

ACTIVITY LOOMS IN SPORT FIELD THIS WEEK-END

Husker Basketeers in Key Post With K-Aggie Tilt Saturday.

Husker sport activity is widely scattered this week end with four teams going into action, three of them in competition. Occupying the foremost position is basketball, the Big Six affair with Kansas State at the coliseum Saturday night headlining the court program.

Friday night the campus B team meets Nebraska Wesleyan in the second tilt played between the teams this season. It will be played at the coliseum, with game time slated for 8 o'clock. Omaha U's undefeated quintet journeys to Lincoln Saturday night to play the Ag B team in a fray preceding the Nebraska-Kansas State game. It will start at 6:45.

Coach Joe Lehman's inexperienced wrestler pull away from Lincoln this morning for Norman, Okla., where Saturday night they go up against the undefeated Sooner matmen. One change has been made in Lehman's list. Helge replacing Walker in the 135 pound class. Heady is scheduled to display his wares in the 115 pound division. Burnett, 125; Heigle, 135; Green, 145; Shirley, 155; Ackerman, 165; and Adam, heavyweight.

The Nebraska swimming team will open the season Saturday afternoon against Washburn and incidentally dedicate the new swimming pool in the coliseum. Coach Rudy Vogeler hopes that swimming fans will be out in full force Saturday, declaring that 600 spectators can be accommodated in the bleachers. The meet will start at 2:30 p. m.

Coach Henry F. Schulte has planned the first tryouts for the year Saturday afternoon for his conductors. The Drake dual meet at Des Moines has been moved up to Feb. 20, allowing only a short time to prepare for indoor competition. Second of a series of tryouts for the Drake meet are scheduled for the following Saturday.

NEBRASKA MEETS K-AGS SATURDAY IN FIELD HOUSE

Two Indiana boys, one a former All American high school star are listed among Coach Browne's most promising frosh basket candidates this season. "Chuck" Williams, Warsaw, Ind. received his high rating while playing for St. John's military academy quintet two years ago in the national high school basketball meet at Chicago. Williams came thru with a forward position on Stagg's first all-tournament selection, altho his team was eliminated in the semi-finals.

The second Hoosier player wearing Husker freshman togs is Bill Funky of Gary, Funkey, a six footer won a guard position on the third All-Indiana prep team last year. And remember, please, that basketball occupies about the same place in the Hoosier sport realm that football does in Nebraska.

RAY CASFORD is back in school after a semester's absence with the announcement that he is out for the track team. In case some are inclined to emit a few horse laughs, it would be well to recall that Casford was a brilliant performer in high school track circles with Tecumseh high. Ray stepped the 880 in 2:4 in the state high school meet in Lincoln four years ago to beat out Stedman of Crete in a great race.

KANSAS already bright track prospects are further enhanced with the announcement Thursday that Melvin Thornhill, crack discus thrower has registered and will be eligible for competition this semester. Thornhill, who holds the Jayhawk discus record of 155 feet 11 inches will have plenty of help in the weight department from Frank "Pete" Bauch, brother of the former grid star.

Schulte's Huskers, winners of the indoor crown the past two years have been forced to yield to Kansas in the outdoor meets, and Coach Hamilton is in the field again, with such stars as Gridley, Coffman, and Klaner.

THREE more Cornhusker athletes will see competition in their favorite sport from the sidelines. They include Art Hoag, one of the most likely tennis prospects enrolled at Nebraska for several years, Howard Schmitt, sophomore tackle, and Tom Jurekovic, outstanding end on the freshman squad.

THE Sooner wrestling team has compiled a fancy record to date this season. The Oklahoma grapplers in six matches have won 47 of 48 bouts. That is the team Coach Lehman's Nebraska matmen must face tomorrow night.

A. M. Candy, Elec. '09, E. E. '28, of Westinghouse Elec. and Mfg. Co., spoke on "An Improved A-C Arc Welder."

The mid-winter convention was the outstanding electro-technical meeting of the year.

NEBRASKA MEETS K-AGS SATURDAY IN FIELD HOUSE

Cornhusker Lineup Will Be Picked from List of Six Men.

Coach Black yesterday announced a tentative lineup for Saturday's game with Kansas State at the coliseum. The starting quint will be picked from a list including Roswell, Lunney, Mason, Koster, Henrion and Davison.

The team in general is in much better shape than was the case a week ago, according to Black, and the boys are hopeful of a Cornhusker victory. The comeback in the final period against Iowa State indicated that the Huskers are in good physical condition and it is only a question of maintaining the pace thruout the entire game, said Black.

Kansas State is in third place in the Big Six race with a percentage of 90 percent. They have won 3 and lost 2 of their conference games. Skradski, Boyd, and Auker all of Kansas State are among the ten leading scorers in the conference at the present time.

The Ag college B team will play a preliminary game preceding the Nebraska-Wildcat game with the unbeaten Omaha U quintet. The probable starting lineup for the B's will find Walker and LeDoigt at the forwards, Hartley at center, and Snipes and Beattie at the guards.

Tonight the varsity B aggregation meets Coach Waldorf's Wesleyan team at the coliseum in a return engagement. Levison, Yordy, Bauer, Singer, and Chase will start against the Methodists.

HAYSEED AND HAYWIRE

By GEORGE ROUND

Evidently the two leading fraternities on the college of agriculture campus have buried the hatchet and not in each other's neck either. Just the other evening the fraternities exchanged dinner to start the ball rolling toward eliminating old time antagonism.

Old time members of both organizations probably will not be able to understand the mutual understanding of both fraternities. In past years the groups have fought each other to a standstill and rivalry has been exceptionally keen.

