SCHRAMM HOLDS STUDENTS MUST HELP INNOCENTS

Urges Abolition of Factions For Closer Cooperation In Activities.

CONDITIONS ARE NOT BAD Organizations Are Making Efforts to Do Their Part for Prom.

Expressing the belief that the advocated abolition of political parties at the University of Nebraska cannot be accomplished without the unanimous and voluntary action of the student body as a whole, Prof. E. F. Schramm, faculty advisor to the Interfraternity council, recommends that the student organizations continue to cooperate with the innocents society in seeking a solution to the activity situation at the university.

The interview with Professor Schramm came as a result of the activities conference that was held by the innocents society for all presidents of campus organizations last week where Professor Schramm urged abolition of factions. Plans are being formulated to re-vivify interest in campus activities and to insure a closer cooperation among the organizations.

"The reason for my advocating the abolition of political factions at the university is to bring about a closer cooperation in all student enterprises and activities. When the various organizations are fighting each other politically there can be no cooperation, to eliminate the parties would result in the selection of a man entirely on his own merits and capability," was the contention of Professor Schramm.

Present conditions are not so bad as they have been in the past, according to the professor, "right now there seems to be a better spirit of cooperation than has been evidenced in the past. Every organization on the campus seems to be making an effort to do its part for the Junior-Senior prom because

NEBRASKA BLUE PRINT RELEASED WEDNESDAY

Engineers' Magazine Prints Story About Lincoln's Power Company.

The February number of the Nebraska Blue Print, engineers' magazine, was released Wednesday. Lead article in this issue is an illustrated account of Lincoln's new central station, which discusses in detail the operation of the new K street station of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company. The story brings to light the fact that this plant, although not the largest, is one of the most modern and best equipped stations in the United States. The story is the work of William J. Dann.

Robert Rait writes about the "George Washington Memorial Bridge." This bridge, spanning the Hudson river, is the longest suspension bridge in the world. "Engineering Through the Ages" by Cash G. Stall is a brief history enumerating some of the ancient engineering achievements that have helped develop our present civilization. The story bears out that engineering is probably the oldest of our modern day professions. John H. Hutchings has a timely article, "Washington, Too, Was an Engineer." The article reveals that for a period of over five years Washington was exclusively a surveyor and his interest and work in practical engineering lasted through his eventful life.

Dean O. J. Ferguson discusses the requisites of an engineering mind and a column entitled "The Sledge, Jr." is a comic takeoff on the doings of students in the engineering college.

Other material in this issue includes the editorial comment and a number of shorter stories dealing with a wide variety of subjects.

DEBATERS MEET PERU

Practice Debate Held Tuesday on 'Government Control of Industry.'

Debating on Government Control of Industry, a Nebraska team upheld the affirmative against a team from Peru Normal college in University hall Tuesday.

This was the first of a series of practice debates preceding the regular semester schedule. Nebraska was represented by Woodrow Magee and L. Byron Cherry and Peru by Raymond Rawley and Allison Clineberg.

A second debate will be held in Andrews hall, room 126, on Thursday evening. Nebraska will again have the affirmative side. On Tuesday of next week the team will go to Hastings for an informal contest with Hastings college. Other similar debates will be held later.

The regular debating season will open March 10, when a negative team will debate with the University of Kansas at Lawrence. The team will encounter Kansas State at Manhattan on the following night.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM TICKETS GO ON SALE

Ducats to Interfraternity Council Delegates Given at Special Meet.

Ticket sales for the Junior-Senior Prom, closing event of the formal season, to be held in the university coliseum on Saturday, March 5, will open this morning. Members of the Interfraternity council and Barb council will handle the tickets.

Pasteboards were checked out to members of the Interfraternity council at a special meeting of that body last night. They will also be on sale at Long's and the Co-op book store.

Price of the tickets has been cut to $1.50, a reduction under that of the other major parties of the year. The sale will be pushed in the short time left before the prom, according to Howard Allaway, and Jane Robertson, members of the prom committee in charge of tickets.

