest, Utah third, Wyoming fourth and Colorado fifth.

Laverne Gingrich of Nebraska, however, brought honors to the Cornhusker school when he ranked second in the individual contest. A Kansas man won the high individual honors. Vernon Miller was ninth and Floyd Hedlund tenth.

Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the college of agriculture, is also attending the Denver show and doing some judging work. Today at noon he is the feature speaker on a noon-day luncheon club program. He judged some classes of Hereford cattle in the annual show.

COUNTRYMAN STAFFS TO BE NAMED TODAY

Ag Publication Board Has Major Positions To Fill.

All major offices in the Cornhusker Countryman, official college of agriculture monthly magazine, will be filled this afternoon when the student publication board of the agricultural college meets. Prof. R. P. Crawford is chairman of the board.

The Professor Crawford has given out no information about the number of applicants for the various positions on the circulation, business and editorial staffs, it is thought that the usual number have applied. The board will select an editor, circulation manager, business manager and home economics editor when it convenes this afternoon.

During the past semester George Round, senior in the college of agriculture, has been editor. He was named for the position last spring. Charles Kellogg, business manager, and Fred Siefer, circulation manager, have also completed their terms on the Countryman. Eva Buel has been the home economics editor.

VOEGLER ANNOUNCES CHANGES FOR INTERFRATERNITY POLO MEETS.

Due an error and date complications, the entire fraternity water polo schedule will be revised. A new schedule will be published in a few days, but there will not be any games till after final examinations, according to Rudolfs Voegler.

Every man in order to compete in water polo must have his inter-annual physical examination and swimming permit. Due to the announced postponement of all games till after final exams there will be no reason why all men should not have their swimming permit by the time they play. It is urged that all fraternity managers study up upon the water polo rules.

GRADUATE CLUB LISTS COMMITTEE FOR NEXT SOCIAL

Harry G. Bosenman, president of the graduate club, announces the appointment of the committee for the club's next social affair as follows: Miss Langwin, Miss Ferris and Mr. McQuillan. The committee will set the date and take full charge of the arrangements. Further announcement will be made soon.

The departments of bacteriology, botany, engineering, industry and survey, mathematics, medicine, pharmacy, physics, physiology and zoology are to have charge of the affair.

INNOCENTS GIVE $300 TO BOOST LOAN FACILITIES

Money to Be Administered By University Loan Fund Group.

IS FOR UPPERCLASSMEN

Give Profits on Homecoming Party to Aid Worthy Students.

A $300 addition to the student loan fund by a contribution from the Innocents society, senior men's honorary, was announced yesterday afternoon. The donation will be added to the regular student loan fund and be administered by the loan fund committee.

Desiring a deserving upper-classman male student complete his course, the donation will be known as the "Innocents Loan Fund." The action came following a special meeting of the society Monday evening.

Explaining the contribution, a statement accompanying the gift says the Innocents believe their action is one which will do good, both for present and future students. Members of the society indicated that their successors would be asked to continue the practice in years to come.

Make Formal Statement.

"The Innocents society," says the formal statement, "takes this means of disposing of its surplus from the Homecoming party and other sources of funds in this way it is doing the most for the university and the students who made this party possible."

The fund will be given in loans of not more than $100. Contract for repayment of the loan, according to the donors' specifications, must have been completed by the end of the third year after the borrower's graduation or termination of his university attendance. Interest rates will be 5 percent. Requirements for repayment call for payment of 20 percent by the end of the first year after graduation, or severance of university connections, 30 percent during the second year, and the remaining half during the third year.

The committee in charge of administering the gift is the regular student loan committee, made up of L. E. Gunderson, bursar of the university; Clark E. Mickey, engineering professor, and Roy E. Cochran, chairman, connected with the history department.

The Homecoming party from which most of the $300 donation was accumulated, was held October in the university coliseum. It was heralded as the first all-university affair of its type, and at the time of the fete Innocents expressed the hope that the practice of holding similar parties might be continued in years to come.

Profits from the sale of scarlet frock caps were the only other source of funds going to make up the loan fund donation.

The doctor is touring the United States giving lectures on this same general subject, in an effort to eradicate lepers. Captain Spoerry of the university military department, who has spent several years in studying leprosy, declared that the disease is curable and "every effort is being made to broadcast this fact so that the 'unclean' will hear of it and 'report in' to the mission to 'free themselves of the terrible affliction.'"