Try this on your radio. Prof. M. H. Swenk of the college of agriculture says there is little danger of grasshopper eggs being killed by direct action of low temperatures if they are down two inches or more in the soil.

The girls are: Marguerite Hagerman, Niobrara; Grace Baldwin, Omaha; Ona Knott, Sharpsburg, Iowa; Retha Miller, Beaver Crossing; Ruth Jenkins, Lincoln; Evelyn Krotz, Odell.

Delphin Nash, premier potato salesman on the college of agriculture campus, maintains that he will sell more than 30 cars of "spuds" this year. Despite poor business conditions Nash is selling the potatoes at a small profit and they are going as fast as ever.

And now "Ramona" is once more on the college campus. This time she put in her appearance in the form of a Brahma heifer. Cornhusker co-eds probably do not understand what the term means but scientifically it refers to a breed of cattle of the female order.

Originally the Brahmas were the sacred cattle of India but later were imported to this country for cross breeding purposes. "Ramona" was purchased in Denver a few weeks ago to replace "Moonshine," Scotland steer, upon the Ag campus. Like other cattle of the same breed, Ramona has the characteristic large ears, a hump on the shoulder and a thick hide.

Financial worries are forcing Chris Mathis, varsity football performer, to the sidelines for the coming semester. He is determined to be back next fall though when Coach Bible makes his first call for football material.

But then Charley Talbot, member of the ZIP basketball team that recently copped high honors in the professional tournament, believes the dental team can give any fraternity quintet on the campus a close battle. Evidently the teeth jerkers were the class of the league.

Men students on the college of agriculture campus believe the Block and Bridle club is making a mistake in not sponsoring a coed showmanship contest this year in connection with the annual Junior Ki-Sar-Ben show. Lack of interest on the part of the girls is said to have been the reason why the club is not having the feature this year.

Several prominent women students on the campus took part in the contest last year.

Husker Sports Events Listed for Week End FRIDAY.

Campus B team vs. Wesleyan at 8:00, coliseum.

SATURDAY. Nebraska vs. Washburn swimming, at 2:30, coliseum pool.

Track tryouts for Drake dual meet at 2:30, stadium.

Ag B team vs. Omaha U at 6:45, coliseum.

Nebraska vs. Kansas State at 8:00, coliseum.

THE farm operator's short course basketball team at the college of agriculture has won seven games out of eight played this year, according to Coach Otto Dillon. It is the second year the farm boys at the college for a four-month course have had a winning quintet.

Teams defeated by the farm operators include Western States Grocery twice, Grace M. E., St. Paul M. E., Miller & Paine, Raymond town team and Greenwood town team. The Warren M. E. team is the only one to defeat them this year.

George Heumann, former Omaha Benson high school player, has been blazing the way for the Dillon boys in their games. He is the high point man. Paul Jones of Salem is second high scorer. Other regulars include Corwin Shipherd, Nora; Harold Oppinger, Columbus, Iowa.

Coach Dillon announced this morning that the farm boys will play at least ten more games this season. Most of the remaining games are scheduled with town teams in the Lincoln territory.

"Missions and World Peace," a report of a round table discussion with Kirby Page, editor and pacifist, will be given Sunday noon at the First Baptist university class, 14th and K streets. Albert King, Denver, a member of the class who attended the student volunteer convention at Buffalo, N. Y., during the Christmas recess, will give the report.

The evening young people's service at 6:30 will hear the favorite quotations, poems, and verses of the members.

All students are invited to attend these meetings.

POLICE BALL WILL BE HELD IN THE COLISEUM

The university coliseum has been chosen for the Annual Police Association ball to be held March 1, according to campus policeman, Regler. Tickets are available at $1 per couple. The ball will be open to the public. Eddie Jungbluth and his orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion.

OKLAHOMA READY FOR NEBRASKA MAT SQUAD

Sooners Confident of Win Over Cornhuskers in Match Saturday.

NORMAN, Feb. 4.—Sobered at Stillwater last Friday night by sight of the Oklahoma Aggie wrestling team trouncing both the strong Southwestern and Central College Teachers in a doubleheader match, the all victorious Sooner wrestling team got down to work today for its Big Six match here Friday night against Nebraska.

"Ed Gallagher was right when he said his Aggies of 1932 were the strongest team he'd ever developed," declared Paul V. Keen, the Sooner coach, "and I'll go him one further by predicting that this year he has at least one man in every class who will win six out of eight bouts this season."

Keen of eight bouts this season. Keen had loaded four Sooner grapplers, Hardie Lewis, Warren Gunter, Ernest Childers and Curtis Turner, into his car and took them to Stillwater to see the Aggies go. "And how they went," was one Sooner's succinct remark.

However before facing the Aggies at Stillwater Feb. 27 the Sooners must first dispose of two Big Six conference foes in matches at Norman, Nebraska here Saturday night and Coach Buel Patterson's undefeated Kansas Aggies here Feb. 12. The latter match will probably determine the Big Six championship for 1932 since Kansas State has already defeated Iowa State at Manhattan, 16 to 13.

Not much is known here of Nebraska's prowess this season. Last year at Lincoln the Oklahoma wrestlers won five falls from Nebraska and won the match quite comfortably, 28 to 6. Coach John Kellogg's Cornhuskers scored two victories, Shirley, 135 pounder, beating Turner, Oklahoma, by time advantage of 2:57 and Adams, 175 pounder, decisioning Hasbrook, Oklahoma, by 1:21, both sensational bouts in which the Nebraska men acquitted themselves well.

Unless the Huskers have made an unprecedented improvement this year, they probably cannot hope to stop the Sooners in the Fieldhouse here Saturday night, it is believed.
