

Conference Sports Editors Select All Big Six Cage Teams

KANSAS, MISSOURI GET TWO PLACES

Johnny Cooper, Missouri, and Ted O'Leary, Kansas, Are Unanimous Choices at Forward; Auker, K-Aggie, Collings, Mizzou, at Guard.

BILL JOHNSON OF KANSAS PICKED FOR CENTER

Beck, Skradski, Heitman, Page and Grady Chosen for Second Team; Lean Year for Great Players Among Big Six Basketball Clubs.

BY JOE MILLER.
Daily Nebraskan Sports Editor.

Picking an "all" team is like sitting down on a buzz saw. It's treading on dangerous ground. The reader may and probably will not agree with all the nominees. This selection, by the way, represents a composite poll of opinion among sports editors of Big Six student newspapers.

Johnny Cooper, Missouri, and Ted O'Leary, Kansas, are unanimous choices for the forward posts. Cooper was stopped but once this season, when he was held to three points by Iowa State. He possesses an unorthodox shot, batting the ball in after leaving his feet, but he proved a nightmare to opposing guards. The Tiger sophomore is fast, a good dribbler and plays a tight defensive game.

Ted O'Leary, Jayhawk captain, is picked for the other forward position because of his all-around ability. He is a consistent player, has a good eye for the basket, and is an excellent leader. The K. U. star tied Cooper in the race for individual scoring honors.

Johnson Gets Nod.

Johnson of Kansas received the nod over Heitman of Iowa State for the center job. Johnson played carelessly the first part of the season, to later become along with O'Leary, one of Coach Allen's most dependable cagers. He plays a flashy floor game, gets a majority of the tips at center, and up to Saturday night's game with Oklahoma ranked third in scoring with 87 points.

Collings, Missouri, and Auker, Kansas State, were unanimous selections at guard. Collings is a good though not great guard. He is fast, a clever dribbler, and plays a steady defensive game. Auker, giant guard, is chosen primarily because of his shotmaking ability and experience. The writer's personal opinion is that Mason, Nebraska guard, is as good as Auker, although he received no votes from other student scribes.

Beck Outstanding.

For the second team, Beck, Oklahoma, and Skradski, Kansas State, are placed at the forwards. Heitman, Iowa State, center, and Page, Kansas, and Grady, Oklahoma, guards. It may seem unjust to keep Andy Beck off of the first team, but with Cooper tying O'Leary for high point honors, there was little room for the Sooner star.

Skradski is selected as a forward over Roadcap because he is a more consistent player. He ranked sixth among Big Six scorers. Heitman wins the pivot position hands down. Page, Kansas guard, is a fine defensive player, and can be counted on for his share of points. Grady, Oklahoma, displayed ability in stopping some of the conference scoring threats, but was weak offensively.

None of the men on these teams can be classed as great basketball players. All in all, it was a lean year in this respect. Oklahoma played the best game on Nebraska's floor this season, the rest of the schools playing mediocre ball when in Lincoln.

College football, basketball and boxing are doing students irreparable damage physically said Dr. Philip H. Krauescher, Chicago surgeon at the American College of Surgeons convention recently. Youth must slow down, he declared, if it expects to live to a ripe old age.

CHIEF OF POLICE ANDERSON DECLARES YOUTH ON UPWARD TREND; FRATERNITY, SORORITY HOUSES NOT TO BE RAIDED.

(Continued from Page 1) that human nature is just that way. "I do not believe that our modern youth are as irresponsible as some of our more radical citizens try to make us believe," he continued. "They are certainly more frank in their assertions, but I have watched their actions as a member of the Lincoln police force for the last fourteen years, and my conclusion is that they, like many other things, are the victims of needless publicity, and criticism on the part of those ignorant of the actual situations. Even if they are harassed by the general public the truth is eventually exposed and becomes understood by their parents, and those who have accused them wrongly.
