PLAYERS PRODUCTION IS PRAISED BY CRITIC

(Continued from Page 1) Fragile she was, she knew no fear of this sinister personage. Miss Kissinger was particularly well cast in this role. She has a simple charm that is extremely expressive and leaves a feeling that she dwells in an ethereal atmosphere removed from that in which common mortals exist.

Miss Howell played the part of the princess, Grazia's mother, with becoming grace. The art of expressing powerful emotions with the simplest of inflections and gestures, made her work especially gratifying. Mr. Diers did an impressive job in the part of the terror-stricken head of the household who tried to withhold the awful secret of his guest's identity from those dear to him.

Some comedy relief from the strain of the play was the work of Mr. Lerner as the aged Baron Cesarea, who was really ambitious and Mr. di Natale played well as the lover of Grazia, discarded in favor of the impressive and all powerful figure of death.

The next play to be offered by the University Players will be "Three Sons West," the work of Herbert A. Yenne, a member of the dramatic department staff. With it the players will close their season.

To Inspect Exhibits. Following lunch the convention delegates will inspect the exhibits until 2 o'clock when Andrew Olson, will report on the second annual convention of the American Association of Water Well Drillers at Urbana, Ill., March 16 to 20, 1931. Mr. Olson is vice president of the local association.

Business will come up for discussion at 2:15 and at 5 o'clock those in attendance will be given an opportunity to ask questions on problems of members and the progress of the association. The concluding number on the program is the banquet at the Lincoln hotel at 6:30 Friday evening. This is to be given by the manufacturers and jobbers of well supplies.

Dean G. E. Condra, director of the Conservation and Survey division is in general charge of the short course and convention and his office in Nebraska hall will be headquarters of the meetings.

MISS HINKLEY SPEAKER AT VESPERS TUESDAY

Talks on Women's Place in Present Situation in China.

Miss Lella Hinkley, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., in Peiping, China, was the principal speaker at vespers services Tuesday afternoon at Ellen Smith hall. Her subject dealt with women's place in the present situation in China; how the women of the past were bound by social, economic, and legal restrictions, and how the modern women were adapting themselves to the present crisis. "Chinese women," said Miss Hinkley, "have been emancipated in the eyes of the law. They now have property rights, and also have the privileges of obtaining a divorce. The custom of the husband taking concubines into the home is frowned upon by the modern Chinese wife, who is striving for a more idealistic marital relationship."

"Women's activities are increasing every day," continued Miss Hinkley, "and it is gratifying to observe the enthusiasm with which these women, suppressed for so many years, grasp every opportunity that is offered to them. 'The Y. W. C. A.," she continued, "is the most thrilling organization in China, because it is the only one which is working for and with the women. There are few if any charitable organizations in China, and consequently, all relief problems are brought to our threshold, to be solved."

In telling of the great work that has been done by the foreign branch of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Hinkley described the many classes in adult education, which are offered to women who up to this time had no knowledge of reading and writing. In three months they can learn to read and write over 3,000 characters. Miss Hinkley continued to relate that during the flood tragedy last summer, $10,000 was raised by Chinese women for the relief of their suffering fellow men. She also commented upon the surprising broad minded attitude which these women have displayed toward the Japanese since the Chinese-Japanese war has been in progress.

Preceding Miss Hinkley's speech Julia Simanek, who presided over the meeting, gave a short history of Grace Coppock, who was the first national secretary of the Y. W. C. A., in China. She then introduced the candidates for Y. W. C. A. officers. The Y. W. C. A. election will take place on Thursday, March 3, from 9 to 5 o'clock.

LAW, ENGINEERS TO CONFER ABOUT 'BOWLER' STATUS

(Continued from Page 1) express. It is a fair solution for both groups. I am sure that the plans of the joint committee will be acceptable to both groups of students," was the added opinion of the dean of the Engineering college. The joint committee met at the Central hotel yesterday noon and had another meeting Tuesday evening to settle the plans for the convocation. The following bulletin was issued by the committee yesterday afternoon.

Make Resolution.

The joint Engineer-Law committee, having met for the purpose of arranging details of a convocation, to be held for the purpose of deciding which college has the better claim to the Brown Derby, have arranged and agreed as follows:

1. That, the convocation shall be in the nature of an amiable and friendly get-together, a mixer for the purpose stated.

2. That, this convocation shall be held in the Cornhusker Hotel Ball room, at 8 p. m., March 3, 1932.

3. That, only engineer and law students shall be permitted to attend, except such members of the press as may be admitted upon a professional basis. Further, all persons shall be required to show their identification cards identifying them as a law or engineer or else have some known law or engineer to vouch for them.

