Sutherland will arrive Wednesday night according to present plans, which will allow for a day's practice before the preliminaries Friday.

Since this is Olympic year, keener interest and competition is being displayed over the meet, and a host of stars from the entire nation have sent in entries.

Lobdell Favored. Lobdell, University of Iowa star, is favored to cop the diving championship. The Iowa boy, against whom Sutherland has competed in midwestern A. U. championships, placed second in the 1931 tank meet.

Five required and five optional dives are listed on the Olympic schedule for the meet. Required dives include the front jack knife, backward somersault, backward spring, front somersault, full gainer and full twist.

HAYSEED and HAYWIRE By GEORGE ROUND

Three uptown coaches in the athletic department seem to be afraid of playing basketball with the faculty quintet at the college of agriculture.

Practically all of the student body on the Ag campus would turn out to see such a game of basketball. They would be backing the college faculty team too.

Just another one for Kleinbecker. They say that a woman living on a farm in central Nebraska recently found a gold nugget of unknown value in the gizzard of a chicken.

Another prominent sorority on the campus is going in for "hell" week in a big way since this is Leap Year.

Delphian Nash, head of the barb faction, says the sorority girls on the University of Nebraska campus are claiming too much honor when it comes to scholastic standing.

Bobby Kinoshita, 118 pound mid-western A. A. U. boxing champion, and a student at the Nebraska medical college in Omaha headlines an outstanding fistic menu offered up to university students Thursday evening when the All-University boxing tournament is staged at the coliseum.

Kinoshita, a Hawaiian, has won this particular A. A. U. crown for three years, and according to those who have seen him work really has the stuff.

Then there will be Bernard Malcolm, state A. A. U. champion in the 147 pound division and Houston, runnerup in the same class. Les Sellentine and Leland Copple are two more entrants who should lend plenty of spice to the evening's program.

Hugh Rhea might have gone out to 51 feet in the shot put Friday afternoon at an exhibition before high school athletes at the stadium. The Arlington boy was in a mood to throw the ball away, but the toe board gave way causing Rhea to strain a knee muscle.

Hugh is planning his spring campaign with great thoroughness, for he wants to be at the peak in June for the national meet and the Olympic trials. He weighs 224 pounds at the present time.

More Ideal Girl Qualities Listed At Irish School

Notre Dame seniors decided in a survey that in the ideal girl of 1932 the type of beauty is relatively unimportant. However she must have a sense of humor, femininity, mental and physical attractiveness, frankness, domestic ability, and be able to dance and dress well.

Crete basketball team plays his position with the skill of a college performer. Outstanding high school centers are quite a rarity as a rule, but Kobes displayed all the earmarks of a fine player. He combined an excellent floor game with an unusually accurate basket eye, and was invariably found at the right place at the right time.

According to reports from Crete, there is some likelihood that Kobes may go to West Point, but don't be surprised if he enrolls at Nebraska in the fall.

Four Wesleyan trackmen worked out on the Husker indoor oval Monday afternoon. Bob Gibb, Crete, football captain-elect and basketball mainstay at Wesleyan was included in the list. Henry Schulte has issued a standing invitation to high school and college teams to take advantage of the stadium facilities.
