Tickets to the affair may be purchased for one dollar at Long's or from any member of the Bizad Executive board or Commercial club.

Declaring that he hoped the party would unite the students of the college of business administration with other campus groups, Dean LeRossignol issued the following statement:

"The faculty of the college of business administration is heartily in favor of the spring party. We hope it will unite the students of this college into an organized group and earnestly wish that it may make for closer social relationships with the university as a whole."

Dean LeRossignol further showed his attitude by purchasing a ticket for the affair, even though he is to act as one of the chaperones. Chaperones for the affair are: Dean and Mrs. J. E. LeRossignol; Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Arndt; and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kirshman.

Concerning the function he says: "The college of business administration hopes to make the Bizad Spring party an annual event, to be given each year as the first downtown party following the Junior-Senior Prom. Students from every college in the university are invited to attend."

Ticket sales to the fête will continue all week. Music for it will be furnished by Eddie Jungbluth and his orchestra while Harriet Cruise Kemmer and Lyle DeMoss, vocalists, are added features of entertainment.

SWIMMING MEET TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Open to University Men; Fresh Asked to Begin Daily Workouts.

Rudy Vogel, supervisor of intramural athletics, announced Monday that plans have been completed for an all-university swimming meet to be held Saturday, March 19, in the coliseum pool. Medals will be awarded first and second place winners in each event. Entries can be made this week and next at the intramural office in the coliseum.

Because graduation this spring will cause the loss of many varsity swimmers, Coach Vogel is especially desirous of having freshman aspirants begin working out daily at the pool now to prepare for competition next year. From 5 to 6 o'clock each day has been reserved for squad practice.

History Professor Says Every Age Believes Younger Generation Fast On Way to Proverbial Bow Wows

By ROSALIE LAMME.

"Every age believes that the younger generation is going to the dogs," affirmed Roy E. Cochran, professor of American history, "but a survey of social history would demonstrate that every age has its peculiar drawbacks. Materialism is the vice of our age."

"There are," continued Professor Cochran, "striking differences in the codes of conduct and standards of achievement of every age. What is perfectly proper for a man of prominence to do in one age is under the ban in another."

Mr. Cochran believes that the same differences may be discerned between the nations and civilizations for instance, those found between the orientals and the occidentals. During the colonial period everybody drank and there were no legal or social bars against it. On the other hand a man's religion was everybody's business, he said, for it was a period of compulsory religion.

Situation Reversed.

Now the situation is nearly reversed according to Prof. Cochran. It certainly was legal and quite

AMERICAN POLITICAL SCIENCE ASSN. MEETS

First Conference of Kind to Be Held in Nebraska; Fifty Attend.

MET FRIDAY, SATURDAY

A conference of county officials and those interested in county government was held under the auspices of the department of political science Friday and Saturday at the Cornhusker hotel. About fifty people, including county clerks and assessors, members of the legislature, faculty members of the university, representatives of the League of Women Voters, newspaper editors and visitors from universities in other states participated in the discussions.

The conference was the first such event held in Nebraska. It was made possible by a plan recently adopted by the American Political Science Association whereby funds are provided by the association to states wishing to conduct such a conference. The political science department of the university, of which Prof. John P. Senning is head, formulated the plans for the Nebraska conclave and secured the approval of the American Political Science Association.

One of the provisions stipulated by the national association is that representatives of the press shall be excluded from the meetings of the conferences. This provision is expected to insure a freer discussion and forestall the using of the conference by some officials as a means of making political capital. Lancaster Leads Discussion.

The conference convened Friday morning with some introductory remarks by J. P. Senning. Prof. Lane W. Lancaster, teacher of municipal government in the political science department, led the

ATHLETIC BOARD REORGANIZED AT EASTERN SCHOOL

Syracuse University Places Student Member on Equal Basis With Others.

FOUR CONSTITUTE PANEL

Two Alumni, Faculty Member and President Student Body Form Group.

Completely reorganizing the athletic board of control this year, Syracuse university has placed one student member on the board with powers equal to those of other members of the board, Milton C. Weiler, president of the student body at that institution, reports.

Before the inauguration of the new system, the board was composed of the graduate manager of athletics, the vice-chancellor, two members of the faculty, two alumni, three or four trustees, and the president of the student body and two elected juniors. These students had no voting power.

This group, according to Weiler, was too large and unwieldy to act efficiently, and the need for reorganization was felt. This year the whole athletic association was reorganized under the head of the athletic board of directors, a group which has so far proved much more efficient.

Student On Board.

The members of the newly organized board are: a faculty representative, two alumni, one of whom is a trustee, and the student member, who is the president of the student body. He automatically becomes a member, and his term of office is one year.

"The members of the board have seemed to enjoy having a student representative sit with them and bring the problems of the athletes and the students before them," Weiler states in his letter. "They have thought well enough of the idea to suggest the placing of the authority to make black 'S' awards into the hands of the student element."

MARCH COMIC TO GO ON SALE NEXT WEEK

Awgwan Uses Spring Motif; Editor Announces New Improvements.

TO PRINT MORE COPIES

The March number of the Awgwan will be released for sale about the middle of next week. Editor Marvin Robinson said Monday. The March issue features a spring motif and will reveal a great deal of interesting material along this theme, he commented.

"A great many more improvements in the form and appearance of the magazine have been made this month and the addition and enlargement of several departments makes the spring issue better than any previous edition," stated Robinson.

One of the leading features this month is a story by J. T. Coffey entitled, "Roses Are Red, Violets Are—Tw You Know What They Are." "Gore," by the Snappers is another distinct feature dealing with many intimate details and personal sayings of campus people written in the famous Winchell style. The Campus Tempo department, which met with acclaim last month, has been enlarged.