A large student attendance is expected at the prom, according to Bill Devereaux, co-chairman of the committee, because of the tradition of the affair and the objective behind the prom this year. Proceeds from the event will go to aid the drouth-stricken areas in northern Nebraska.

Plans Almost Ready. Initial plans for the prom have practically been completed, according to Devereaux. Two orchestras have been booked for the dance—Eddie Jungbluth's and Leo

MORRILL HALL'S NEW SLAB SHOWS EXTINCT ANIMAL

The Oredon slab has just recently been placed in the case for display of fossils from Big Badlands, known in the world of geology as the White River Badlands. The animal that is the subject of the slab is an extinct animal related to hog and deer. It is named by Hayden a "ruminating pig." The skeletons are embedded in a pale brown sandstone. The stone has been chiseled away with care so as to expose the bones. The skeletons represent an adult and a nearly mature young animal.

The specimens are perfect from the tips of their feet to their tails, especially the adult animal. The young beast is lying against the adult, and the latter has its forefeet stretched out ahead of it in a supplicating position.

This Oredon is a member of

New Pansy Man Will Be Introduced At Junior Ak-Sar-Ben Saturday Night

Leading Sweet Nebraska Sweetheart

By GEORGE ROUND.

Strike up the band, here comes the Pansy Man! Hipp Hooray!

Such will be the reception the Pansy Man will receive when he steps into the arena in the judging pavilion Saturday night to show Nebraska Sweetheart in the annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben professional showmanship contest.

Like the recent all-popular election supposedly held by the Mortar Board, the Block and Bridle club has arranged a novel stunt in presenting the Pansy Man Saturday evening. He won't jump out of a miniature corn stalk either. And best of all he will be showing the pride of them all, Nebraska Sweetheart.

The Block and Bridle club is following in the footsteps of the Mortar Board in declining to name the man who will be hailed as the king of all-time when he appears in the arena showing that gallant queen of them all.

But the Pansy Man isn't going to be the only man in the showmanship contest. He will have competitors that are competitors. The Block and Bridle club has arranged for the showing of three other well known animals, besides Nebraska Sweetheart.

INSTRUCTORS ARE SUSPENDED UNTIL NEXT SEPTEMBER

Wimberly and Eliason Will Leave Following Liquor Raid in Coliseum.

REGENTS MAKE DECISION Hear Testimony of Officers And Faculty in Special Meeting Tuesday.

Dr. L. C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University of Nebraska, and N. E. Eliason, instructor in the same department, have been suspended until Sept. 1, 1932, for their connection with a liquor raid on the university coliseum about ten days ago, according to an announcement made Wednesday noon by Chancellor E. A. Burnett.

Members of the board of regents heard testimony of raiding officers and of the two faculty members at a special meeting held in Lincoln Tuesday. The decision to suspend the two followed this hearing. Their classroom work will be taken over by other members of their department.

The all-university party, headed by the Barb Council, which had closed before the raid took place, was in no way connected with the raid, according to testimony, and no undergraduate students were in any way involved, according to the chancellor.

Dr. Wimberly, however, will continue his work as editor of the Prairie Schooner, literary magazine partly subsidized by the university. Questioned Wednesday afternoon, he declared that he planned to remain in Lincoln and henceforth devote all his time to the magazine. Mr. Eliason said his plans were indefinite.

Neither commented further on the regents' action other than to deny any connection with the liquor seized in the raid, which resulted in illegal possession charges being filed against Alan Williams, former student arrested with the two faculty members.

Williams will no longer be connected with the Prairie Schooner.

TO HOLD BAER RITES THURSDAY AFTERNOON

All Agricultural Engineering Classes Dismissed for Funeral.