4. That, all students from the law and engineering colleges are urged to attend.

5. That, a person has been agreed upon to act as custodian of the hat and to act as judge and master of ceremonies at this convocation, but it is agreed that his identity shall remain undisclosed until the time of such meeting.

6. That, the judge shall base his opinion upon the substantive merit of the respective claims, and not upon any technical theories of ownership, known only to the legal profession.

7. That, the doors to the ball room of the Cornhusker hotel shall be open at 7:45 p. m. and the meeting will be called to order at 8:05 sharp.

8. That, the costs of the affair having been arranged there will be no charge for admission to the ball room.

The joint committee is composed of the following members: Willard J. Dann, Gerald F. Briggs, Lyle W. Mabbott, engineering college; Glenn McKinney, Thomas Dowd and Robert Young, law college. Engineers Challenge. Students of the engineering college issued a challenge to the law school Monday night and formulated a resolution that the matter of contention be placed in the hands of a neutral party on or before March 3.

University Has No Part in Movement To Establish International Language

The University of Nebraska has not, as yet, entered into the movement for the establishment of an international language. Interest is reviving in many colleges throughout the country in Esperanto, a language designed to combine all languages into a simple and easily spoken tongue.

Esperanto is a language that is understood by thousands of people all over the world and in which more than 100 periodicals and 10,000 books are available.

"There has been no attempt at an Esperantist organization at the University of Nebraska for many years," stated Miss Conklin, head of the Romance language department. "Years ago, it must have been before 1900, Dr. Johnson, then an instructor here at the university, organized such a club. How successful it was I do not recall. Since he left Nebraska there has been no further attempt with which I am acquainted.

"Esperanto," continued Miss Conklin, "is only one of many international languages that have been tried. It, however, has seemed to be the most successful of all. It is a language which contains words from the many tongues of the world, but it is its own inflections. It is easily learned by anyone who is at all acquainted with the principal tongues of the present time."

Texas Offers Course.

The University of Texas is this year offering a non-credit course in Esperanto. Classes meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings, and have a regular attendance of about eighty students. Besides the two courses, the University of Texas also offers an extension course. Professor Kennigott, German instructor, has charge of the instruction of Esperanto. Not long ago he received an order from Hollywood for 100 Esperanto texts.

Most of the words are easy to remember because of their similarity to English, and as the derivations are largely Latin, resemblances are seen with other languages. Esperanto has been called the I. A. L.—the international auxiliary language, and is designed to supplement, not supplant, the natural languages of the various countries of the world.

Ten thousand Esperantists are united in a universal society which Professor Kennigott says is "better organized than any organization I know of except the United States post office."

The movement is strong in Japan and Europe is far ahead of the United States in the adoption of Esperanto. Such familiar universities as those of Liverpool, Geneva and Cambridge have recently begun offering courses in it, but few American colleges give credit courses, although progress is discernible.

University of Nebraska. The old familiar scenes and faces are cheering. I hope you are having success in your efforts this year and although these are only the sentiments of one person I hope you will be able to make students realize that the true worth of the Cornhusker is not to be measured in dollars and cents.

Sale of the Cornhusker will continue from the stand in Social Sciences auditorium and also at the Cornhusker office.

Expect Large Convocation. Controversy over the derby after its disappearance from the law college dean's office was suspended until after final examinations. It was feared at one time that hostilities might break out between the two schools as happened a number of years ago when the lawyers wrecked the engineers' dirigible and the engineers retaliated by egging the Phi Alpha Delta, honorary legal fraternity house.

A large proportion of the student body of both schools is expected to turn out for the convocation. Material for debate and the case of each college is being prepared by the committee of each school.

Additional plans are being formulated and an announcement as to the program will be made today, according to Glenn McKinney, president of the senior law class.

They all bespoke of compliments for the yearbook and the newest group of alumni was generous in its praise of the value of a yearbook. Letter Cited. "It is only since leaving Nebraska that I have come to realize what a school annual means. Often in the evenings I sit down to thumb through my Cornhusker where I see preserved the memories of my classmates and associations at school. The book, as I see it now, is one of my most valued school treasures for to me, it is the