"This issue will contain more material than any previous edition and the Awgwan should again meet the approval of the campus," said Robinson. More copies are being printed to cope with the demand due to the fact that last month the supply was wiped off the stands the first day and the newstands failed to receive their quota.

A large amount of material from recent issues has been reprinted in other comic magazines throughout the country. Among those reprinting material from the Awgwan are: Temple University Owl, Wisconsin Octopus, Grinnell Maltaser, and the Utah Humbub.

The choruses have been rehearsing every night under the direction of Ralph Ireland. Don Easterday and Roger Wilkerson have been assisting Ireland with the choruses. The two choruses of ten men each, have not been definitely selected.

The position of president for next year goes to the senior delegate of Alpha Phi, who will be Elizabeth Barber, Lincoln. The junior delegate of Alpha Chi Omega, as yet not appointed, will serve as secretary.

A new advisory committee will be elected at the next meeting, which will take place the first Monday in April. The University senate will submit the names of three faculty members, one of which will be elected next time to serve as Panhellenic chairman for next year. This will also take place at the next meeting.

The council had a prolonged discussion of the revision of summer rushing rules. It is recommended by the present advisory committee that the rules be changed to allow only two summer parties to be given by each group and to do away with intensive individual rushing.

BAND GETS SEVEN NEW INSTRUMENTS

Five Foot Drum, Two Lyres, Four Special Trumpets Purchased.

EQUIPMENT OUTSTANDING

A five foot drum mounted on a carriage, two new lyres and four special trumpets made their appearance with the R. O. T. C. band at the Nebraska-Creighton basketball game, Monday night. The new equipment was purchased from funds that have been set aside for that purpose.

Nebraska is the only school in the Big Six that can boast of having such extensive equipment, according to John K. Selleck, director of student activities. The company that manufactured the gigantic drum had to visit several stock yards in Chicago before they could find a hide big enough for the drum.

The two silver lyres are ornamented with a silver tassel on each side. The four trumpets will be decorated with Nebraska colors. A special belt will be required to help carry the lyres.

The athletic department had an opportunity to view an up to date band at the Northwestern game last fall. Both Purdue and Northwestern bands had equipment similar to that recently purchased by Nebraska. It was observed at the Big Ten football game that the formation for the band was to have the two lyres behind the drum major and to have the trumpets following the lyres, the rest of the band coming on behind.

"I believe that the new equipment will add to the interest of Cornhusker fans. The lyres are very beautiful to hear. I was very much impressed with those at Northwestern," Mr. Selleck said.

The new instruments will be used in the band concerts this year, in the R. O. T. C. parades and at football games.

Definitions Many and Varied as Campus Males List Qualities to Be Desired in Their Ideal Girl

By GRETCHEN SCHRAG.

What is the ideal girl of the average college man? Several men students think that there is no such thing as an ideal girl. The requirements which they give vary from "hair without a permanent" to "being a lady."

"I'd rather she'd have sense than be good looking," declared Russell Mousel, business manager of the 1932 Cornhusker and a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. "She should be pleasant and agreeable, but she should have a mind of her own."

Edwin Faulkner, Phi Kappa Psi, and president of the student council, says: "I have no time to figure that out. I do think, however, the most important quality any girl can have is a pleasing personality. It is hard to judge this quality. It is indefinable. But it is the most important attribute any girl can have."

The editor of the Awgwan, Marvin Robinson, member of Delta Upsilon, states: "My ideal girl should be able to carry on an intelligent conversation. This ability is a great asset in any girl. Beauty appeals to me as much as anything," he continued. "I am usually influenced by a pretty face. I like to see poise in a girl. Mind and beauty are relative qualities. But I do think a girl should be a good sport."

"My ideal girl is a brunette who never gets a permanent and I don't like people with smeary lips," declared Art Wolf, Sigma Phi Sigma, who is editor-in-chief of the Daily Nebraskan. "Above all, however, I want her to have common sense."

Substitution.

"Life is made up of substitutions for ideals," believes Harry Foster, Alpha Tau Omega. "There is no such thing as an ideal girl, but we must learn to reconcile ourselves to a substitute."

"She must have a cheerful disposition; be a companionable and

SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE AWARDED THIS YEAR BY A. A. U. W.

Lincoln Group Announces Awards to Be Made to Coeds.

CONSIDER TWO THINGS

Scholarship, Need Is Basis; Apply From March 19 Until April 3.

Two hundred dollars in scholarships will be awarded to junior and senior university coeds by the Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women, it was announced Monday by Miss Gertrude Beers, chairman of the A. A. U. W. scholarship committee.

This is a custom which the Lincoln A. A. U. W. has followed for a number of years. Awards are based upon scholarship and need, although campus activities will be taken into consideration in making the award. "However," Miss Beers said, "if a girl has been too occupied with her school work and her employment to take part in activities on the campus this will not be held against her in making the selection."

Any girl who will be a junior or senior next year is eligible to file. It makes no difference what college she is registered in. All applicants should be sure, however, that if they receive the award they will be able to return to school next year.

Scholarships Are Gifts.

These scholarships are gifts and the girls receiving them will be under no obligation whatever. One-half the scholarship will be awarded each semester. The committee may use its own discretion in deciding whether to give two $50 scholarships and one $100 scholarship or four $50 awards. Of recent years there have been so many applicants that the committee has made four $50 awards.

Application blanks for the scholarships may be obtained at the office of Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women, at Ellen Smith hall. They should be submitted to Miss Gertrude Beers, Teachers College 119, between the dates of March 19 and April 3. It is important that all applications be in at the appointed time as announcement of the award will be included