A coroner's jury Wednesday night decided that the death of Professor Baer was caused by an unavoidable accident when he was struck by a car driven by Kenneth G. McCormack, twenty-four, 300 So. 16th, Professor Baer was injured last Monday night at 15th and M and died a few hours after the accident.

All agricultural engineering classes will be dismissed Thursday afternoon for the funeral of Prof. A. A. Baer who was killed Monday evening in an automobile accident. Prof. E. E. Brackett of the department announced Wednesday evening. The funeral is to be held at the Plymouth Congregational church at 2:30 p. m.

Although no other classes at the college of agriculture are being excused for the day, Dean Burr announced that students wishing to go to the funeral, other than those having agricultural engineering subjects, would be granted an excuse from his office. Faculty members who care to go to the funeral can also arrange to attend, he said.

Ramsay Gives Address At Meeting of Y Club

Ray Ramsay, alumni secretary of the University of Nebraska, was the principal speaker at the annual Washington party of the Y Men's club held at the Cornhusker hotel Tuesday night. About fifty attended the affair which also featured music by a mixed quartet from the university school of music.

Mr. Ramsay is a member of the Y Men's club and is a prominent Lincoln florist.

Showing the Arkansas pig will probably be one of the feature entertainments of the evening's performance which includes contests in all classes of livestock for students. Like all Ozark born pigs, Pedro is wild and is apt to get jealous of Nebraska Sweetheart.

Mr. Loin Cloth himself is scheduled to parade Gandhi's Boveda in the professional class. Mr. Cloth is known on the campus as one of the premier showmen of all times and will attempt to show a Brahma heifer, "Ramona," in the contest. Like all Brahma cattle imported from India, Ramona is inclined to be a bit wild and disrespectful of other animals' rights. To say the least she is jealous of Pedro and before the evening's performance is over the spectators are apt to witness a real old-fashioned bull fight.

But then Holland's Delivery in the form of another animal will also be in the competition. He is to be shown Oscar Zilch himself.

Killed in Crash.

Leo Skalowsky, Arts and Science junior of Norfolk, was killed Wednesday night when the car in which he was returning from Omaha with Robert Wasserman, Cheyenne, Wyo., struck a parked truck east of Ashland. Wasserman was brought to Lincoln by Doctor Tacker following the accident. Both then returned to Ashland. Skalowsky is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Skalowsky, and a brother Raymond, all of Norfolk.

The two were returning from Omaha where their fraternity reported last night, they had gone Wednesday afternoon. The car was driven into the rear end of the truck, parked near the edge of the pavement. Wasserman, owner and driver of the car in which Skalowsky was riding, said the truck had no lights.

Fred Kilgore, employed as truck driver by E. J. Kiddie, Ashland implement dealer, said the truck had run out of gas and he had left it while going to Ashland to get more. He declared the lights on the truck were turned on when he left it.

Wasserman, who received cuts about the nose and face, was attended at Ashland by Dr. J. M. Tacker, Skalowsky and Wasserman, also a student in the College of Arts and Sciences, were both members of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

Skalowsky was prominent in student activities, being a member of Corn Cobs and other extra-curricular organizations. He had taken part in Kosmet Klub's Thanksgiving morning show and had entertained over radio station KFAB as pianist.

The morning session was spent in registration and the opening of the program. H. C. Schlueter, president of the Lincoln Engineers club, presided at the morning session. The program included talks by O. J. Ferguson, dean of the college of engineering; E. A. Burnett, chancellor of the University of Nebraska; John Hoge, C. D. Porter, John R. Rippey and Charles D. Ammon.

Caster Presides.

Mark T. Caster presided at the luncheon meeting. L. E. Ray, president of the Nebraska chapter Civil Contractors, presided at the afternoon session. Due to a shift in the program, Dr. Laurance R. Plank, Unitarian church of Omaha, was the first speaker. He pictured the whole world as an engineering problem, and said that the paramount issue is to build up the morale of the American people.

"Engineering is a wonderful profession," declared Dr. Plank.
