This Mental Unemployment.

Much has been said in the past few months in regard to unemployment and much has been said about the unemployment of the future.

The "golden age of reason" seems to be definitely a peak in the history of civilization and there are no indications that there will soon be another of a like nature.

From that day to this the almighty dollar has reigned as king. The greatest man is the man with the most money.

Universities were first imbued with the ideals of a search for knowledge. They have since degenerated into a place where knowledge is traded about.

A college graduate is supposed to be possessed of a certain amount of knowledge and culture. He is at least supposed to be outfitted with a correct thinking apparatus which will work.

The search for knowledge is not carried out as it should be. Cultural and intellectual achievements are not looked for.

Ethics of Rushing.
The Interfraternity Council has approved a rushing honor code and referred it to member organizations for approval.

The code, if followed, would eliminate dissatisfaction caused by the loose rushing system that is employed now.

The remaining three rules are calculated to stop cut throat rushing. Their approval is necessarily uncertain, for many organizations are used to the present system, and dislike the thought of being restrained.

the shyster lawyer, and the other less prominent members of the underworld will reach a pinnacle where nothing short of a revolution will overthrow them, or drastic measures will have to be introduced that will "ride" the gangster and his henchmen forever off the face of our portion of the map.

The situation is before you, as college students, as future business leaders, political leaders, educators, journalists, doctors and hoi polloi. Editorials, news stories, lectures and magazine articles are of little avail.

Adoption Or Rejection?
Discussion continues, pointing toward—or rather, hoping for—establishment of debate as a part of the intramural program.

Progress has been made since the proposal was advanced early in the semester—and certain side controversies have developed which threaten to becloud the main issue.

Now Professor White, varsity debate coach, asserts there has been no decline in interest in debate. And the discussion seems to center around this disputed point.

All the argument as to whether or not interest in debate has declined is beside the point. The question at issue is the establishment of intramural debating.

Delta Sigma Rho, debate honorary, has undertaken direct sponsorship of the move. At a meeting last week a committee was appointed to take steps toward the establishment of such a program.

Rudy Vogeler, intramural athletic director, some time ago said institution of such a plan would be easy. The single requirement was laid down: that student interest in such a project must be shown.

Farmers Fair Finance.
Now that the committee members have been announced, students on the college of agriculture are making ready for their annual Farmer's Fair to be held Saturday, May 7.

The senior fair board which is composed of some of the most prominent seniors in the college is attempting to do something radical this year in featuring educational exhibits.

The proposed rules, backed only by a mild penalty, are really a code of ethics that has already been observed in part by conscientious fraternities.

TREND OF THE TIMES

For many years people who wanted to learn of election returns have crowded eagerly around the newspaper offices. Newspapers have generally accepted this charting of returns as their job.

It may be tough on seniors, but at the University of Oklahoma degrees may be withheld from students who habitually break the rules of grammar.

A Kansas City Star editorial, "Knowledge from Experience" has some of this stuff called "food for thought" and here are just a few excerpts.

"Claims and counter claims, based upon statistics that prove nothing, for example, have done much to confuse the American people with respect to the question of prohibition...."

"Another generation is coming on which does not know the truth from actual experience." "Emerson once said, 'Only so much do I know as I have lived.' If that be true, there is little hope for the human race."

meeting of the year.

"The change, if it is effected, can result in no particular benefit to the students, and it can do them no harm. The present board functions very effectively, but as other schools use the proposed plan, there is no reason why it could not work at Nebraska," the dean added, summarizing the whole situation.

PORTRAITS WILL SOON BE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Paintings by Miss Dolan in Founders Hall Are Almost Ready.

MORRILL LEAVES MONEY
The four portraits, painted by Miss Elizabeth Dolan of Lincoln for the Founders Hall in Morrill hall will soon be open to the public.

Miss Dolan Chosen.
Miss Elizabeth Dolan was chosen as the artist to paint these pictures. Miss Dolan has done much creditable work in Morrill hall on her background murals which provide a fitting atmosphere for the fossils of prehistoric days.

On the opposite side of the west side of the room is the portrait of Mrs. Morrill. She is seen seated on the porch of her Stromsburg home, dressed in an elegant gown of lavender silk.

Dr. Samuel Avery, on the east wall, is standing with a pillar in the background. This is supposed to represent the buildings that he helped to have built during his administration as chancellor of the university.

On the opposite side of the west side of the room is the portrait of Mrs. Morrill. She is seen seated on the porch of her Stromsburg home, dressed in an elegant gown of lavender silk.

Dr. E. H. Barbour, on the opposite side of the west half of the Founders room, is standing in the foreground, while sand colored hills of typical topography of the counties in Northwestern Nebraska, where Dr. Barbour and Mr. Morrill labored long, searching for prehistoric fossils, are recognized.

Miss Dolan painted the portraits of Dr. Avery and Dr. Barbour from real life, and the pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Morrill were done from pictures that she was able to obtain.

Ultra-conservative socialites of the University of Arizona have brought attention to themselves by announcing they would don tuxedos for all evening dates. Confusion is apparent for at the theater many of these "cavaliers" have been mistaken for the ushers.

MUSICAL RECITAL IS GIVEN

Margaret Mackecknie Held First Senior Recital of Season.

The first senior recital of the season, featuring Miss Margaret Mackecknie, student with Maude Fender Gutzmer, was an event of Sunday afternoon. Miss Mackecknie is a student of the School of Music.

The program's initial number, "Die Loreley," by Liszt, was outstanding, being accompanied by a string ensemble with pleasing effect. The program:

SHORT STORY, POETRY DEADLINE MARCH 15

Only Nebraska Writers May Compete in Writers' Guild Contest.

Tuesday, March 15, is the deadline for manuscripts to be submitted for the short story and poetry contest of the Nebraska Writers' Guild. They should be mailed to Theodore Diers, secretary, Nebraska Writers' Guild, Station A, Lincoln.

The Lincoln newspapers are donating cash prizes for the short story contest. Manuscripts will be accepted in this contest only from Nebraska writers. Prizes are fifty dollars, thirty dollars and twenty dollars for first, second and third places.

In the poetry contest a prize of fifty dollars will be awarded for the best contribution, regardless of whether or not the author is a resident of Nebraska. Twenty-five dollars will be awarded for the best poem written by a Nebraskan, and it is possible that a Nebraska poet win both prizes.

Drawing by Miss Faulkner Appears in Pencil Point
Miss Kady B. Faulkner, instructor in Drawing and Painting in the Fine Arts college, has had a drawing lithographed in the Pencil Point magazine this month.

Men's Commercial Club to Meet March 16
A meeting of the Men's Commercial club will be held Wednesday evening in the Commercial clubroom at 7 o'clock for invitation of pledges. All activities are urged to be present.

A cut of 5 to 10 percent in the salaries of the faculty of Kentucky university has been made. The university is at present facing a deficit of $220,000.
